

FAILING WILL CASE FINALLY DISMISSED

Contest Held One of Most Drawn Out in History of State of Oregon

An appeal in the case of the estate of Xarifa J. Failing, deceased, the Children's home and the Security Savings & Trust company, administrators, appellants, against Thomas N. Strong and others was dismissed by the supreme court Tuesday. The opinion was written by Chief Justice Thomas A. McBride, and hinged on a stipulation that was entered into by the parties not to appeal the case. The case was appealed from Multnomah county, where it was heard by Judge Tazewell.

"It may be stated that this was probably the most important and longest drawn out contest that has ever been known in the courts of Oregon," the opinion read. "The testimony consumed several thousand pages." The appeal was from an order of the court settling a final account of Thomas N. Strong and C. Lewis Mead, as executors under the alleged will of Xarifa J. Failing, executed in 1915, and allowing attorney fees of $50,000. The question of reasonableness of the fees did not come before the supreme court.

"The Havoc" is Big Hit When Given at Medford

The success which is attending the coast tour of Elliott Dexter, in person, in the Henry Miller production, "The Havoc," is well and typically told in a telegram received yesterday by Manager J. C. Stille, of the Grand theater, where Mr. Dexter is to appear Thursday evening of this week, from George Hunt, manager of the Craterian theater of Medford.

Mr. Dexter presented "The Havoc" at the Craterian on Monday evening, and Mr. Hunt had the following to say of the performance:

"Elliott Dexter opened the new Craterian theater here tonight, and the house was packed with a representative audience, including

SPICY VAUDEVILLE SHOW NOW SHOWING AT BLIGH THEATER

King's 1924 Review

King's 1924 Revue, which came up from southern California, playing all the leading theaters in the larger cities as far north as Seattle, is now playing return dates on the way south and by special arrangements has been booked for three days at the Bligh theater, and will play in conjunction with the regular feature picture program.

The company is composed of high class artists presenting fast moving musical comedy hits from the latest metropolitan successes. Clever singing and dancing comedians, a bevy of attractive show girls in new songs and dances, leading men of the Rudolph Valentino type, and petite ingenue and soubrette form a part of the cast. The feature attraction is Miss Marjorie King, a dainty little dancer who is a recruit from the mayor and prominent members of the clergy. Mr. Dexter and his supporting company were given a highly enthusiastic reception. The play was beautifully produced. Mr. Dexter is one of the best actors seen here in years and presents a very deserving attraction.

The play, "The Havoc," which Mr. Dexter is bringing here personally, is a modern presentation of a complex domestic problem confronting a middle-class family whirling through the vortex of every day New York life. It is an engrossing story giving a new and entirely unique twist to the eternal triangle and nothing Mr. Dexter has done either on the stage or the screen has shown him to quite such an appealing advantage as the role he portrays in "The Havoc." His screen admirers will love him in the Sheldon drama.

PRINGLE

The Pringle school is to have a basket ball set installed soon. Carl Bropp returned from Hood River Saturday and is now in school.

Mr. T. E. Meeks has just put out an acre of Wilson strawberry plants.

The Sunday school attendance last Sunday was forty. Sportsmen have been making the Ziegfeld Follies and Schubert productions, New York city. Miss King was a feature dancer with these theatrical enterprises for several seasons before coming west and is the last word in grace and art.

Seldom if ever before has a show with as many high class performers played this city at popular prices and reports from all cities, from theater managers and the press indicate that patrons of the local theater will be given a treat in a diversified entertainment. A clean and wholesome musical comedy interspersed with specialties, vaudeville acts and novelty numbers give theatergoers a show just a little different from the average, and the result is that theaters are usually packed to the doors before the curtain goes up on the first act.

Porto Rico Boy Scout Does Weeks' Best Turn

The week's best good turn of the Boy Scouts went to Tenderfoot Scout William Chabert of Troop 1, Rio Piedras, Porto Rico, who at the risk of his life saved a comrade from drowning. He was awarded the gold honor medal for life-saving recently, which has been awarded only 37 times in the history of scouting.

Chabert and some companions accepted a ride on a gravel truck loaded with crushed stone. While crossing a bridge half a mile from town the truck was run into by a speeding Ford. This caused the loaded truck to veer from its course. It crashed through the left coping of the bridge and hung with front wheels suspended over the stream. One of the scouts fell unconscious into the stream, 15 feet below. Chabert leaped from the truck, rushed beneath the overhanging truck and at the risk of his life snatched the helpless comrade from the water.

Ban on Apples Placed By Southern Pacific Ry.

A ban on apples has been placed in the Pittsburgh district and no shipments will be allowed there until the ban is lifted, is the notice received through the Southern Pacific. This embargo is due to the fact that there is an oversupply of apples. The sidings are filled with cars awaiting delivery, among them being a car of Salem apples from the Siddall orchards. It is made up entirely of Grimes Golden. It is expected that a similar embargo will be placed on the Chicago market in a day or so. Warehouses in the east are filled to overflowing with storage apples and will receive no more is the word sent here, according to L. W. Wells.

Apples are Shipped With Denmark as Destination

One car of fancy Spitzenberg apples has been packed at Sutherland district for shipment to Denmark and arrangements made for five more cars from the same district on the account of Young & Wells of Salem, is the statement of Ed Biehn, who returned to Salem last night from an extended trip to the Sutherland district. The cannery there is running at full blast for the first time in many years and is employing 125 people. Outside labor was brought in to handle the surplus work and it is expected that the cannery will operate three months and to bring a payroll of $16,000 to Sutherland. Biehn also reports the changing of old properties and mentions the old academy, where many of Oregon's most prominent men were educated, has been bought by an investor and converted into a hotel. Outside capital is coming in and, the town is beginning to boom.

And may it come to a glorious finish soon.

Election day soon; the ballots are being printed.

That dull thud you hear is the slump of the La Follette boom, Sulfur or even helium gas would not save it.

Slogan man has to prove, tomorrow, that we ought to develop the flax industry faster. He wants your help.

While Italy and Germany are going out of the railroad business as governments, and all the rest of the countries having state owned railroads want to get out, the United States is not going to go in; nor even make a gesture towards going in. Not on your tin type.

In pronouncing La Follette the accent is on the Foll, say those who have asked him about it. This syllable, appropriately, is the French for fool.

The total killings by railroads at grade crossings last year reached the impressive total of 8582. That sounds like a chapter from the annals of the world's great battles. Most of the fatalities were of people who were dead sure they would beat the train to the crossing. Well, they are dead, sure.

Over at Sheffield, the ancient heart of the steel industry, a working chemist is said to have invented a stainless, rust proof steel. Experiments with it are also being made in Pittsburgh. Such a discovery would be a wonderful thing for everybody outside of the steel industry. In that line a heavy proportion of the business is in replacements. As with all living things, it has been from dust to dust, with all things made from iron or steel, it has been from rust to rust, and something like 25 per cent has been the loss from rust the world over. Wherever there is air there is oxygen, and wherever oxygen comes into contact with iron or steel, there is rust.

DEMOCRATS REPORT TO COMMITTEE

by them for aid in a number of states. These contributions were placed at an aggregate of $29,700, the witness said.

Mr. Gerard presented to the committee a detailed list of contributors to the democratic fund which was made public yesterday in New York. Chairman Borah questioned him as to the identity of the larger of the contributors, including Thomas L. Chadbourne, a New York banker who gave $25,000; John D. Ryan, president of the Anaconda Copper company, who contributed $5000; Francis P. Garran, former alien property custodian, who donated $10,000; and a number of others. These included Bernard M. Baruch $5000; Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey $21,000; Frank L. Polk, former under secretary of state $5000; Chairman Shaver $10,000; Mr. Gerard $13,000 and Cleveland H. Dodge of New York $5000.

Replying to questions by Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, personal counsel for Senator La Follette, Mr. Gerard said he knew of no organizations of bankers or business men or others who might be beneficiaries of a tariff law who were collecting funds for the support of the Davis-Bryan ticket.

Naughty Stars
The stars look down upon the earth
With tiny, shining eyes of mirth.
They seem to say: "We're watching you,
And every little thing you do."

Sometimes, to see just where you are,
They send a little shooting star
Who comes down quickly, close to you,
So he can get a better view.

The twinkling stars, it seems to me,
Are just as mean as they can be;
For when they go and get the moon,
What earthly chance is there to spoon?

"What are the ladies of the club discussing now?"
"A scheme to fix up the French war debt."
"Do they wish to remit it?"
"No, their idea is to take it out in gowns."

Lew: "No—get married."

Her Great Loss
Little June, age five, was with her mother and family enjoying an automobile trip a few weeks ago when her mother's car collided with another machine with such force as to throw little June from the back seat of the car out into the road, where she lay screaming as though she were nearly killed.

Her mother rushed to where she lay, picked her up, and hysterically asked if she were hurt very much.

"No, no, muvver, I ain't hurt," screamed June, "but I lost my nickel."

—Victor Kahn.

In one scene a carefully contrived picture is brought upon the stage representing a red sailboat, and the comedian explains that it is entitled "Omar Khayyam on his Yacht."

"But," says the prospective purchaser, "why is the boat red?"
"It isn't red," answers the comedian, "it's ruby. It's a ruby yacht."

Be more than beside her with joy when she says you may kiss her—be beside her.
