BIBLE THOUGHT AND PRAYER

GOD RULES WITHIN:—I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments, and do them. And ye shall dwell in the land that I gave to your fathers; and ye shall be my people, and I will be your God.—Ezekiel 36:27, 28.

PRAYER:—"Gracious Spirit, Holy Ghost, Taught by Thee we covet most, Of Thy gifts at Pentecost, Holy, heavenly love."

THE FATE OF HAMAN

The Biblical episode of Haman erecting a gallows upon which to hang Mordecai, and being himself executed upon it, has its counterpart in the plans that were made and the fate that awaits the Democratic leaders this year.

The leaders in Congress who joined with the slick-eared insurgents in an effort to besmirch and discredit the Republican administration.

The slick-eared and the radicals are getting the benefits the Democrats planned for their party; those that are not going to the Republicans in the shape of boomerangs.

In Minnesota, Wisconsin and North Dakota the Democratic party has been practically extinguished, and the Follies are making great gaps in the Democratic ranks nearly all over the country.

The lesson is that it does not profit a party to play fast and loose with great issues.

The fight now is plainly between Coolidge and Dawes and the Follies.

And the result will be either the election of the Republican candidates or the throwing of the election into the House; rather, perhaps, into the Senate.

That is the line-up; plain as day. The Democratic party has no possible show of success. The leaders of that party sought to scuttle the Republican ship; and what it did was to bore holes into the bottom of its own craft.

This is the sixty-third annual Oregon state fair; grown larger and better from year to year, at least in the past quarter of a century, until it is now the best and greatest combined agricultural and industrial exhibit west of Minnesota. It is a great exposition of the accomplishments and potentialities of a great state.

"We need a broader, firmer, deeper faith in the people—a faith that men desire to do right, that the commonwealth is founded upon righteousness which will endure, a reconstructed faith that the final approval of the people is not given to demagogues, slavishly pandering to their selfishness, merchandising with the clamor of the hour, but to statesmen ministering to their welfare, representing their deep, silent, abiding convictions."—Calvin Coolidge, 1914.

MEANS AGAIN

When the Daugherty testimony was the most sensational the Oregon Statesman referred to Gaston B. Means as the greatest liar of this generation. Everything indicated that his testimony was manufactured. Now Means comes out and declares that it is not only manufactured but manufactured with the knowledge of Senator Wheeler.

Means' uncorroborated testimony, of course, would not be believed. People might ask in which case he was lying. But already it is corroborated in support. One of the star witnesses, Remus, had already declared that his testimony was a fabric of lies, made because he was promised a pardon for so doing. Means, while a notorious liar and unworthy of belief, promises to give the entire situation so that the public can judge for itself just how the framing up went on. He declares that Daugherty was warned, but told them to go to the warm place; that they couldn't frame up on him. But they did.

Daugherty is not an angel, but it was cruel to select him to hit entirely under the belt in an investigation. He was not the type of man for attorney general, but the public does not believe he is guilty of the things charged in this frame-up testimony.

But what must we say of a man occupying a seat in the United States senate and a candidate for vice president who would stoop so low, be so contemptible as to connive with thugs, liars and thieves to ruin a man in high office? We have stated many times that Wheeler was a bad actor—he is very bad.

A PITY

We have expressed before our regret that the Eugene Guard can not get away from the years of metropolitan training its editor has had. The big cities do not want a square deal in newspapers. They want newspapers to serve interests. The Guard has never served an interest before and it is a great pity to have it serve the special interests now.

The income tax is the fairest tax ever devised. The present law is far from perfect, but it is working, and that is what it was feared it would not do. It is helping pay the expenses of the state out of the profits of industry and relieving a large portion of our population from paying taxes out of capital. The statement that 58 per cent of the income tax payers have not heretofore paid taxes at all is the best argument that has ever been made in favor of this or any other tax.

GLAD TO SEE THEM

The state DAR convention which meets in Salem the last of this week brings to this city women of culture and refinement, as well as strong intellects. The Daughters of the American Revolution come the nearest to being our aristocracy of any we have in this country, but they are not aristocratic. They are really democratic and they have always maintained the ideals of our government. While radicalism has been going rampant around most organizations it has never touched the DAR. That organization has been dignified and patriotic. It is a real pleasure to have them come to Salem.

BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Great fair, great Monday— And it's going to be a great fair week, rain or shine; preferably shine.

The fair is too big to make mention of all the even especially deserving exhibits—

But you must not overlook the state flax plant exhibit, and the walnut and filbert exhibits.

Henry Thiele, who has the big restaurant at the fair this year, is to have a new $150,000 grill in Portland. He is considered a big man in his line on this coast.

Mrs. Olmsted has her usual fine restaurant at the fair, and there are many other eating places there, so, with the many good Salem restaurants, the crowds ought not to go hungry.

Congressman Hawley is to go from Albany on Saturday, to look over the super power and water supply sites in the Clear lake districts in the Cascades. He will ask congress and the federal authorities to cooperate in protecting the rights to use the water and power.

Walter T. Jenks will have the sympathy of all Salem over the death of his good wife. This comes soon after the death of the mother of Mrs. Jenks, who was a member of the same household. Mrs. Jenks was one of the good and cultured women of Salem, whose loss will be generally felt.

ECHOES FROM THE OREGON STATE FAIR

(Continued from page 1) from Australia. The fowl is white and covered with something that is more like down than feathers. Another peculiar bird is the Turkey, a combination turkey and chicken. The head is that of the Thanksgiving day bird while the running gears are those of the common barnyard fowl. It hasn't any more feathers on head and neck than granddads has teeth. Some other chickens have more feathers on their legs than these strange birds have on top.

Two airplanes belonging to the Nool-French-Shahan company of Portland, are taking up passengers and with continual circling of the grounds are causing people to look up to them.

Who cares if the Prince of Wales is on his way home, for what is a mere prince in comparison with a real queen. Miss Patricia Smith, of Portland, who reigned over the recent Multnomah county fair, will share honors with Governor Pierce on governor's day, Wednesday. She will have her attendants with her. These are the Misses Frances Hare, Marjorie Scott, Maybelle Harris and Irene Schlegel, all of Portland. A special traffic officer detachment will escort the party to Salem. The introduction of the fair visitor to the governor will be made by King Bing Al Pierce, of the Cherrians.

Cherrians are getting the dark spots off their suits and are creating the white flannels in readiness for Salem day. The official uniform will be worn but this one day during the state fair.

A novelty display is the large clock made by Fred H. Kroepelin, of 168 North Commercial, Salem. A total of 450 separate pieces of wood were used. The clock is in the form of a castle and on the stroke of the hour, six figures, representing Apostles, solemnly exit from one side, parade in full view, and disappear in a doorway on the other side of the building. The clock is of the 8-day type. A musical roll provides eight distinct selections. The clock is on display at the booth of the Oregon state grange in the pavilion.

Visitors to the Fair Grounds will doubtless be surprised to learn that there is a 40 per cent grade there which is climbed every few minutes by a Ford car. But they need not be alarmed for they will not be obliged to drive their cars up such a grade unless they have Fords equipped with Ruckstell axles. This interesting demonstration has been arranged by the Valley Motor company, Salem Ford dealers, in conjunction with their display of Ford cars, trucks, and tractors.

MRS. E. D. CUSICK DIES IN ALBANY

Was Salem Girl and Had Many Friends Among Old Residents Here

Mrs. Ed D. Cusick died in Albany Sunday night after an illness of several weeks. She leaves a husband and son, Ed D. Cusick of Albany and George Cusick, who is an examiner of the Oregon state banking department and has his headquarters in Salem. Edgar B. Piper, managing editor of the Portland Oregonian, is a brother. She was Miss Grace Piper in the old days in Salem, and was among the most prominent of the city's young women of that time. She kept her friendships here among old residents to the time of her passing, and they would all wish to be included in an expression of sorrow over her going, and of sincere sympathy for the bereft husband and son. The funeral will be held at the First Presbyterian church of Albany tomorrow at 10:30.

OAC has one of its biggest and best exhibits in years at the state fair. The displays of the most importance are those of the military department, the schools of You're in Good Company ---Why Hesitate Longer?

Listen, you conservative men who are waiting until you can afford a brand new automobile. There are upwards of 14,000,000 motor cars running about in these United States. More than ten million of them are more than a year old.

Their owners have a pretty good time driving around in their "used" cars. Why not buy one and have a car now? Any of these is good enough for anybody.

CAPITAL BUSINESS COLLEGE

PREPARATION PREPAREDNESS

These two words should be of the utmost importance to young people who are expecting to secure a training that will enable them to cope with others successfully in life's activities.

Monday, September 29, our fall opening begins. New classes in all subjects. No matter what line of work one is to follow, a business education is worth more than it costs.

YOUNG PEOPLE

There are hundreds of others who think they are your equal, have confidence in their ability to prove it, and unless your brain is shrewder, your will firmer, and your training better, sooner or later they will win out.

MERIT WILL TELL

The thorough, up-to-date business college is the place to secure the needed training. The business man will not give it to you. You must have the preparation in advance. The CAPITAL BUSINESS COLLEGE has stood the test for years. It has trained thousands of successful men and women. They made good. They commend the school and its courses to you. What we have done for others, we can do for you, with your help.

Now is the time. Do not delay. Fall opening September 29, next Monday. Please register Saturday. Call any time and talk matters over with us.
