Between 40 and 50 of the Willamette valley players tried out the course over the week-end. The formal opening was July 4, with a salute of 13 guns being fired.

The course is located just back of Agate beach, toward the lighthouse and on the side of a hill. The Newport-Agate Beach Country club, as it is called, has already built a small club house. The grounds were laid out by Rex Sanford of Salem, who was among the many local people spending a few days at the beach last week. Mr. Sanford has spent considerable time there since the course was first started about a month alone in case of fire. It was decided a short time ago to remove the Silver creek system, but, as this is not possible, a chlorine plant will be installed there as well as on the Abiqua. Following a recent test of water which showed contamination at the intakes it was thought that a chlorine plant at Abqua would be all that would be sufficient. Too low pressure, however, makes plants on both streams necessary.
