A Will Draw A Century Ago

Differs greatly from the modern Will. Then the purpose was merely to distribute the property. But the business man of today seeks to assure a steady income for the members of his family long after he has gone.

To accomplish this, he appoints a Bank as Executor or Trustee; a corporate entity which never dies, travels, or falls ill; and which makes a specialty of handling Estates.

Talk this over confidentially with one of our officers.

rary Friday. She was graduated from Willamette university in 1921, and later took a librarian training course in Los Angeles, returning to Salem about a month ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ammann and family left for Newport yesterday to enjoy a two weeks' outing at the beach. Mr. Ammann is custodian of the Oregon building.

Belknap Springs will welcome Mr. and Mrs. Carey F. Martin and family, who will leave for an outing Sunday.

W. F. Powers is spending a few days at Newport. He is expected back in Salem by the middle of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crain and daughter, Barbara, spent a day in Salem after returning from a vacation trip to the Coos Bay district. They proceeded to Portland, where they will visit relatives until Sunday. Mr. Crain is managing editor of the Capital Journal.

Mrs. C. D. Bevier of Detroit and Mrs. N. D. Cornelius of Mill City were shopping in Salem Friday.

William McGilchrist, Jr., left for Newport Friday to spend the week-end with his family, who are at the beach.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST
What do you think?—Possibly gold mines under the red hills.

No; not in the red dirt. That is iron; volcanic ash. But in the rocks below the red dirt.

Also, going to bore for oil out that way. Just beyond the Country club district.

Hood River cherry king, J. R. Nunamaker, got a check for $12,701.83, his returns for his cherry crop from four acres; 6072 boxes; Royal Anns, $1.44 a box; Bings, $2.67; Lamberts, $3.19. Shipped fresh to eastern markets. Can you beat it? Our cherry kings of the Cherry City of the World must beat it. But it is a high mark to shoot at.

Everything is being done that can be done to get the egg laying contests for Salem. If we win, it will be a big victory; and the chances look good.

In the good old days of chivalry men stood up for women, but a Salem Heights man says there were no street cars then.

The best laws are those that are never enacted.

With wheat above $1.50 a bushel, keeping the "discontented farmer" discontented is going to be some job for the spellbinders of the hell-roaring parties of dem-dition and the everlasting howlows.

The big question is, will the people or the lower house of congress select our president? It is a real question, sure as you are a foot high.

"Our Hospitality" At Oregon Sunday

"Our Hospitality," Buster Keaton's second feature-length comedy, is coming to the Oregon tomorrow. This picture is described as an entirely new style of comedy. Aside from the Keatonesque situations, which are a staple part of the frozen-faced laugh artist's comedies, the story depicts the history of America during the railroad building era—one of the greatest periods in the growth of the country.

Much of the humor of the story is developed from the quaintness of social conditions of the time. The delightfully quaint humor offers also a correct historical picture. Fans are due for a distinct shock when they see Buster as William McKay, the serious youth who returns to settle the affairs of his family, who have been killed off by the Canfields. The night of a smart looking, small statured lad, dressed in the elegant foppery of America in 1830, but with a sad, hauntingly familiar face, will greet their eyes. The pancake hat, baggy trousers and floppy shoes will give way to a high beaver hat, a Chesterfield frock coat and a pair of light gray trousers shaped to the contour of the leg and fitting down over the shoes.

The cast of this Joseph M. Schenck-Metro comedy epic is an all-Keaton affair. Natalie Talmadge Keaton, Buster's wife, returns to the screen in the leading feminine role. Buster II, Buster's father, Joseph Keaton, originator of the famous "Three Keatons" of vaudeville fame, helps round out the family participation. Non-family players include Joe Roberts, Kitty Bradbury and Ralph E. Bushman, son of Francis X. Bushman. Buster Keaton and Jack Blystone directed, Fred Gabouri was art director, and Elgin Lesley and Gordon Jennings did the camera work.
