

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Fred Lockley Is Speaker— Fred Lockley newspaper man of Portland, is the speaker for the Rotarians today at their regular weekly business luncheon. Each member has been instructed to bring a son, his son or one adopted for the occasion. The sons will be called upon to furnish part of the entertainment.

Select Christmas Presents Now— Small payments make it easy. Love, the Jeweler, Salem. 410-11

Church Dinner Attracts— Observance of the Father and Son movement at the Baptist church with a banquet last night brought many to the church. The meeting was very enthusiastic and those present reported a fine time and dinner.

Comments Received— Many favorable comments have been reported to the local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, upon their uniform plan of street decoration introduced here. Flags and housings were sold to a majority of business men here and the housings were installed by a local firm. The total cost to the merchant was $4.85. With the creditable showing made by the Armistice Day display it is expected that additional merchants of Salem will use the uniform street decoration plan.

Prune Order Filled— A rush order for prunes kept the Salem Fruit Union packing force busy Armistice Day. A carload of 35-45s for the Salem Growers Co-operative association, affiliated with the North Pacific Prune exchange was packed. The order stated that the car should be rushed to Portland Tuesday night without fail.

Seedlings Packed— The Salem Walnut Growers association has packed nearly all the seedlings of the 1924 mayettes, and has a few of the better grades of seedlings on hand. Some of the franquettes are left. They will be disposed of, however, as a carload is being prepared for eastern shipment. This makes the second car of Oregon walnuts to be sent east. The demand for the nuts is greater than the supply.

Show Arrivals Late— Local critics give high praise to "The Gingham Girl," a musical comedy presented at the Grand last night, and class it as one of the best musical comedies presented in Salem. The troupe came directly from Bellingham, Wash., and were delayed enroute by the stormy weather. They arrived in Salem somewhat behind their scheduled time. Due to the stormy weather "The Gingham Girl" did not play a full house.

Two Drunks— W. B. Peterson was haled into the local police court over Armistice Day charged with being drunk. G. Belton was booked under the same charge.

Drives Car Poorly— H. D. Young drove his automobile with one hand and it caused his arrest and he was booked at the police station. Paul Schmidt was held for driving his machine with an open cutoff.

Speeders Caught— R. X. Meyers, T. Allen, C. B. Angenelt, and G. Love were arrested by Officer Whites for exceeding the authorized speed limit in various parts of the city. Officer Hickman brought Alton Newberry, R. W. Miles, Floyd Query, and M. M. Breen to the police station on the same charge. A Dittmar faces a charge in the local police court because he drove his machine with an open cutoff.

Scotch Program Enjoyed— A full Scotch program, in which the plaid kilts of the highlands, the bagpipes, and a lass who did the Highland fling were outstanding features of the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club Tuesday. In addition, John L. Brady, editor of The Oregon Statesman gave the main address. Scottish songs were sung by Jim P. Smart and the bagpipes were played by John Charge and Arthur Hutecheon. Nellie Hutecheon was the Scotch lassie who danced the Highland fling. John Charge, is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. William Calder of Polk county, who were the guests of honor of the Kiwanis yesterday. John Charge has performed personally before the King and Queen of England, the King of Belgium, other royal notables of England and continental Europe.

New Settlers For Week— A $50,000.00 land deal was consummated near Hillsboro, Washington county, recently, when L. A. Whittle of Nampa, Idaho, took over a highly improved walnut grove. S. J. Myhrle, who came to Oregon from Lohr, Montana, has settled at Newport. W. A. Alexander of Auburn, Montana, has made his home at Woodburn, Ore. E. P. Gifford, recently of Wendell, Idaho, has now located on a farm near Salem, Ore. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Crans, who formerly lived in the Coos Bay section and who went to Iowa, and subsequently to Dodge Center, Minn., have returned to Oregon to make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Crane arrived in Portland Saturday and are looking for a location at Salem.

State Horticultural Society— The annual meeting of the Oregon state Horticultural Society was held at the Pacific International Live Stock Exposition Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week. Many very important papers were presented of interest to all horticulturists in the state and all of which will be printed in book form which can be obtained from the secretary of the society, Clayton L. Long, OAC, Corvallis. The society also listened to Dr. William H. Walker, a special representative of the Department of Commerce, on the desirability of growers studying the proposed legislation to give some kind of government contact to co-operative marketing. W. H. Wood of Medford, was elected president; L. T. Reynolds, Salem, vice president, and Clayton L. Long, extension specialist, OAC, secretary.

Leaves Auto Company— P. A. Elker has severed his connections with the Valley Motor Co., and disposed of his interests to Paul B. Wallace.

Sticks Eye With Hot Iron— A curling iron, which she was using, slipped and went into her eye and as a result Miss Dolly Frohmader of 2013 North Front may lose the sight of her right eye. Miss Frohmader was curling her hair at the time of the accident and the hot iron seriously injured the eye. It is not yet determined by physicians whether the eye can be saved.

Episcopal Rummage Sale— At parish house, Chemeketa street, between High and Church, Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week. n12

Little Boy Hurt— The front wheels of a touring car driven by Truman Cummings crumpled together Tuesday morning while he was driving along the River road and today little Carroll Cummings, eight years old, lies in a hospital bed with a fractured skull and a fractured collarbone. The bushings of the wheels were loose and after they had crumpled the car went into the ditch and turned over. The injured lad, his brother who was driving the car, and a companion were riding in the front seat. Carroll was the only one seriously injured. The companion received a scalp wound.

Bulletin Gets Funny— "Think It Over" is the title to an article appearing in the Salem Chamber of Commerce bulletin. The gigantosaur, 100 feet long and as big as a house, is no more. The tyrannosaur, strong as a locomotive, and terrible to look at, isn't here. The flying dragon had its day—millions of years ago. They couldn't adapt them-

DIED— Mrs. Mary V. Wolf died at the Old People's home Nov. 11 at the age of 83 years. She is survived by a brother, James Weber, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Wells of Cleveland, Ohio. Funeral services will be held in the Rigdon chapel Thursday at 10 a. m., Rev. Rosebraugh officiating. Interment will be in the City View cemetery.

seven to the times and didn't take interest in their own communities. Millions of years from now, there will be found a salamander on which there will be placed the label, "He couldn't adapt himself to the changing conditions of the Willamette valley."

Enquiries Coming— Advertising matter which has been placed in magazines and farm papers circulating in the Mississippi valley are bringing replies. Inquiries are already coming in from Wisconsin and Illinois. These ads were placed by the Chamber of Commerce in Illinois farmer and Wisconsin farmer magazines.

Gets Unique Communication— A letter directed to Hal D. Patton, member of the Patton Bros. book store, was received recently from J. W. Reddington, an old-time Indian fighter and scout who formerly resided in Salem. The envelope was addressed: "Mr. Hal D. Patton, bookseller and stationer, Salem, Oregon, west of the state house and east of the sawmill (don't know street address, but the efficient P. O. man does)." He states that he has been scouting around for photos of old scouts who went through the Indian wars in the Pacific northwest and has finally secured a number which warranted his publishing them. He predicts that the printing will be finished soon and copies are to be mailed to Patton's at Salem. Reddington has been an inmate of the Old Soldiers' home and went to live with his grandchildren for a while. He plans on visiting Salem.

Labor Chief Is Ill— W. H. Chase, business agent for the Salem Trades and Labor council, is ill with his grandchild. Though unable to attend to his duties at present, Mr. Chase expects to be able to get down to his office in a few days.

Dance Proves Success— From a financial standpoint at least the annual Armistice day dance at the Armory, staged under the auspices of the American legion, proved a huge financial success. The big dance floor was packed during the entire program with a great many on the sidelines. Concessions were operated by the American Legion auxiliary.

FRANK MORRISON GERVAIS BONIFACE

The Depot Hotel of Neighboring Town Is Taken Over By Old Salemite

Frank Morrison, old time printer, for many years route agent for The Statesman and The Oregonian in Salem, collector for a number of firms, and known by everybody here who has been in Salem for any length of time, is a country town to a city with many of the airs of a metropolis. Mr. Inman, who comes to Salem to live, is a painter and contractor, and a large part of his work was already here. So the transfer is one of mutual benefits.

Been Here Long Time— Mr. Morrison saw Salem first in 1878, and he has been a resident of this city since 1894. He witnessed Salem's growth from a country town to a city with many of the airs of a metropolis.

DIED— Mrs. Mary V. Wolf died at the Old People's home Nov. 11 at the age of 83 years. She is survived by a brother, James Weber, and a sister, Mrs. Sarah Wells of Cleveland, Ohio. Funeral services will be held in the Rigdon chapel Thursday at 10 a. m., Rev. Rosebraugh officiating. Interment will be in the City View cemetery.

Paris objects to Fritz Kreisler playing his violin in the French city on Armistice Day. Fritz is an Austrian, but surely France cannot hold a feud against the Austria of today. The occasion is appropriate for the great musician to render that Daves number.

Why Stay Fat? YOU CAN REDUCE

The answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too slow to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are pleasant to take, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A box is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat. You can reduce steadily and easily without going through long stages of tireless exercise and starvation diet with fear of sad effects. Get a box and start getting slender now.—adv.
