EXHIBITING A VOCAL range that was truly remarkable, Miss Lena Belle Tartar, contralto, in the tremendous aria: "Divine's du Styl," from "Alceste" (1767) Gluck, at once showed the gratifying results of her summer's study with Yeatman Griffith.

The "Aria," without question Miss Tartar's biggest group, followed two early Italian songs, Sebden Crudele by the seventeenth century writer, Caldara, and Pergolesi's (1716-1736) Nina, both relating of love in its more somber moods.

An encore from Grieg, "In the Boat," followed the second group. Miss Carol S. Dibble, reader for the evening, inspired her audience with her interpretation of Joaquin Miller's poem, "Columbus." The audience revelled in Masfield's "West Wind," as she gave it, and asked for an encore. Miss

Dibble responded with "Carnations" (Widdemer). "Romance Sans Paroles" (Bonnet) needs no words when an organist like Professor T. S. Roberts has his hands on the responsive keys. Professor Roberts also played the March Movement from the First Suite (Rogers) the theme mounting in a masterful way from the earliest passages. Bonnet, the composer of the unworded "Romance" appeared in Portland two years ago. He is now organist at the "great organ" at St. Eustache, Paris. The beautiful encore to this group was Johnston's "Evensong."

A pastoral number from Rubenstein, and Dvorak's musically interesting "As My Dear Old Mother" preceded a delicate French number from Massenet, called "Open Thou My Love Thy Blue Eyes." A poignant bit, "Four Ducks on a Pond" by Needham gave completion to the group in the form of an encore.

Miss Dibble sounded all the forceful meaning in Rudyard Kipling's "The Palace," and in Gertrude Robinson Ross's imitatively human reading, "Kinda Lonesome," did both herself and Mrs. Ross credit. Her encore was a bright stanza called "There's a Bobwhite out in the Meadow" which Mrs. Ross had written.

The double accompaniment of organ and piano added fullness to the closing number, Del Riego's "Homing" which Miss Tartar chose. "Allan" (Chadwick) and "Thy Beaming Eyes" MacDowell, were earlier selections for the final group.

Miss Gretchen Kremer was at the piano for the evening, accompanying Miss Tartar with extreme sympathy and fluency. Miss Kremer has been studying piano with Mrs. Gifford Nash this summer at the University of Oregon.

A large group of friends were present for the concert last night which opened the fall musical season in a delightful manner.

Four Salem girls have been pledged at the University of Oregon following formal rush season. These are: Miss Margaret Stolz to Kappa Alpha Xi Delta; and Miss Pauline Knowland to Delta Delta Delta.

The MacDowell club will hold its first rehearsal of the season on Friday of this week when members of this exceedingly popular musical group meet in the Commercial club auditorium at 7:45 o'clock. Professor W. A. Boyer of Portland will succeed Professor Petri as director of the club. Professor Petri having accepted a position at Corvallis as head of the music department of the Oregon Agricultural college with duties that make it impossible for him to continue his work with the MacDowell club.

The club is very fortunate in the securing of Professor Boyer as director. Mr. Boyer rating as one of the best-known directors on the entire coast, with his services in continual demand by many leading choruses. Professor Boyer is not only musical director in the Portland schools, but has also been director of the Portland Apollo club since its organization. He also directs the Portland MacDowell club of Women's voices and the Vancouver men and women's prominent vocal club. The announcement that Professor Boyer's services have been secured for the weekly rehearsals has added an even more than interest in the work of the club.

Five concerts are planned for the season, two to be given on Sunday afternoon, and three to be anticipated evening musicales. The first evening concert will be given in December with portions from the "Messiah" and a group of Christmas carols to add to the numbers. Royal Dammun, well-known American baritone, appearing here two years ago in Mrs. W. E. Anderson's artist-series, will be one of the soloists with the club in the spring.

An opportunity which many will no doubt thoroughly appreciate is that extended to both men and women of the city, who are musically talented, to join with the MacDowell club in augmenting the members for the December concert. Those interested in the opportunity to sing under the direction of a musical leader such as Professor Boyer, should apply to the secretary, Mrs. Marie Schwab Chambers at Phone 1950-W.

Professor Boyer, beginning Friday, October 3, will be in town a day each week. His services as a director are so in demand that he has entirely given up teaching.

The Monday Night Dancing club will hold the first dance of the season on Monday, October 13, in Derby hall. Fifty couples make up the membership of this club.

Word received from Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Emmons of Manning, Iowa, by their hosts of several weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Laffar, tells of the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Emmons to come to Salem in the future to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Brophy and Mr. and Mrs. George Riches motored to Neskewin for the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McCorkle who have been summering at the beach returned home with them.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Kightlinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.

C. Kightlinger, who is attending St. Mary's Academy in Portland, returned to the Academy Sunday evening after spending the week-end with her parents, having come down for the state fair. Miss Kightlinger speaks very highly of the work and environment offered at the Academy.

A group of Salem women attended the following delightful social affair given last week in Corvallis and recorded in the Corvallis Gazette-Times:

Very lovely was the bridge party given at the Country Club on Thursday afternoon of last week, to welcome Mrs. William A. Kearns, the charming wife of Director Kearns, and Mrs. Paul J. Schissler, the bride of Coach Schissler, two charming matrons who have been added to the college set. Hostesses for the party were Mrs. Ralph O. Coleman, Mrs. Roy S. Keene and Mrs. C. W. Hubbard, whose husbands are connected with Director Kearns and Coach Schissler in the athletic department at Oregon Agricultural college, and their guests were half a hundred local women and a group of Salem's younger matrons.

Those who came from Salem were Mrs. W. C. Dyer, Mrs. C. Cross, Mrs. Orris Fry, Mrs. Donald Young, Mrs. Gus Hixon and Mrs. Creech.
Mrs. Margaret Fritchard, who has many friends here, is a guest for a few days at the Marion hotel.

Miss Joy Turner, instructor in both piano and violin, reports a most enjoyable and profitable summer of study in New York city. Miss Turner returned home last week and is now opening her studios. Miss Turner, going east by the southern route, reached New York the latter part of June. Her study in piano was under Frank La Forge, while in violin she was associated with Maximilian Pilzer.

Miss Turner was the guest for one delightful evening of Mrs. H. H. Savage and Mrs. Winona Savage Lloyd, at their home at Carthage, New York. Mrs. Savage and Mrs. Lloyd formerly lived in Salem. Miss Turner also had an evening with Mrs. Anna Culbertson and son, Leon, who live in New York city. Mrs. Culbertson is a daughter of Mrs. J. L. Stockton of Salem.

Miss Turner, while in the metropolitan center of the country, had the opportunity of hearing both Jascha Heifitz and Gall-Curci. Of especial interest was the New York Philharmonic orchestra, with its 105 pieces, playing in the great Lewisohn stadium. Pilzer, Miss Turner's instructor in violin, was associated with this orchestra as director.

Miss Turner expressed disappointment at not being able to see Miss Mary Schultz while in the east, Miss Schultz being touring at the time.
Miss Turner made the return trip by the northern route, stopping in Seattle for a brief visit with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rex A. Turner. Mr. and Mrs. Turner motored Miss Turner to Salem and remained for a few days.

Miss Turner is versatile not only in her music, but in other of the fine arts, including oil and china painting. Arriving home in time to exhibit at the state fair, Miss Turner won prizes on every entry she made.

The Salem Arts League will hold a business and council meeting at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the educational room of the public library.

The Willamette chapter of Westminster guild will meet in the First Presbyterian church parlors this evening at 7:45 o'clock. Miss Clara Healy and Mrs. Louise Arthur are the hostesses.

House guests during fair week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Laffar were: Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Harper and Mrs. L. C. Ezra and son, Hubert, of Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Eittheberger of Waukegan, Washington. Mrs. Walburg is a sister of Mrs. Laffar. Enjoyable entertaining during the week was largely in the form of informal picnics. The guest-group left for their homes on Sunday.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church will meet at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. F. Shanks, 195 South Cottage street.

Irma Grace Blackburn of Selo was a Salem guest through state fair week. Mrs. Blackburn is probably the best-known poet of her county. She is among the few versé writers who are enthusiastic professional women as well. Mrs. Blackburn who teaches school has a decided interest in shorthand breeding.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barker and their son, Herbert Barker, returned late last week from New York and England where they were guests of relatives.

They visited many places of interest while on the Isles, including the British Empire exhibition which was held at Wembley, near London. They found England still in a very much unsettled condition as a result of the world war.

In New York they visited in Albion where they lived several years ago. They also spent a day at Niagara Falls. They report that in all their travels they found no city quite as pretty as Salem.

The Young Married People's club will hold, for their first fall meeting, a picnic dinner at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow at 6:30 o'clock with all young married people invited to attend. Each family is asked to bring covered dish and buttered rolls. Dessert and coffee will be furnished at the church. New officers will be elected for the new year.

The committee in charge of the supper includes: Mrs. F. S. Anusien, Mrs. Carl F. Smith, Mrs. F. E. Mercer, Mrs. L. N. Myers and Mrs. Kirby Ross.

Ariel Ackerman who has been confined to his home for many weeks with a tedious illness is somewhat better this week.

Miss Hazel Dean Long, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Long, became the bride Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, of Mr. Edgar E. Kellums of Eugene. Rev. Louisa F. Kellums, mother of the groom, officiated in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and friends gathered for the occasion at the Bungalow Christian church.

The altar, decorated in autumn flowers and leaves, with white, paling fence and gate-way background, made a most attractive setting for a beautifully read service. The low, white fence, with its background of vine maple, provided a swinging gate, latched with a chain of gold, through which the bridal procession assembled as Mrs. Hugh McCallum of Jefferson played the Mendelssohn wedding march. Immediately preceding the service, Professor Heggall Hogat of Eugene, sang "At Dawning." During the ceremony, Mr. Albert Garret at the violin softly played "A Perfect Day."

The white gate was unlatched by two small pages, Joy Cooley and Leon Cooley, after which the bridal party entered. Maxine Powell and Winona Putnam, in dainty pastel frocks, with swinging baskets of fall blossoms, were flower girls. The bride, lovely in her gown of ivory satin, caught with ruffled whorls, and worn with a full length-veil of embroidered chiffon, was attended by Miss Lena Newton of Eugene as maid-of-honor.

Professor Heggall Hogat acted as best man. Bridesmaids were Miss Fieta Caspell and Miss Ella Smith, Miss Caspell in jade and Miss Smith in sunburst georgette. Ushers were Melvin Long and Richard Fish. The bride's costume was accentuated with silver slippers. Bands of silver ribbon with tiny rose buds secured her becomingly fashioned veil. Her shawl combined bride's roses, carnations, and maidenhair fern. Miss Newton wore coral crepe de chine and carried a Colonial bouquet. The impressive double ring service was used, Orval Cooley and Ronald Long acting as ring bearers, carrying the emblems on tiny cloth of gold cushions.

A lovely oblong basket of asters, gladioli, and dahlias with greenery, and ivory hanging baskets of the vivid flowers of the month, added to the autumn beauty of the flower and leaf-decked altar. A pair of Australian love birds, with plumage like gay autumn leaves, sang their sweet messages from a painted cage above the bridal garden. Boxes of simias bordered the white fence. Miss Nina Marshall caught the bride's bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellums, immediately after the ceremony, left for Pacific City by motor. Mrs. Kellums's going-away suit was a cape costume, with fabric and accessories in black and white. After a week's honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Kellums will go to Eugene to make their home where Mr.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS SHOW INCREASE

Enrollment on Opening Day 3740 - New Building Draws 793

The Salem public schools opened for the 1924-25 year Monday with an enrollment of 3740, a gain of more than 500 students over last year, when 3202 were enrolled. Late entrants and those which had not completed their registration Monday will bring up the total to an even greater figure.

Latest reports from the new J. L. Parrish junior high school were that 793 had entered this fall, with 171 in the McKinley junior high school. The enrollment in the high school last night was 874, a gain of nearly 100 students over the previous year, when 777 were enrolled during the year. In spite of the new building, the rooms will be crowded again this year.

Comparative figures for the schools for the two years show that the Englewood has 229, a gain of 24 over 1923; Garfield has lost, owing to redistricting and the new junior high school, having 296 enrolled against 350 last year. The Grant school has 272 this year, with only 48 last year, when only two grades, the first and second, were in the building. Highland has 257 against 330 last year; Lincoln 285, a gain of 24 students; Park with 261 enrolled has an increase of eight students; Richmond, with 274 has 41 more while the Washington school, with only two grades and an enrollment of 28, is way under last year's figures of 533 students. McKinley, with an enrollment of 171, shows a gain of 16 students.

Kellums will attend the University of Oregon and Mrs. Kellums the Eugene Bible school. Later they plan to go into evangelistic work.

Out-of-town guests attending the ceremony included: President and Mrs. C. E. Sanderson of the Eugene Bible school; Mrs. Amos Davis and Miss Mary Davey of Turner; Miss Elizabeth McMahon, Mrs. Mary Moore, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Angeline Kellums of Eugene; Mrs. Hugh McCullum, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Powell, and Spencer Long of Jefferson, and a large number of other friends and relatives from Albany, Jefferson, Selo, Stayton, and Silverton.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Laffar motored to Roseburg on Sunday. They will be away for several days.

Among the many interested spectators of the flight of the world aviators over Salem on Sunday were Wayne Hurd and family of Eugene, and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Kahler of Portland, who had motored in to meet Miss Margaret Constance of Waupaca, Wis., who is a guest at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Hurd, 1215 Marion street.

October 14 has been set as the date at which Miss Frances Doerfleu will present her anticipated Salem Arts' league program.

A group of women met yesterday at the home of Mrs. C. P. Bishop for a highly instructive session of the Woman's Republican Study club. John L. Brady spoke during the afternoon, taking as nucleus measures "The Income Tax and the Compensation Act." Specific attention was called to the registration situation, the woman being unfortunately lagging in this responsibility, a condition which will make the extension of the franchise to include women more of a liability than an asset.

Till election time, the Woman's Republican Study club will hold weekly meetings.

Dean and Mrs. George H. Alden entertained charmingly at dinner last evening. At the table attractive with a centerpiece of asters in the pastel shades, covers were placed for: Mrs. Helen Southwick, Paul B. Wallace, Miss Jenelle Vandevort, Miss Carolene Tallman, Leland Chapin and Merle Bonney.

Dr. John R. Sites is in charge of the elaborate and interesting musical phase of the Jewish New Year at Beth Israel being observed Sunday, yesterday, and today in Portland. On Sunday evening Mrs. Harry Harms, lyric soprano, and MacMillan Muir, tenor, who sang at last year's May festival, were the soloists. Yesterday, Mrs. Jane Burns Albert, who was soloist with the May festival chorus for two successive years, sang at the holiday services. The new year festivities are being held in the new Elks' temple.

October 7 and 8, as the Day of Atonement, will be an even larger occasion in the program of Beth Israel. The rites will all be held at the Portland auditorium. On this occasion Miss Elizabeth Levy will be a soloist.

Acting as organist for the temple is William Robinson Boone of Portland.

The matrons of the Thursday bridge club will entertain their husbands at dinner, followed with cards, this evening at 7:15 at Mrs. A. L. Godfrey's.

Three Million Pounds of Prune in Storage in Dallas

DALLAS, Sept. 27.—Very close to 3,000,000 pounds of prunes are now stored in Dallas packing houses and as soon as a rain let-up occurs practically all but the unsold crop will be housed. Prunes have been coming in fast the past week or 10 days until shut off by the rain Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday.

This season will see the opening of a new packing plant in the city, operated by J. C. Tracy; formerly manager of the California Packing Corporation's prune packing plant here. Mr. Tracy has leased the Dallas cannery building and is installing packing machinery. Mr. Tracy already has a half million pounds of dried prunes in his establishment and expects to run by October 1, or a short time later. A large part of the prunes now on hand were purchased green and dried by Mr. Tracy in his drier here. He has, however, contracted enough prunes to assure a pack of over 1,000,000 pounds from his plant this season. The opening up of this plant makes four prune packing establishments in the city for the 1924 season.

At the present time the California Packing Corporation has the largest tonnage of fruit on hand. They have weighed in 180,000 pounds, which includes prunes from Polk, Marion, Benton and Washington counties. The quantity is somewhat small in comparison with their usual operations, but will probably be increased, as the market opens. Packing operations probably would be underway at the present time at the California plant, but have been delayed by the installation of a new and larger boiler. From the present outlook they can not have the use of the new boiler before October 1, and possibly not then.

The Mason-Ehrman Co. have taken in approximately 750,000 pounds of prunes here to date, according to R. L. Chapman. This company also has a considerable quantity of fruit yet to come in, and will probably figure in the purchase of prunes still held by growers. It is doubtful if Mason-Ehrman operate their plant here this year, except as a warehouse. The company has another prune packing establishment in Portland and economies of shipping via the Panama canal and packing in transit discriminate in favor of packing at Portland, the point of sea shipment, according to Mr. Chapman.

The Polk County Co-operative Prune Growers, who leased the old Oregon Growers packing plant have also taken in about 750,000 pounds of prunes to date. They have enough more in sight to bring the total to 1,000,000 pounds and over, and these will probably be delivered in a few days after the weather clears.

No packing is going on in any of the plants at present, although three expect to be running early in October. The old Oregon Growers, who had a quantity of prunes stored here, packed these up a few days ago. It is understood that they are sold, but have not been called for shipment by the purchasers.

In addition to the prunes in local warehouses, there have been many tons shipped to the Draeger Fruit Co., at Salem, which was an active buyer in this district early in the season.

Plans/Further Outlined YMCA Building Campaign This Month

Instructions were given to the 24 captains of teams in the coming YMCA drive for $200,000 which will be conducted Oct. 8 to 16 at a dinner at the YMCA building last night. Each team member will give a list of 10 prospective contributors to the fund. Work picking the teams will begin today. The first issue of the "Go-Gaters' Gazette," which will be published daily during the campaign, will make its appearance today. This will be mailed to all prospective workers this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hagedorn prepared the dinner last night as their contribution to the launching of the campaign. Both experienced in this line, have had charge of the Jason Lee cafeteria at the state fair grounds for several years.
