

CAMP OLOGY

Prepared in the interest of the Auto Camper
Western Auto Supply Co.

The running board filling station has become almost a part of the car, especially during the touring season. There is an ever increasing demand for these touring units that prove to be a friend in need when the car runs out of fuel or water.

These sets consist of three containers which are held in a case that is clamped to the running board. The unit is compact, substantial and does not detract from the appearance of the car. The three containers are painted different colors to avoid any confusion regarding their contents.

The outstanding feature of this set is that the spouts swing back when not in use and are fitted into depressions in the tops of the containers. This operation also closes the valve in the spout, thereby eliminating any possible waste. The gasoline and water containers hold two gallons each and the oil can carries slightly over a gallon.

Road Courtesy may be likened to the air in the tires. It costs nothing, yet it certainly does smooth out the bumps. Try it and discover why.

Light for Camp

How to light the camp? Of the many types of electric, carbide, and gas lamps, the gas lamp that burns the regular automobile fuel will best answer the purpose for an all-around camp light. Electric lights may be used but the trouble with this sort of equipment is that it gives a concentrated light rather than dispensing an equal amount of light throughout the camp.

A gasoline lantern of the Coleman type seems best suited for camp use as it throws a 300 candlepower light and will burn for forty hours on a single gallon of gasoline. It affords a brilliant white light that illuminates the entire surroundings, enabling the camper to cook or read after dark.

It is a safe means of obtaining light as it is impossible to spill the fuel, thereby eliminating any danger of fire should the lamp be dropped or overturned. One filling should last for a week under ordinary camping conditions, and if the lamp is packed in its original inal carton each morning there will be no necessity for replacing the mantels during the entire trip.

A book of traveler's cheques, issued by the bank or express companies is a great convenience, and provides a safe way of carrying money while touring.

Vacuum Food Jars

The preservation of food is most essential. For those who do not have an ice box included in their equipment, a thermalware jug will keep the food or liquids at an even temperature. The gallon capacity is constructed on the double jar plan with a vacuum between the two containers. The wide mouth permits bulky foods such as salads, chicken, ice cream, etc., to be inserted and removed with ease. It is equally efficient for liquids and will keep water ice cold for a long time.

Do not pile camp goods on the front bumper as it will obstruct the front of the radiator and retard the circulation of the water in the cooling system. A combination rear bumper and luggage carrier may be had that will provide protection and accommodate the luggage as well.

AVIATOR ESCAPES DEATH NARROWLY

Risks Own Life to Prevent Crash With Another Plane While in Air

SEATTLE, Aug. 12.—Risking his own life rather than take a chance of injuring another flier in an inevitable crash, Lieutenant F. H. Conant of the navy air fleet, miraculously escaped serious injury in a spectacular wreck at Sand Point aviation field northeast of here, late today. Lieutenant Conant's plane was demolished. The aviator suffered only minor injuries.

Lieutenant Conant was returning from an all day inspection cruise of landing fields around Puget Sound and was preparing to land at Sand Point when he observed a civilian plane settling to earth directly in the path he had chosen. His engine was stopped. Rather than collide with the other machine, he pointed his plane in a vertical bank and fell 200 feet to the ground.

SCHOOL FRATS PROHIBITED

EUGENE, Or., Aug. 12.—The Eugene school board at its meeting here last night passed an act absolutely prohibiting the existence in high school circles of all existing or proposed secret societies. Copying the university of Oregon here, students have founded a number of "frats" and "sororities."

DENVER MAYOR WINS

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 12.—Conceding victory for Mayor Benjamin F. Stapleton in today's recall election over Dewey C. Bailey, former mayor, Stapleton's leading opponent, The Denver Post, which has been fighting Stapleton, tonight predicted the latter's majority will be 20,000.

EUGENE STARTING CLEAR LAKE WORK

Building of System to Conduct Mountain Water to City Is Planned

EUGENE, Or., Aug. 12.—That the city of Eugene may launch a good sized water project of its own, whether or not the Clear Lake project is constructed and put in operation, and avail itself of the cool mountain waters flowing down the McKenzie river, appeared quite certain at the meeting of the Eugene water board Monday night. The city engineer was authorized to investigate the feasibility of the project and report at once.

If the Clear Lake project becomes a reality the Eugene system would be so constructed as to readily link up with the others. Already Eugene has nearly completed a canal 15 miles long, paralleling the McKenzie river into the Cascades as far as Waltherville, carrying about 1,000 cubic feet per second and which will develop about 4,000 horsepower in the city's turbines now being installed. Any larger power demand will be met later by installing larger turbines to develop 5,000 horsepower.

SIEGE OF ROBBERS IN MINE IS LIFTED

Believe Three Fugitives Hiding in Treacherous Shaft Dead

PALISADE, Colo., Aug. 12.—The law today gave up the siege of Palisade mine, leaving, supposedly, three persons suspected of the recent $15,000 Palisade post office robbery within the workings of the mine to whatever fate may befall them. This ends ten exciting days and nights of hide and seek in a mine filled with treacherous passageways, long abandoned workings and deadly black damp.

Post office inspectors under Martin Wenger, who today quit the mine, believe that if the three persons, one of whom is believed to be a woman, are still in the workings they are dead.

REBELS BREAK LINES

CEUTA, Spanish Morocco, Aug. 12.—Moroccan rebels are reported to have broken through the French front between Fez and Tazza after defeating and routing the French troops at Oujarga, in the French-zone in Morocco. The rebels were in command of Caid Kushla Baggadi.

DENVER MAYOR UPHELD

DENVER, Aug. 12.—Mayor Benjamin F. Stapleton was given a two to one vote of confidence in today's recall election.

Germany's Oldest Woman Enjoys Witty Exchanges

HAMBURG, Germany, July 21.—(Mail)—Frau Johanna Prigge, who was born here 103 years ago, is believed to be the oldest woman in Germany. She enjoys excellent health, has an unimpaired and active mind, reads without glasses, occupies herself with complicated fancy work, and delights everybody with her humorous sallies.

After the death of her husband, who was a farmer near here, she took up residence with her eldest son, a teacher in Fallersleben. In the course of years all her children and children-in-law died, and the old lady moved on to Embsen in the county of Lüneburg, where she is living with her eldest grandson, a teacher named Stehn.

DESTROYERS ARE IN A COLLISION

Night Crash off Port Angeles Results in Slight Damages to Ships

PORT ANGELES, Wash., Aug. 12.—(By the AP.)—While engaged in night scouting maneuvers and running without lights 50 miles off Swiftrise lightship, near the entrance of the Strait of Juan de Fuca last night the destroyer Farenholt collided with the destroyer Litchfield, flagship of the United States battle fleet. The Farenholt had tried to cross the Litchfield's bow.

The Farenholt's starboard bow smashed against the Litchfield's bow plates denting several of them and carrying away one anchor. As the Farenholt scraped across the flagship's bow one of her propeller guards punched two holes in the flagship's hull below the waterline, the propeller guard tearing loose and remaining with the Litchfield.

Youth Escapes From Bend Jail; Threatens Officer

BEND, Ore., Aug. 14.—Marion Purcell, 19, who had been held since August 3 here, escaped from the county jail today when he cut his way through the brick wall with the aid of a knife. He left a note to Chief of Police Hanson, saying he would kill any state training school officers who appeared on his trail.

Purcell was said by officers to have escaped from the state training school at Centralia, Wash., prior to his arrest on a charge of robbing a farm house near here. Purcell's escape was the second within a month from the local jail.

Bandit Is Foiled in an Attempted Robbery

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 12.—After telling Miss Alice Rhodes, an employee of a candy store here, a bandit endeavored to "foot" the store's cash register. In failing, however, Miss Rhodes pulled an electric plug in the till which locked it automatically. The bandit, being unable to open the register, rejoined his companion in the doorway and escaped.

Rain Breaks N. Y. Heat Spell; Traffic Halted

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Trolley traffic was hampered, streets were flooded and small ships torn from their moorings as 3.02 inches of rain, welcome relief from the heat of several days, descended upon New York today, a record fall for the year. Two deaths were attributed indirectly to the storm.

passing of each day. The interest in The Statesman's great Seaside trip contest is growing. Every day new candidates file their nominations and enter the contest, and there are still plenty of opportunities for many more. In nearly every district there is an unusual opportunity for some enterprising young lady to enter the contest and secure enough popular free votes to insure her being chosen as the winner of one of the grand prizes.

The Votes and Candidates
The popular free votes are pouring into the office in a steady stream. The votes shown in the list today are those received up to yesterday noon. The revised list is published every day and every person has the opportunity of nominating a friend, or, if so desired, you can place your own name before the voters. Nominations are free. Votes are free and the magnificent list of prizes will be absolutely given away. See the voting schedule published daily.

Check over the list and cast your votes for your favorite if the name appears, if not, make a nomination at once. If there is anything about the contest that you do not understand, write, call or telephone to the Contest Manager, for he will be pleased to give your requests prompt attention.

Get Your Votes
When you pay your subscription to The Statesman, be sure you receive the votes to which you are entitled, as votes are issued on both old and new subscriptions according to the amounts paid. Ask for your votes—some young lady will appreciate them.

If the ad writer calls his craft an art, he usually mentions the advertised article in a footnote.

TWO ARE KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Women Have Their Skulls Fractured—Car Goes Over 200 Foot Bank

PORTLAND, Aug. 12.—Mrs. S. G. Smythe, wife of Robert Smythe of Tacoma, and Mrs. F. E. Mergel also of Tacoma, were killed today on the lower Columbia highway near Clatsop crest, about 33 miles west of this city, when the automobile in which they were riding left the road and plunged down a 200 foot rocky embankment.

Mrs. Smythe's skull was fractured and death was instantaneous. Mrs. Mergel sustained a fracture of the skull and died about 30 minutes after the accident. Marjorie Smythe, 12, and Donald Mergel, 14, who were in the car, escaped with minor injuries.

According to Donald Mergel, who crawled from under the wreckage and made his way to the highway before assistance arrived, the party were proceeding to Seaside, Or., for a summer outing and carried camping equipment in the car. The lad stated that the last thing he noted before the crash was that Mrs. Smythe, who was driving, had turned toward the rear seat to aid in a search for a knife which they wanted to peel an orange. It is presumed that in turning Mrs. Smythe lost control of the car. The two bodies were brought to this city.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Newport wins— Gets the chaperoned ten ladies who will have a week at the seashore at the expense of The Statesman.

These ladies will be given a great time; it will be a red letter week in their lives. All Newport will help in looking out for their pleasure. By the way, the chaperon has not yet been mentioned. Who shall be chosen? Suggestions are in order.

Salem is a great seed center; must be a greater seed center. See Slogan pages tomorrow and help the Slogan editor today. We get hundreds of thousands annually for our seeds now; we should get millions.

"How are they treating you?" inquired a customer of a Salem barber. "Not often," was the la-comer reply. Same barber says when a woman wants anything she either cries or laughs, or asks for it.

Also, he says when a man gives his money a chance to talk, sometimes it is only a whisper, after all.

He remarks that young Leopold, back at Chicago, appears to be a paranoiac and a moroniac, suffering from psychosis, but outside of that seems to be all wrong.

A sociological writer says women want everything, expect everything and get everything. Lady in Salem beauty parlor asks what he expects—ain't they entitled to it?

It is easier to contribute to a worthy cause if the solicitor does not look too prosperous.

Originator of Souvenir Postal Card Celebrates

GOTTINGEN, Germany, Aug. 9.—Henrich Lange, who has just celebrated his 50th anniversary as proprietor of a stationery and art store in this city, has achieved more than local fame by the fact that he was the first German to bring out a view postal card.

Shortly after taking over the business, Lange had the designs for the first series of souvenir cards drawn by a Göttingen architect, Hildebrand. Since then the sending of souvenir postal cards has become so popular in Germany that it is a common practice for the German tourist to order post cards at the same time that he orders his beer and his meal. Some inveterate post card senders can even be observed dashing out of the train at every station and hurriedly writing and mailing a view of the town through which they happen to pass.

TO VISIT NORWAY

SILVERTON, Or., Aug. 12.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Miss Edessa Erickson, daughter of Mrs. Bertha Erickson, was the honor guest at a surprise party given by a number of girl friends at the home of her mother Sunday evening. Mrs. Erickson will leave in the fall for a visit to Norway and her daughter will go to Eugene to continue her education during her mother's absence.

Those attending the party were Edna Lyons, Inga Goplerud, Esther Kloster, Mildred Forgaard, Mary Moberg, Sylvia Larson, Althea Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. Helgeson, Mrs. Erickson and the guest of honor.

Unfortunately, the open-throat shirt appeals especially to the man with an emotional Adam's apple. "Not often," was the la-

EXCELLENT SHOW STARTING TODAY

"Thy Name Is Woman" Comes to the Oregon Well Recommended

Thrilling with well performed and powerful emotional acting that flares up at times in emotional love scenes and pounds the story home with the forces of its dramatic climaxes, "Thy Name Is Woman," starring Ramon Navarro and Barbara La Marr, opened a three day run at the Oregon theater today.

The credit for the excellence of the performance must of necessity go to the cast and, secondly, to Fred Niblo, the director. The work of Navarro and Miss La Marr, along with that of William V. Mong, Edith Roberts, Robert Edeson, Wallace MacDonald and Claire MacDowell is exceptional, leaving no doubt that the cast is one of the strongest presented in pictures this season.

The story, of course, has a lot to do with it. It concerns the eternal conflict of men over a beautiful woman. An old smuggler in the Spanish Pyrenees has a young wife who is sought by several other men. A young soldier is sent from the garrison to make love to her and thus learn enough about the smuggler to effect his capture. The soldier and wife fall in love and the struggle is on. With this as a starting point, the picture works up to great dramatic climaxes, with the final solution coming only after a tragedy.

The unusual chance for rich, warm atmosphere with the background of life in the Pyrenees has been fully taken advantage of by Mr. Niblo. His exterior "shots" are of rare beauty, and the interior sets, especially that of the smuggler's cabin, are vivid and filled with interesting detail. In this he had the help of Victor Milner, the cameraman; Ben Carre, the art director, and Pablo Aguilera, a native of Spain, who advised in matters of research.

American Students Invade Dutch Town for Lectures

LEYDEN, Holland, July 21.—(Mail.)—This quiet university town, redolent of memories of William the Silent, Rembrandt and Grotius, was brimful of bustle and excitement recently owing to an invasion of hundreds of Americans. Sixty of them were students from Harvard, Yale and Princeton who had come to take a holiday course of lectures on Holland at the famous old University of Leyden which for centuries has been one of the foremost seats of learning in Europe.

Richard M. Toibin, U.S. minister at The Hague, welcomed his young compatriots. Professor Westerman recalled that it was with Holland that the United States, under the administration of President Adams, concluded its first treaty of friendship and commerce, and that one of President Adams' sons received his education here. At the same time, a large party of American Walloon Huguenots made pilgrimages to the tomb of John Robinson and various parts of the city connected with the memory of the Pilgrim Fathers. They were received by the mayor, to whom they presented a memorial map of Plymouth, Mass., and a commemorative medal.
