

SOCIETY

AUDDRED BUNCH PHONE: 106

MISS VERA MAE WRIGHT became the bride of Mr. Edwin T. Given at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at one of the most beautiful weddings of the autumn season for which the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Byars, was the scene. Reverend Thomas E. Acheson of the Jason Lee Memorial church officiated, using the impressive ring service.

The bride, approaching the altar unattended, met the minister and the groom at the foot of the stairs, the bridal party proceeding to the archway to the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding procession. Preceding the ceremony, Miss Trista Wenger sang in a beautiful manner Cadman's "At Dawning."

The archway where the young couple plighted their troth was a bower of autumn foliage in tints of red and gold. Jardeneries of yellow chrysanthemums stood on either side of the French doors, with the background, transformed with an art basket of autumn blossoms supplemented with glowing tapers in brass candlesticks. Miss Wright chose as her wedding altar the same scenes in the room that had afforded the background for the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Glover, when at that ceremony, just sixteen years ago, she had been ring-bearer for her aunt.

For the ceremony which was read in the presence of the immediate relatives and only the closest friends, the bride wore a becoming going-away tulle of navy blue tricot with natural squirrel. For her adornment she wore a beautiful strand of pearls, the gift of the groom, and a corsage of bride's roses. Miss Bedford played softly MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" during the repeating of the vows.

A reception followed in the dining room. Autumn foliage decked the chandelier with the softly shaded lights reflecting a warm glow over the attractive table. A tasteful art basket of yellow dahlias, adorned with changeable ribbon in merging tones, centered the table, where yellow tapers in crystal holders enhanced the beautiful effect. Mrs. W. H. Byars poured, while Mrs. Elmo Wright cut the ices.

Miss Trista Wenger, Miss Alice Putnam, Miss Mildred Goin, and Miss Ruth Bedford assisted in the serving.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mrs. Effie Wright Dunlap, is a graduate of the Salem high school, and during her attendance there was a prominent member of the girl's chorus. She is a voice student of Miss Lena Belle Tartar. For the past three years she has been in the office of Dr. W. H. Darby and Dr. D. C. Burton. The groom, who is of a prominent pioneer family, is engaged in business in Silverton. Leaving immediately after the ceremony for a motor trip to various northern points, Mr. and Mrs. Given will be at home in Silverton after November 1.

The Berean class of the First Presbyterian church of which Mrs. C. A. Park is the teacher will meet at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning in the church auditorium where in the future the class sessions will be held.

The Tri-C class of which Mrs. R. M. T. Hester is the teacher will meet at the Woman's club house, also at 9:30 o'clock.

The West Side Circle of the Jason Lee Aid society will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. F. Loveland, 2010 North Fifth street.

The Daughters of the American Revolution will be hostesses next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. B. L. Steeves for one of the largest and most attractive silver teas planned for the season. Calling hours will be from 2:30 to 6 o'clock. The committee in charge of the arrangements includes: Mrs. Russell Catlin, Mrs. John W. Harbison, Mrs. Frank Spears, Mrs. Carrie Martin, Mrs. B. L. Steeves, Mrs. Lewis Griffith, Mrs. H. T. Love, and Miss Lillian Applegate.

The Adolynk club will meet this afternoon with Mrs. Earl Poulson.

There is much likelihood that Salem will be able to secure a lecture-date with the brilliant young Hindoo writer and philosopher, Dhan Gopal Mukerji for sometime next week if the necessary arrangements can be made in so short a time. The enthusiasm will take care of itself without a doubt when one understands the intellectual and cultural quality of the program offered. Mr. Mukerji is a maker of literature of a quality not approached by many men in America today. As the interpreter of the mystery and complexity of life in India, he is today a leading figure.

Dhan Gopal Mukerji is a Hindoo, born of a family of exclusive Brahmans. At 14 he was consecrated to the priesthood, but he was not made for such a vocation and his restless nature demanded not the temple, but the hills. After studying at the University of Calcutta he came to America, taking a degree at Stanford University. For the past eight years he has been writing and lecturing, explaining lucidly, and authoritatively, that country, India, of which we have all our lifetime heard so much, yet know so little.

As an author, he is the writer of several books, a number of which are available at the public library. Among these the best known, filled as it is with beauty and power, is "Caste and Outcast."

As a lecturer he is vivid, attractive, eloquent, and is said to please the most indifferent. The Atlanta, Ga., club, following a lecture-engagement there marked him as "a scholar of surprisingly wide cultivation with a brilliantly cosmopolitan mind."

If Salem succeeds in getting Mr. Mukerji it will be the only place in Oregon in which he appears.

Student life at the Capital Business college is interestingly organized for the mutual benefit and promotion of friendly spirit among those concerned. At a business meeting Tuesday evening the following officers were elected: President, Glenn Frum; vice president, Albert Fabry; secretary, Miss Veda Korb; and treasurer, Miss Grace Quackenbush.

Mrs. Roy Burton, assisted by Mrs. J. W. Cox, will be hostess for the Unitarian Alliance this afternoon at the church.

Mrs. Minnie Melvin has as her house-guest her mother, Mrs. Florence Hale, of Forest Grove.

The members of the American Association of University Women are interested in announcing the definite qualifications for membership in their organization which meets once a month. All those who hold an AB degree from any

PROFESSOR HORACE RAHSKOPF

Member of Willamette university faculty who will appear in dramatic recital this evening at 8 o'clock at Waller hall under sponsorship of Salem Woman's club, presenting the much-loved Barrie comedy, "What Every Woman Knows."

BARRIE, the remarkable playwright, and Professor Horace Rahskopf, a talented reader combine this evening to present one of the drama's most beloved heroines, "Maggie" of "What Every Woman Knows" to the large audience that will doubtless gather at Waller Hall. The Salem Woman's club is enthusiastically sponsoring the program which will begin at 8 o'clock.

Professor Rahskopf, a graduate of the Curry School of Expression in Boston, has received much telling commendation from his teachers. His talent showed itself to a marked degree during his student days, and during his later instructorship has matured to meet in a gratifying way any demands made upon it. The exquisite demands of Barrie will amply show his genius at characterization.

Those who hold tickets are waiting with quickening interest to hear in what manner he will follow the gamut of emotion in presenting Maggie where she defends John with the firm assurance, "If you have never loved deep and true, that's just because you have never met a woman yet, John, capable of inspiring it." Maude Adams played "Maggie" back in 1900, and the country never forgot it. One doesn't forget "Maggie"; after tonight many will perhaps remember her for her famous seven-line essay on charm: "Oh, it's sort of a bloom on a woman. If you have it, you don't need to have anything else; and if you haven't it, it doesn't much matter what else you have. Some women, the few, have charm for all, and most have charm for one. But some have charm for none."

It is at such lines as when one hears James shouting immediately, "I have a sister that has charm" that the gentle comedy element is felt, a comedy that is, as true comedy always is—far, far from farce.

The play is complete in four acts and is crammed all through with delightful intensity. And whether the audience gathers tonight, primarily, to see the drama, or primarily to become acquainted with the reader does not really matter. In either case he is not likely to go away disappointed.

Social Calendar

Today

Adolynk club, Mrs. Earl Poulson, hostess.

Marion County Federation of Woman's clubs, Mill City.

Salem Woman's club sponsors play, "What Every Woman Knows," Waller hall, 8 o'clock.

West Side circle of Jason Lee Aid society, Mrs. C. F. Loveland, 2010 North Fifth street, hostess.

Unitarian alliance, church parlors, 2:30 o'clock.

Women of the First Congregational church, all-day meeting, church parlors.

South East circle of First Methodist church, church parlors at 2 o'clock.

Hal Hibbard auxiliary, Mrs. B. W. Walcher, 1570 South Commercial street, hostess.

Open house, J. L. Parrish junior high school, 7:30 to 9 o'clock.

Degree of Honor Protective society, convention, Halls, Court and Liberty street.

Saturday

American Association of University Women, 12:30 o'clock luncheon.

Salem Floral society, Chamber of Commerce.

Hal Hibbard camp of Spanish War Veterans, social gathering, armory.

Birthday party for Miss Nellie Taylor, First Congregational church, 2 to 5:30 o'clock. Members of the Sweet Briar club, hostesses.

Sunday

Berean class of the First Presbyterian church, Mrs. C. A. Park, teacher. Church auditorium, 9:30 a. m.

Tri-C class of the First Presbyterian church, Woman's club house, 9:30 a. m. Mrs. R. M. T. Hester, teacher.

had as their house guest Fred N. Collins of Whitehall, Iowa, an uncle of Mr. Collins. This is his first trip west and he is so delighted with the country he plans to return for three months next summer. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin M. Collins and daughter of Corvallis were visitors here yesterday. The visitors are the parents of Fred Collins.

Last Friday Clarice Ritchie was hostess at a charming party given at her home. The house was attractively decorated in red. After a delightful evening spent in playing rook and other games, the guests were ushered into a candlelit dining room. The red candles, flowers and streamers carried out the chosen color scheme. Those present were Alene Ritchie, Thunelda Koehler, Gladys LaBarre, Elizabeth Lenon, Frances Lemery, Clarice Ritchie, Leroy Walker, Merl Bonney, Paul Allen, Gordon Barker, Herbert Jasper and Loyd Warner.

All friends of Miss Nellie Taylor are cordially invited to attend

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collins have

(Continued on page 12)

Good Coat News for Women

Just received a Shipment of Special Purchase Sale of Fur Trimmed Coats

Good and Warm and Smart Appearing

We've Marked These High Grade Coats Very Close For Quick Disposal

Be One of the First Ones to Pick Yours Out Come, get the benefit of this fortunate special purchase Savings that would be impossible under regular conditions

Fur Trimmed Coats $2975 Up To $6950 Priced at

Other Coats for Women as low as $16.00 Children's Coats from $3.95 up to $26.75 receive careful attention. We pay the postage or express within a radius of a hundred miles.

YOUR MAIL ORDERS

Satisfaction Guaranteed on every purchase or your money cheerfully refunded.

Kapoury Bros.

Salem Store 466 State St.

Portland Silk Shop 383 Alder St.

NATIONAL PICTURE WEEK

October 18 to 25

Every picture and frame in my store will be offered, between these dates, at special sale prices.

Pictures Are The Jewels of The Home

I want someone from every home in Salem to call and see a really fine assortment of good pictures, and to that end I am giving real bargains of a most unusual kind.

See My Picture Window

Max O. Buren

Furniture—Rugs—Wall Paper
179 N. Commercial. Salem, Ore.