HOLIDAY

Up mountain-road, down valley road
Flags flying from each shield,
Past orchard, lane, and garden-plot,
And laden berry field,

The cars go forth and out and on
To every place in reach,
Till half the town's abroad today
At mountain-place and beach.

Vacation Time

No one need question the necessity for cessation, for a brief period during the year, from the daily routine of your work. There are sound physiological, mental, social, and economic reasons for a vacation period. The physical energy upon which you have constantly drawn must be renewed and increased. That tired, listless feeling, the accumulation of your repeated and heavy responses to the demands of your work, must be dispelled. Your visions and ideals must not only be maintained but also enlarged. And, finally, your mental and physical condition must be so guarded that your earning capacity be not impaired.

Wonderful scenery, cooling winds, and the normal human response to all that is living in the realms of nature have made it customary for the vacation period to be allotted to one of the summer months. Transportation facilities—the train, the boat, and the automobile—make it possible for you to visit every nook and corner of the world. Whether you should have solitude or should seek the excitement of crowds is for you to decide; you may have either. Choose, however, that which is entirely foreign to your daily mode of life and of play. Keep away from anything that resembles an activity that is routine to you. Give your mind complete relaxation.

Your physical activities should, at all times, be so apportioned that there should be no need to "rest up" after your return from your return from your vacation. Whatever exercise you indulge in see that it is in keeping with your physical requirements. Avoid excesses of any kind. Give proper and careful attention to the food you eat and to the water you drink. Bear in mind that typhoid fever and other intestinal diseases and disorders may be easily acquired from contaminated food and water supplies. Maintain and exercise your knowledge of sanitary decency.

Your vacation will have been merited and successful if, upon your return, you are mentally and physically refreshed, and are not only ready but also eager to resume your daily activities.
