A Long Bean Pole—Thousands of people daily pass the corner of South Commercial and Trade streets in Salem; but it is doubtful if many of them have seen there a fine exhibition of a very long and fruitful bean vine. It is a Lima pole bean vine, and it is over 20 feet long and is bearing a great crop of beans all the way up to the top from near the bottom. If you do not believe the bean vine is that tall, go and measure it. The bean for this vine was planted and the vine has been tended by E. F. Underwood, car loader at the Salem paper mill. It is climbing up the electric light pole at the corner named. No it does not bear currents. The currents are on the wires at the top of the pole, and there are a lot of them, for the Salem paper mill uses a lot of electric power. How much will be told in the Slogan pages tomorrow.

CONSTITUTION IS BROWN'S TOPIC
Supreme Court Justice Addresses Kiwanians at Luncheon Yesterday

Special features of the constitution of the United States were discussed by Justice George M. Brown, of the Oregon supreme court, at the Kiwanis club luncheon Tuesday noon. The speaker dwelt at length upon the question as to whether or not congress should have the power to overrule a decision of the United States supreme court.

"This matter was the subject of much discussion during the formative period of the constitution," Justice Brown said. "The courts have uniformly followed the constitution which was adopted after the most brilliant minds of the period had voiced their approval. These held that the judicial power of the court exceeded that of congress and should decide specific cases as well as direct the general policy of the country. Congress should not enact unconstitutional laws but if the occasion demands, amend the constitution so as to make the laws valid."

The authority of the agents of the nation is defined in the constitution, the speaker said and when congress passes an act in defiance of the constitution it is passed in defiance of the will of the people, who were responsible for the creation of the constitution. Both the constitution and the declaration of independence were described as being the best loved documents in the country.

Upon suggestion of Fred Erickson, next Tuesday will be Grand Army day, with members of the G.A.R. as special guests of the club. Music was furnished yesterday by the Willamette male quartette, with a solo by Joe Nee. The attendance prize, offered by R. S. Melson, was awarded to Charles Witman, of the Terminal hotel.

The objectives of the conference as outlined for the quadrennium beginning three years ago, are evangelism and the conservation of the results of the meetings and a building program which contemplates the building of fifteen new churches on old fields of labor and at least six new parsonages. The entering of six new centers. Of these six new churches have been secured to date and several more on the way. Two of the proposed centers have been entered, Great Falls, Mont., and Long Beach, Cal. Great Falls will dedicate their $30,000 church some time in November. Two ministers, Dale Hammer and Lella Luckey, were ordained at the Sunday morning service. Three thousand and thirty two dollars were raised by those present on Sunday for preachers' aid and conference extension work. The stationing committee made the assignments for the coming year as follows: Portland 1st, E. C. Avis; Port-

Deaf School's Budget Filed With Commission
It will require approximately $203,190 to conduct the affairs of the state school for the deaf during the next biennium, according to a statement filed in the offices of the state budget commission yesterday. During the present two years the expense of conducting the deaf school was $114,364. The increase for the years 1925 and 1926, when compared with the present biennium, is due, it was said, to contemplated improvements aggregating a cost of $93,000. Included in these improvements is a new primary building to cost $65,000. Unless a new building is constructed, it was said that the management of the school will be obliged to reject a number of applicants next year, despite that the law makes it compulsory that the deaf children shall attend the state institution or some other similar school.
