10 YEARS OLD, MARRIED LEARNS HE'S FOUNDLING, SEARCHES FOR PARENTS

When he was six years old, John Lester Butler was abandoned by his mother and left on the doorstep of a house in Second street, S. E., Washington, D. C. The youth, who married about a year ago, did not learn until recently that he was a foundling and that Butler was the name of his foster parents. The Butlers believe that his name is Benton or Penton. Young Butler is being aided in his search by Alexis Marceron who in March, 1905, found the basket in which the baby lay on the doorstep of the Second street house. A newspaper clipping of March 24, 1905, plays an interesting part in young Butler's search.

had been with the Indianapolis club. Brown had previously had a trial with the Giants. No. 4 is Johnny Mitchell. At least he prefers Mitchell to his rightful Slavish name. He also was obtained from Indianapolis, Robinson giving Joe Klugman in exchange. Mitchell, Klugman in exchange. Mitchell, a fine shortstop, has been a light hitter.
