Communist Refused Oath By Burgmaster

DORTMUND, Germany, July 4. Two communists who were elected as deputies of the town council were red gloves at the initial meeting of the body. When the time came for the new members to raise their right hands and take the oath of office, all the other deputies removed their gloves, as is customary in Germany, but the communists refused to do so. The burgmaster declined to swear them unless they removed their hand covering for the occasion.

After a lively discussion the communists drew the gloves from their hands and threw them on the floor, in defiance of the council, and stalked out of the room. They attend all meetings, but as yet have not been sworn in, and so far as the other deputies are concerned, are not considered full fledged members of the town's law making body.

Soviet Navy Fears Sea Sickness More Than Guns

RIGA, Latvia, June 15. (Mail.)--Seasickness is a great handicap to the activities of the Soviet navy, says naval expert Lukashovich in an article in the Soviet press discussing the necessity for long-distance cruising for the red fleet.

He who laughs last laughs least and he who laughs first usually has a complete set of gold teeth.
