SOCIALLY distinctive among the season's nuptials was the wedding yesterday which united in marriage Miss Margaret Marian Alden, only daughter of Dean and Mrs. George H. Alden, and Mr. William Henry Abel of Los Angeles. Mr. Abel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Abel of San Francisco.

The impressive ritual was read by Dr. Carl Gregg Doney, the ceremony being performed at 8:30 o'clock in the chapel of Waller hall. A wall of pink hollyhocks formed the altar where pink candles in brass candlesticks burned throughout the service. A lovely brass candelabra stood in the background, in the shadow of which Miss Kathleen La Raut, accompanied at the piano by Miss Eloise Reed, sang "At Dawning," preceding the entire service. Lehigh's stately march, as the wedding procession, was played by Miss Bruce Putnam, with violin obligato by Donald Parker of Portland. Soft strains of bridal music mingled with the words of the ceremony.

Two dainty flower girls, Natalie Neer and Elaine Sherman, in frocks of pink, little Miss Natalie carrying a single white lily, and little Miss Elaine a tulip-tied basket of rose petals, preceded the bride party down the aisle.

The bride, charming in her wedding gown of beaded Canton crepe, approached the altar on the arm of her father who gave her away. She wore a train veil with bands of orange blossoms and adornment of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of Cecil Brunner roses and sweet peas with maiden-hair fern.

Ushers were Rodney Alden, Edward Warren, and Robert Van Rensselaer.

A reception followed the service, at the home of the bride's parents. The colonial motif was carried out in every particular. A large colonial bouquet of mixed flowers centered the large dining table with similar smaller bouquets on the tables about the room at which the guests were seated. Mrs. E. C. Richards presided as dining room hostess. Mrs. Carl Gregg Doney and Mrs. C. P. Bishop cut the ices. They were assisted in the serving by Frances Hodge, Janet Ashby, Gertrude West, Bruce Putnam, Genevieve Endicott, and Helen Gatte, intimate friends of the bride. The living room was decorated in white and yellow.

Mr. and Mrs. Abel left late last evening for a short wedding trip after which they will make their home in Los Angeles where Mr. Abel is engaged in business. Mrs. Abel who attended Willamette university for two years, has since 1922 attended art school in Los Angeles. Mr. Abel is a University of Oregon man.

With 250 invitations issued for the service, a large number of out-of-town guests were present for the evening. Among these were Robert Schuyler Van Rensselaer of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Abel of San Francisco, Miss Viola Page, Miss Mary E. Page, and Miss Gertrude West of Seattle; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Richardson of Sherwood, Donald Parker, and Dr. and Mrs. Prince Page of Portland.

Prior to her marriage she spent some time in Boston, living later in England.

A HOT WEATHER LUNCH—In very hot weather, when you do not wish to eat heavily or of heating foods, a very nice luncheon combination is a salad with some acid fruits in it, such as pineapple, orange and strawberries or other berries, served with biscuits, made with cream of tartar or baking powder, and white clover honey and as a beverage milk, or fresh hot tea, served Russian style with slices of lemon, or a tall glass of iced tea or lemonade.

Here is a recipe for cream of tartar biscuits, of the "mother used to make" variety:
Str 2 teaspoons of cream of tartar, 1 of soda, ½ teaspoon of salt, and a tablespoon of lard into a pint of flour. Mix it with either milk or water; handling it as little as possible. Roll it and cut into rounds, and bake in a fairly hot oven 12 to 15 minutes. Baking powder may be substituted for the cream of tartar and soda.

THE SHIPPERS AND CANNERS ARE BUSY

King Bing and Prince Lambert Come Back to Their Own Again This Year

The number of cars of black cherries shipped from Salem this year will probably reach about 55; with a number from other points in this district, like Sheridan, Dallas, Hubbard, Woodburn, etc.

King Bing and Prince Lambert have come back to rule the Cherry City of the World.

Most of the shippers are through, or about through; but O. E. Brooks, manager of "the pool," shipping for and under the name of the Salem Cherry Growers' association, will have three to five more cars yet to ship. He is still going strong, at the headquarters of the Pacific Fruit and Produce company.

The returns of the first "pool" car netted 18 cents; and the second better than that. They are going to New York.

Must Be Sprayed
But these Lamberts are good and clean. They have been sprayed. Mr. Brooks says black cherries must be sprayed three times the first year, and twice after that. If all growers will spray, they will get rid of the worms entirely.

Washington has a law to compel spraying, or to have it done by the state authorities and assessed to the orchards. Something like that must be done here.

At the Canneries
The canneries are running on cherries, white and black, and red and black raspberries and loganberries. Most of these, especially the loganberries, will last to the middle or end of next week, or even longer.

Then there will be a lull in canning till the first part of August, when evergreen blackberries will keep them all busy; then pears, prunes, apples, etc., with some squashes. It is going to be a great canning year.

High Pear Prices
The outlook is for high pear prices. The first offers were at $50 for No. 1 and $30 for No. 2 Bartlett's. There were later offers at $60 and $40 a ton; and the indications now are that No. 1 Bartlett's will soon be selling at $70 a ton or higher for canning purposes.

Prunes Look Better
A lot of prunes are going out in fresh shipments. Young & Wells of Spokane, who have been shipping black cherries from Saleh, are to be back after prunes. So are other buyers.

The dried prune market looks better, especially for the large sizes of last year's pack. These will, from the present outlook, very soon be bringing 8 cents a pound for 30-40's and 6 ½ for 25-45's, and 5 ½ for 40-50's. The Oregon Growers Cooperative association people, with a large tonnage of these sizes on hand from last year, are "sitting pretty."

The pack of the present season is a good way off, and it will run to small sizes; the same in California. The large sizes will all be wanted, at reasonable prices.

GIRL ATTACKED, SHE ALLEGES

Hebb O'Green of Salem Held in Polk County Jail Following Complaint

DALLAS, Ore., July 9 (Special)—Charged with an attack upon Miss Marna Auman, 20, of Salem, Hebb O'Green, 32, also of Salem, is being held in the Polk county jail here following an alleged assault committed on a swimming beach on the Willamette near Salem late Tuesday afternoon.

O'Green was identified by Miss Auman, her sister, Hazel, and Ethel Keeney and Lois Keppinger, her companions.

The girls had gone in swimming about 4 o'clock, with the exception of Miss Auman, who remained on the bank. O'Green, who had been in the water, appeared from behind some brush and grabbed her. Miss Auman told the officers. She managed to break away and ran toward the other girls; the man disappearing back into the brush.

W. P. Lewis, proprietor of the West Salem camp ground, and Deputy Sheriff Imlah were called and O'Green was later captured and turned over to Sheriff John Orr, of Polk county. O'Green is said to have been working at odd jobs around Salem for several years and admitted having served 30 months in the Montana state prison for horse stealing in addition to having spent some time in jails at Bozeman and Livingston, Mont.
