

CORRECTED LIST FOR THE MONUMENT

Three Names Have Been Added; Are There More Still to Be Added?

(A list of those who lost their lives in the World War while serving from Marion county, Oregon, was published in The Statesman of the 7th, requesting that persons knowing of corrections should make their information known; and quick. Since that time, there have been four corrections, three new names, and one name dropped. The completed and revised list is being made up in order that every name entitled to the honor may be engraved on the soldiers' monument which it is the purpose of various civic organizations to erect on the Marion county court house grounds. The list is here published for the purpose of comparison and correction, that all who have knowledge of the matter may be informed, and may lead their help. Mrs. J. A. Carson, 923 South High street, Salem, president of the local chapter of American War Mothers, will be pleased to have additional information, if such is to be had. Her phone number is 95. Oregon Theatre Offers "Miami"

Betty Compson, star of a dozen or more sensational screen successes of the past year or two, comes back to the Oregon theatre today in a role which recalls to her admirers her early days in the moving picture worlds when she appeared in Christie comedies as a bathing girl.

In "Miami," the Oregon's offering this week, Betty once more dons a bathing suit, but this time as the star in a picture which is a bald revelation of the life of the smart set of Miami, exposed in the production as the real bootlegging center of the United States.

High life and modern jazz of the irresponsible wealthy younger set in this famous resort are vividly portrayed in the production, but there is also a powerful plot theme running through the story to tie the wide variety of situations together in a logical sequence. "Miami" comes recommended as one of the best pictures shown here during the summer season.

Buggy Wheels Escape, Boy's Leg Is Broken

Leonard Moser, 11, is at the Salem hospital with a broken leg and other bruises and his brother, Robbin Moser, 14, is at his home with a badly injured ankle as a result of an accident on Garden road Saturday.

The two boys, with two neighbor boys named Miller, were playing with the running gear of an old buggy when it got away from them, left the road and plunged over an embankment and down a steep hill.

First reports were that Leonard had received a fractured skull, but an examination at the hospital disproved this. The two Miller boys were not seriously injured.

The two lads are the sons of J. A. Moser, who lives on the Garden road about six miles east of Salem.

RAIN RELIEVES DRY CONDITION

Long Drought Ended as Precipitation Starts Sunday; Still Coming

Sixty days of drought were ended Sunday when rain began to fall about noon, continuing through Monday, terminating the longest dry spell the Willamette valley has experienced since the federal weather bureau has maintained an observer here, a matter of more than 30 years. More than a half-inch of rain fell during this time, the first rain since June 17.

With the coming of rain the forest fire menace has been reduced to a minimum in western Oregon as the rain was general. Fresh fruit shipments are halted temporarily and a very little damage done to the early hops. Farmers in general are very much relieved as it will mean thousands of dollars of additional wealth to them.

Pavements were as slick as glass and though automobile drivers used extra precautions and drove with a maximum of care, the list of minor accidents was the heaviest of all week-ends in recent months. Nearly a score of motorists came to grief in or near Salem, though none of the accidents was serious and no one was injured. The rain was sufficient to wash the dust from the pavement but the accumulation of grease is sufficient to prove a menace for some time.

Motorists in general were extremely careful on the main highways, proceeding slowly, both during the early hours of the rain and at night. But few were seen driving in excess to 25 miles an hour.

Farmers in the Willamette and Tualatin valleys took advantage of the rain and last night the district was dotted with fires from burning slashings and straw stacks. These were particularly numerous between St. Paul and Newberg.

Fears of grass fires in the city in the immediate future are eliminated, for the rain has removed all possibilities of these, according to members of the fire department.

State traffic officers advise motorists to take precautions while driving for it will need several weeks of good rain to remove the grease from the surface of the pavements.

GOLDEN HORSE BEAUTIFUL GIRL

Combination to Be Seen at Al G. Barnes Circus Wednesday

What would you do if you saw a beautiful girl from the Land of Romance riding an exquisite golden horse?

Well, that is what you'll see when the Al G. Barnes largest wild animal circus on earth comes to Salem Wednesday, August 20, with the resplendent "Equine Ballet" featuring 100 handsome dancing horses and 100 fair women.

In the gorgeous, sensational extravaganza which opens the big program, horses of pure, natural golden color ridden by girls of extraordinary beauty will dance before you. This is the dream that Al G. Barnes has brought to a wondrous reality—a dream of gathering together the 100 most beautiful girls and horses in the world and presenting to the public an offering which would eclipse anything previously staged.

These splendid steeds, valued at $12,000, are only a part of the 550 trained horses of the show. More than 2,000 educated wild animals, including Lotus, the largest and only performing blood-sweating hippopotamus on earth, will be seen when the big-top goes up.

You will also see more than 100 "sunkist" bathing beauties of southern California in the ballet and chorus of "Peachontas at the Court of Queen Anne," the gorgeous pageant that opens the gigantic program. Many of these pretty girls have played principal parts in the latest motion picture productions this year.

You will also see the greatest movie star of them all—Joe Martin, himself—and three tribes of Indians from Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico. The nationally famous Barnes' 3 1/2-mile street parade which will herald "the show that's different every year."

Easterners and Southerners Are Pleased With Oregon

So favorably impressed with their visit in Portland and their trip over the Columbia River highway were state insurance officials of the east and south who attended the national convention of insurance officials in Seattle recently, that several of them have written Will Moore, Oregon insurance commissioner, expressing their appreciation. The Portland and Columbia River highway treat came after the Seattle meeting. J. J. Humphreys of Nashville, Tenn., writes that "if I live to be 150 I shall never forget that Columbia highway trip." Harry D. Appleton of Albany, N. Y., deputy commissioner of that state, "I can't begin to tell how much I enjoyed the Portland visit and the wonderful drive on the Columbia highway." Bruce T. Bullion of Little Rock, Ark., "You certainly afforded us the opportunity of a lifetime to see the grandest scenery and the most beautiful drive in the United States."

BRYAN LIMITS PARTY ISSUES IN ACCEPTANCE

disarmament by international agreement and seek also an international referendum on the subject.

Oppose all Warfare

War propaganda, mobilization demonstrations of civilians and industrial resources, he deplored as a great economic waste, misleading and unnecessarily inflammatory.

Labor must be dealt with humanely, Governor Bryan said, adding that the democratic party "has always been the laboring man's friend, not to secure his vote but because the nation cannot progress unless he progresses."

Strict public control and conservation of natural resources, recovery of the country's oil reserves and other parts of the public domain "which have been fraudulently or illegally leased by the nominee. The democratic platform pledged itself, he added, "to respect and enforce the constitution and all laws."

Bryan Applauded

When Governor Bryan was introduced the crowd for five minutes cheered their state leader. With a wave of the hand he silenced them and started his speech while camera men went into action.

Applause interrupted the candidate's address for the first time when he asserted that "labor is entitled to a living wage at American standards with a margin for old age," and again a minute later when he declared "the democratic party pledges all of its energies to the outlawing of the whole war system."

Governor Bryan's audience again applauded as he denounced the administration and declared the farmers needed a "democratic administration and a congress that will not permit a Mellon tax plan to relieve the multi-millionaires from paying their just share of the cost of government."

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Joplin, national committee woman from Missouri, presided, after being introduced by Clem L. Shaver, the party field marshal. The latter had been scheduled as the presiding officer but declined on arriving today in favor of Mrs. Blair.

Senator McNary and Wife Enjoying Trip to Crater Lake

CRATER LAKE, Or., Aug. 18.—United States Senator Charles L. McNary and wife were visitors at Crater Lake during the week, and both expressed themselves as more than delighted with their visit. It was Mrs. McNary's first visit to the lake, she being a New England girl.

The senator and his wife motored to the lake from Bend, where they were met by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McNary of Portland and Richard W. Price, manager of Crater Lake lodge.

In crossing over the lava beds at the summit of the Cascades the party enjoyed a wonderful view of the Three Sisters.

Following luncheon at McKenzie bridge the party motored down the beautiful McKenzie river and to Roseburg. From Roseburg they proceeded to Crater lake via Medford and the scenic drive up the Rogue river.

Mr. and Mrs. McNary and party made the 25 mile boat trip around the lake, and Thursday evening drove out to the foot of the Watchman, which has an elevation of 8000 feet.
