

WARREN GETS DECISION OVER MACKIE; HUNT AND POOLE EVEN

GREEN LOSES BY KO ROUTE

Purdy Proves Too Strong; Lots of Action Is Offered By Card at Armory

More action was crowded into the first eight rounds of the fights last night than have been offered in previous cards at the armory. The bouts were well-attended in spite of inclement weather.

Cracker Warren, of Oregon City, was given the decision in the six-round lightweight battle with Ad Mackie of Portland. Mackie was more aggressive throughout the fight, but failed to deliver as many telling punches as his opponent. Though the decision was just, it was booed by the fans. Bill Hunt, of Salem, and Bill Poole, of Portland, heavyweights, fought a draw. Poole broke some bones in his right hand and finished the last two rounds in this condition.

Four fast rounds between Bill Purdy, 135, and Russell Green, 135, both of Salem, opened the card. This was Green's second fight and he was put to sleep just before the gong sounded to close the final chapter.

Portland. The Coos county lad forced the Portlander to the ropes several times in the third round and the battle was stopped just before the final round ended. The decision was evident to all and honestly earned.

Billy Frazier, 135, of Salem, ran into an old head at the game when he met Jack O'Leary, 135, of Portland, in the third preliminary. Frazier was game but hopelessly outclassed and apparently not in the best of condition. The battle was stopped before the end of the first round.

The main event of the card was the heavy-weight scrap between Bill Hunt, 185, of Salem, and Bill Poole, 176, of Portland.

In the first round Hunt began to scratch his nose, a characteristic gesture of the husky fireman. He received a few body blows, got a little peevish and proceeded to wade into the fray. Both went strong.

Both fighters began to show signs of the battle in the second round, with Poole having it slightly over the local fighter. The third round opened fast and furious, with Hunt missing some heavy blows. Honors were even. While Hunt hit the ropes a few times in the fourth round, he had Poole hanging on in the clinches. Hunt was hitting a little the heavier of the two. He received cuts above both eyes by the close of the round. Poole broke a bone in his right hand in this round, but continued the fight.

Heavy blows were exchanged in the fifth round, with Hunt getting the best of the argument. Poole opened the fight in the final round which was ended in a draw decision. Sparring opened the battle between Cracker Warren, 139, of Oregon City, and Ad Mackie, 128 1/2, of Portland. The first round was spent in warming up. The men began to scrap a little in the second round, with honors even. In the third round Warren landed his first telling blows. Other blows were exchanged. Mackie was forcing the fight a little and had a slight edge over his opponent. Both slowed up in the fourth round while action was lacking in the fifth round. In the final round Warren got in some good blows though he lacked the aggressiveness of his opponent. Warren was given the decision.

Prior to the Warren-Mackie bout Phil Hayes stepped into the ring and challenged the winner.

Jack Wagner, of Portland, was the referee and I. R. Smith, of Salem, announcer.

SOME PUMPKINS AND THEN SOME

Big Salem Canneries Preparing a Lot of the Makings of Pumpkin Pies

It would delight the gastronomic nerves of a New Englander to see the way two big Salem canneries are preparing the makings of pumpkin pies for the markets of this country.

They are the Hunt Bros. Co. cannery on Front street, and the Oregon Packing company cannery on Twelfth street. The Hunt cannery has been packing pumpkins for a number of years, but this is the first year in this line for the Oregon Packing company, and the latter concern was yesterday working 82 people in canning pumpkins. Putting up a lot of them; shipping some of them from considerable distances to their Salem cannery.

The pumpkin pie of commerce is really a squash pie; and it is true of the New England pie, too, where the Hubbard squash is used for making the really fine pumpkin pies. Here a special squash for canning is used. The canners here will tell you it makes a better pumpkin pie than even the Hubbard squash of New England. Salem sent 20,000 cases of canned squash to market in 1923. The pack will be a good deal larger for 1924.

For that matter, it is likely that the Salem canneries will show an increase over the grand total for 1923, which, for Marion county, was $36,960.

Big Apple Pack
The Hunt cannery is still running on apples as well as squash; to capacity. Will be running on apples for some time yet; as long as there is an apple supply at satisfactory prices.

The Oregon Packing company is running exclusively on squashes. The Northwest cannery is still running on apples, and will be for some time yet; perhaps two or three weeks.
The Starr cannery ran a while on apples, but is doing nothing but shipping now.
The Producers Packing and Canning company is through packing fruit for this year, and is only doing shipping now.

All the Salem canneries are looking forward to a much bigger year in 1925.

permission to bring over flax spinning experts from Ireland to teach the business to Americans, and he arranged for three of these experts to come when he is ready. Also, as was stated in The Statesman on his arrival home, his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Dann, are in Belfast attending technical instruction and in readiness to help in assembling the necessary machinery.

Mr. Miles has half the necessary $150,000 capital in hand now, and will have it all within ample time.

He expects to run the spinning mill on an eight hour shift for the first six months, and on two eight hour shifts thereafter; hence his request for a contract for four times the fiber for 1926 that he will need in 1925 for the last six months of next year.

He hopes also to expand the business as he finds profitable markets, and with a view in due time, perhaps, of adding weaving machinery.

Other Mills Promised
There are at least two other mills promised for Salem, one proposing to both spin yarn and weave cloth, and the other to weave specialties only.

If all come that are now promised, there will have to be a number more of independent retting and scutching plants built and operated, in order to supply the fiber.

REST OF SERIES NOT TO BE PLAYED

Eight Games Canceled Between Seattle and Saint Paul Ball Clubs

SEATTLE, Oct. 29.—Baseball players of the St. Paul club who were forced to cancel the remaining series of games with the Seattle Indians for the class AA championship of the world because of rain, left tonight for their homes in St. Paul. Only one game of a proposed series of nine was played, the Saints whipping the Indians 12 to 4 Sunday.

BANK ROBBED
WEAVERVILLE, Cal., Oct. 29.—A masked robber held up and robbed County Treasurer H. L. Knowles late today and escaped with several thousand dollars in Trinity county funds.

The terrific blast blew bodies out of the passenger car. It was believed at first that a tank of illuminating gas under the coach exploded, but an investigation disclosed, according to officials of the Canadian Pacific that the explosion was caused by high explosives in the car. P. G. Coleman, vice president of the western lines of the company at Winnipeg, Man., said the explosion was caused by some human agency within the car, either intentional or accidental.

tional organizer for the national union of distributive and allied workers and a representative on the Manchester city council.

Margin Is Raised
A striking feature of the election was the great increases in the conservative majority almost everywhere, even when the representation was not enlarged.

Sir E. W. M. Grigg, who was defeated for Oldham, was formerly Mr. Lloyd-George's secretary. Mr. Former Premier H. H. Asquith was defeated in Paisley.

Lady Astor was reelected for the Sutton division of Plymouth.

John Robert Clynes, Lord Privy Seal and defense leader of the house, was reelected for the Plattin division of Manchester but his majority was reduced.

The first communist elected to the new parliament was S. Saklatvala, who defeated the Liberal member, H. Hogbin, his conqueror in the last election in Battersea, North. This, therefore, was a loss for the liberals.

The vanquished air-sub secretary, William Leach, was noted for his pacifist leanings. His pacifist speeches since he was made head of one of the military departments attracted much attention.

Arthur Ponsonby, who was re-ected was the minister in charge of the Russian treaty negotiations.

TOPPENISH HAS FIRE
YAKIMA, Wash., Oct. 29.—Fire of undetermined origin tonight destroyed a residence and two warehouses containing 200 tons of potatoes and 300 tons of hay in Toppenish, south of here. The loss was roughly estimated at $25,000. The warehouses were said to be valued at $6,000 each.

MEMORIAL FUND DRIVE CONTINUES

Small Contributions to Be Sought By Salem War Mothers This Week

It is imperative that all funds to the War Mothers' memorial committee be in not later than Saturday, Nov. 8, according to Mrs. John A. Carson, head of the committee in charge. Money from the Marion county towns have not as yet been forwarded which will add to the fund paying for the statue, "Over the Top to Victory." However, the contributions from Woodburn, Silverton, Mt. Angel, Mehama and Stayton will increase the $1,600 already paid out and will decrease the $1,800 remaining unpaid.

Starting the last of this week and continuing the latter part of next week receptacles are to be placed at the various street corners of the city, which will be used to hold the contributions of the passerby. An opportunity is to be given everyone to contribute pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters and larger sums of money to the statue fund. A card above the receptacle will tell the story. Individuals who feel that they can not give large sums will be able to contribute within their means. It is by this manner that the War Mothers want everyone to have a part in the erecting of the memorial.

The War Mothers want the names of the war heroes to remain through all time. Already many of the boys who laid down their lives have no near relatives surviving them. This was discovered by the committee which invited the fathers, mothers and sisters and relatives of the soldiers to be special guests Armistice day.

It is a comfort to a War Mother to read her boy's name upon the monument. Just before it was unveiled a lone mother could have been seen reading the names upon the granite pedestal. Words can not describe the feeling that comes to one who has suffered such a loss. To one who has been "over the top to victory," it is a sad sight indeed to see a buddy's mother and hear her ask how her boy went "west." There is nothing that can heal the aching void, and the monument "Over the Top to Victory," will bring comfort to those who have lost relatives during the World war.

You can recognize the approach to a center of culture by the increased number of hot dog stands.

Oregon's farmers, workers, and industries NEED YOUR Help!

Why you should help them DEFEAT The Workmen's Compulsory Compensation Amendment.

Unless this reactionary amendment is defeated Oregon's working people will lose the sure protection of the present good compensation law. In its place they will be compelled to submit to a three-man political commission, whose powers will be FINAL. No matter how unfairly it may treat injured working people or their dependents, our workers will NOT have the right to appeal to an AMERICAN JURY for a square deal, as they now have.

Forces our Farmers In

Under the present compensation act, farmers can come under it if they desire. Under the proposed amendment they could BE FORCED IN and would be COMPELLED to pay money into the state fund in ADDITION TO THEIR PRESENT TAXES.

Dictation with No Appeal

The commission would be ABOVE THE LAW. It could make its own law; be its own judge and jury. Industry, our farmers and our working people would be helpless because the commission's decisions would be FINAL and non-appealable.

Medical Trust Created

The amendment specifically forbids medical or surgical treatment for crippled workmen, except by doctors selected by the commission and under its monopolistic control.

Wrecks a Good Law

The amendment was initiated by professional agitators of Portland. If enacted it will mark the return of the old system of bitter lawsuits and ambulance chasing lawyers. It will wreck the present good law, which extends certain protection to industry and our working people.
