A CLEAN SWEEP

Coolidge and Dawes were not the only victors in the jousts of the week. A telegram from A. H. Craven, received by Mrs. Craven, Wednesday, disclosed the fact that Mr. Craven's exhibit of Romney's at the Portland Livestock Exposition had gathered a whole armful of laurels. A grand championship ewe, eight first premiums, two second premiums, six third premiums, five fourths and two fifths, sum up the totals won. Mr. Craven's flock won some notable triumphs at the state fair but with increased competition which prevails at the Livestock show he was only hopeful of results.

Which makes his conquests all the more satisfactory.—Monmouth Herald.

It's too late to weep about it, but perhaps poor Cain had a complex or dual personality or something.

SALEM SEES MANY PLAYS THIS WEEK

High Class Pictures and Musical Comedy Among Features Listed

Salem will return for one night to the days of the good old musical comedies Tuesday night, Armistice Day, when "The Gingham Girl" comes to the Grand theater.

If the press review from the cities in which the company has already appeared on the coast are any criterion of the quality of the production and the talent of the cast presenting it, then the show must be well up to the standard of the musical productions of six or eight years ago, when this type of theater amusement was at the height of its perfection. Generally these reviewers are pretty reliable, and decidedly independent, as some of the fiasco productions which have visited the coast during the past two years have found to their sorrow.

J. H. Green, dramatic critic of the Tacoma News-Tribune, gives "The Gingham Girl" a characteristic sendoff.

"The Gingham Girl" is one of the few shows coming to Tacoma that one feels like recommending with 'Don't miss it if you want some real enjoyment,' writes Green.

"There isn't a lot of extremely fancy fun about it—the lines are so natural, so homely, anyone could have written them. It develops of itself through good presentation. There is pathos as the basis for the comedy that gives it stamina, and the company presenting it is composed of trained people. There are a few good voices in the musical numbers, the comedy is excellently sustained throughout, the dancing is appealing from start to finish, costumes are pleasing to both masculine and feminine eyes, and the actors work as hard as though they took a personal interest in the presentation of the play."

"Lovers of clean, sprightly musical comedy have waited a long time for 'The Gingham Girl' to arrive," writes John W. Nelson in the Seattle Star.

"But it's here, more than satisfying that taste possessed by most theater goers for clean humor, bright costumes, pathos, dancing, good music and pretty faces."

"There is plot enough to build a melodrama, music enough for a farce, and wit in plenty for a farce."

reason of his disappointment and who brings a dramatic denouement on which is based the finish of the story. Francis Feeny is the other youth.

An unusually fine and well-balanced cast has been assembled for "The Old Fool," the Hodgkinson picture now playing at the Liberty theater.

James Barrows, the veteran actor, who has the title role was the original Squire in the stage play "Way Down East," and will be remembered for his screen characterizations in "The Untamed," "Down Home," "When Dawn Came" and "The Pride of Palomar."

Lloyd Hughes who plays the part of Johnny Steele, the only one of the Steele household who loves the old man, and takes care of him, is a great favorite with picturegoers. He has played in such well-known films as "The False Road," "Below the Surface," "Homespun Folks," "Beau Reveil" and "Dangerous Hours."

As a result of his splendid work in "The Old Fool" he has just signed a contract with the Famous Player-Lasky Corporation.

Charming, golden-haired Betty Francisco has the feminine lead. Betty's popularity has grown enormously lately. Some of the more recent pictures in which she appears are "Midsummer Madness," "Other Men's Daughters" and "Flaming Youth."

Probably no comedienne is better known than Louise Fazenda. She began as the pig-tailed heroine of Keystone comedies, but has lately graduated from mber "make-up." Among the bigger features, she has appeared in "The Spoilers" and "The Gold Diggers." It is said that she will soon be starred.

Edgie Featherston, a clever New York comedian as he appears in the musical comedy hit, "The Gingham Girl."

What is considered the most novel comedy role yet brought to the screen by the popular Douglas MacLean is that of Dudley Ainsworth in his newest production, "The Yankee Consul."

Just when life falls on the rich and indolent young New Yorker, he enters into a wager with one of his club cronies that he can work steadily for one solid month and begins his grind when the unexpected happens.

A pretty girl crosses his vision and she not only seems in great peril but he seems to take quick cognizance of the fact that he is the very man to become her champion. Then again he is found to be far at sea on the very same boat with the young woman and finds himself in a pretty pickle.

Beauty SLAIN BY TRIBE TO LAY SPIRITS

A Gleamy Mass of Hair 35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair-brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling. You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair appears after this delightful, refreshing dressing.—Adv.

No funds with him but possessed of the credentials and passage of the consul to a post in South America. The thought struck him that if he could impersonate the Yankee Consul all would end well. He is shocked to hear that there is a warrant for his arrest in the states.

He assumes the role and the plot thickens. One exciting thing after another happens. The comedy aspect takes on the proportions of a laughquake and MacLean takes advantage of each scene to work up the biggest kind of a comedy result.

It is not often that a motion picture company traveling to location experiences the sensation of passing through three climatic zones on the way. During the making of "The Code of the Wilderness," which is being shown at the Grand theater, the company faced three sorts of weather on the way to location. The company, including Alice Calhoun, John Bowers, Alan Hale, Kitty Bradbury and Otis Harlan, left the studio during a rain storm which traveled with them during their drive through the southern part of the state. Then as they mounted El Cajon Pass, through the mountains that separated them from the Mojave Desert, the company experienced three changes. The rain at the foot of the pass changed to hail as they climbed. On the summit the hail changed to snow and they drove through a heavy fall. Soon they were at work on the famous Mojave Desert facing an intense heat that made them wish they could return to either one of the three zones through which they passed.

Movement to Make Music Factor in Children's Lives

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 8 (AP)—Believing that the children of today make the musicians of the audiences of tomorrow, the Federation of Music Clubs, cooperating with the Lyceum and Chautauqua associations, will form music clubs among the junior workers to make music a permanent factor in the lives of children.

A plan has been perfected whereby Chautauqua junior workers, in conjunction with the state and national organizations of the music clubs, will organize permanent groups at the Chautauqua and assemble to federate through the effort of the national officers and chairmen. Mrs. John P. Lyons, president, has announced.

"We believe this plan will make for a great impetus in our junior department," Mrs. Lyons said.

"Our musicians and audiences of the future are the children of today. Training the child in the way it should go musically will help materially to solve many of the problems confronting the American musician in this generation."

$500,000 FIRE STOCKTON SPRINGS, Maine, Nov. 8.—All three of the big forwarding docks of the Bangor and Aroostook railroad terminuses here, together with several large warehouses and other buildings and a four-masted schooner were destroyed by fire today with loss estimated at $500,000.

There are numerous strong and silent men in America, and all of them are married.

WRANGELL, Alaska, Oct. 15 (AP)—Killing and torturing members of the tribe having failed to drive away evil spirits that were causing hunger and disease, an Indian in the Liard district hanged a dog daily until he had put to death his whole sled team.

This was one of the tales that trickled through to Wrangell by means of gold prospectors after a party of Canadian Royal Mounted Police passed through here recently bound for Vancouver, B. C., with five Indians accused of torturing to death Moccasin, a lad of 17. The boy was said to have been buried while he still breathed.

Legends that the Indians of the wilds of British Columbia and southern Yukon commonly told and slew fellow tribesmen for being friends and companions of injurious spirits have long been common among prospectors.

Five months ago Frank Bass, factor for the Hudson's Bay company at Fort Liard, Yukon Territory, reported to Canadian authorities that Big Aleck, a Cree Indian living on the Mackenzie river, had told him that nomad Indians from the Nelson river, in British Columbia, had murdered a boy accused of witchcraft. The crime was placed at 40 miles south of Fort Liard.

Superintendent Knight of the Royal Police, stationed at Vancouver, sent a patrol to investigate. The Liard district was reached after traveling hundreds of miles on foot with pack dogs and navigating the swift lower Liard river by canoe. Big Aleck, when found, repudiated the story. The party of three policemen, commanded by Inspector T. V. Sandys-Wunsch, camped near the suspected Indians.

Patiently studying the territory, the investigators came on a hole in which they found the body of a boy with his hands tied behind him.

After that confessions from the Indians came easily. These were to the effect that Edy, a squaw, had suspended Moccasin head downward from a sapling to drive away evil spirits, after Big Aleck had dreamed that the lad was a sorcerer. A girl, Lucy, found Moccasin hanging there and begged that he be cut down. Lucy said that the lad was alive when put into the hole, but other Indians asserted that he was killed first by hitting him on the head with a rock.

The police arrested Edy, her three brothers, Dan, Jimmy and Clem, and Big Aleck, and took them to Fort Liard. At a hearing

There the inspector, a magistrate, decided that the prisoners should go to Vancouver for trial.

The three policemen brought the prisoners out to Wrangell, traveling 1,000 miles on foot and by canoe.

No police had been in the Liard district since 1892.

Haid Visible Record System Is Now Being Made and Put on the Market

Organization by the stockholders of the Haid company was perfected in Salem a few days ago, following the filing of articles of incorporation with the state corporation commissioner. The Haid company will manufacture Haid's Visible Record System, perfected and invented by Herbert Haid, a certified public accountant and office efficiency expert of many years experience and for the past five years up to a few weeks ago, credit manager for the H. L. Stiff Furniture company of Salem.

The Haid system was recently exhibited at the Oregon state fair in the standard equipment booth of the Burroughs Adding machine and National Cash Register companies and brought forth considerable comment from many interested parties as a complete innovation of the visible type of card index or record. A unique and important feature of the Haid system in one of their cabinets is the display of 250 visible names at a glance and by the simple leafing over of the tray another 250 visible names. The individual cards may be removed and inserted by the simplest effort, and allowance for expansion is unlimited and facilitated by the

Stormy Weather Brings Small Boat Back Home

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 8 (AP)—Stormy weather in the Pacific ocean off the Washington coast was too much for the Idle Hour, 31-foot power boat that set out a few weeks ago for Honolulu via California. The vessel owned and piloted by Carl Rathfon, was forced to put back here after battling the bad weather for several weeks.

The authorities of Enniskillen, in northern Ireland, recently called upon to consider the case of a woman pauper who came to them from Sligo claiming to be a native of Enniskillen. She refused admission, principally because she drove up to the workhouse in a motor car. This was taken as evidence of means, and the applicant was ordered to return to Sligo.
