WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

PASSING AT SPEED

Some states are making the speed with which cars pass other cars. A car going a reasonably rapid rate should not be passed. To get by it requires more speed than is safe. The traffic police watch for the driver who must get ahead of everyone else.

GET TOGETHER: END ACCIDENTS

Major General John F. O'Ryan, commander of the Twenty-seventh Division in the World War, who is chairman of the Public Safety Committee Bureau of the Westchester (N. Y.) County Chamber of Commerce, believes that motorists and pedestrians should stop blaming each other for accidents and, instead, familiarize themselves with the traffic laws and regulations and make an end of accidents.

Oregon Has Low Child Death Rate

In low infant mortality rates, Washington and Oregon head the lists of 30 states and the District of Columbia. Only 51 children in Washington and only 53 in Oregon out of every thousand born during 1923 died during their first year, according to a recent infant mortality report issued by the American Child Health association of New York City, of which Herbert Hoover is president.

Washington and Oregon have exchanged places in the infant mortality list during the past year. At the time of the 1923 report Oregon held first place and Washington was listed second. The 1923 report recording statistics from the 584 cities of more than 10,000 population in the birth registration area places Washington first.

Although 78 infant deaths out of every thousand births is the average infant mortality record for all the cities within the birth registration area, wide variations from this average are found in individual cities. For example, Santa Cruz, Cal., and Winchester, Mass., have a record of only 26, the lowest record in the 584 cities.

As in 1922, Pacific coast states again lead all sections of the country in low infant mortality rates. Besides Washington and Oregon, California stands among the first four states of the birth registration area having the lowest number of infant deaths. The entire sectional average for Washington, Oregon and California is only 57.

Grouping all the cities by size it is clear that the largest cities in the country have the lowest infant mortality rates. Comparatively a larger number of infant deaths occur in cities between 10,000 and 25,000 population, as the following table will show:

Table with columns for Population, Rate. Shows rates for various population ranges from over 250,000 to 19,000-25,000.

CLAIMS MADE FOR SEERESS MUNCH, June 16.—(Mail)—Elsbeth Ebertin claims to know what is destined to happen in Germany in 1924-1927.

The American Child Health association's report has become an annual record designed to interest the entire country in the reduction of infant mortality and in the vital necessity for birth registration. The report is part of the nation wide program of the American Child Health association to further the cause of child health. Statistics for all the cities within the birth registration area were secured from the United States bureau of census. Other data concerning birth registration which is included in the report was gathered directly from state and local authorities.

Comparative rates for the cities in Washington and Oregon during 1922 and 1923 are as follows:

California Growers Fix Price for Year's Crop

The California Walnut Growers Association, in a recent issue of its "Diamond Walnut News," says that San Bernardino and Riverside counties soon expect to produce big tonnages and adds: "Most of the walnut growers located in the old and proved walnut territory have little idea of the recent rapid expansion of the California walnut industry. But comparatively few years ago the commercial production of walnuts in San Bernardino and Riverside counties was considered as a joke."
