Hoboes at Altoona Need Never Lack Good Shelter

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 9 (AP)—Although it's only an old barn, it has a reputation throughout the United States. It is known as Hagerty's Barn and it is located on the outskirts of Altoona.

Years ago a man named Hagerty, who lived just outside the limits of this city, owned the barn, which became a favorite stopping place for the knights of the road traveling along the route of the present Lincoln highway. Mr. Hagerty never objected to the hoboes stopping in his barn, even after fire, believed to have been started by them, destroyed the original building. Mr. Hagerty built a new barn and when he died enjoined his heirs never to close the building's doors to tramps. The heirs have done his bidding.

Every night from two or three to a dozen hoboes stop there. Meals are cooked nearby. Frequently the visitors do their laundry and string the clothes on ropes near the barn.

A resident of this city, traveling in the west this summer, was asked by a man from California if he knew where Hagerty's Barn was located. The Altoonan replied in the affirmative, and the western man said he and many "traveling friends" had stopped at the place.

ENGLAND STILL LIKES BEEF

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Modern Englishmen are living up to the title of beef-eaters which their habits in the pre-Victorian era assigned to them. Londoners are big meat eaters, particularly of beef, and last year an average of 37.9 ounces of meat a head was sold each week in London. The city's meat bill in 1923 amounted to $175,000,000.
