BITS FOR BREAKFAST

Are you helping—
Helping the Y crusaders?

They are working desperately to save the good name of Salem by finishing the $200,000 building campaign.

If you think they have an easy job, you get out and help them. It is as much your job as theirs.

The flax breakers at the state flax plant have been started and the scutching plant will be in operation within a few days. Then the finished product of fiber will begin to be ready for the market.

The Slogan man is getting help from several sources, in attracting attention to the fact that Salem is the best location in the United States right now for a sugar factory. "Sticking everlastingly at it will bring success."

Hawley hall for girls, at the Salem United States Indian training school (Chenawa), has been finished since June; but it is still awaiting bedsteads; delay due to St.ouis manufacturer. This new hall has a capacity for 140 girls and in the mean time the other halls for girls are packed to the roofs. Some one has been asleep at the switch.

An English bishop says that girls should not marry before they are 21 nor after they are 30. But this would be a strange world if the bishop had his way.

The cheesemakers of the country will have their convention in Wisconsin the first week in December. That will seem like old-home week for Bob La Follette.

It may interest some of the juvenile jazz hounds to know that George Westinghouse was inventing rotary engines when he was 14 years of age. Now the boys seem to be designing new dancing steps.

CRADLE HAS ROCKED
FOUR GENERATIONS

There is in Salem a cradle that was made in 1820, has rocked four generations and is as good as new, though it is 104 years old.

This cradle was made in Cuba from mahogany grown on the sugar plantation of Asahel Clarke, father of S. A. Clarke, at one time a prominent newspaper publisher of Salem; grandfather of Mrs. Sally Dyer of this city, and great grandfather of Connell Dyer and Miss Margaret Looney.

It is solid mahogany and all hand carved; even the slats are of mahogany, and the workmanship shows a high order of exquisite taste. It is of Spanish design, is perfectly preserved.

This cradle is on display for a few days in the east front window of the Hamilton furniture store on Court street, where it will no doubt attract much attention.

Shampoo without Rinsing

Rinsing devitalizes the hair—makes it drab and brittle. The alkali in hard water does it. Begin the use of this new hair shampoo. It cleanses the hair, washes the scalp, and restores the natural color and texture of the hair. It is the only shampoo that does not require rinsing. It is the only shampoo that does not require rinsing. It is the only shampoo that does not require rinsing.

WILL MAKE REPORT;
TO PUBLISH NAMES

The State of the Monument Fund Will Be Given Out in a Few Days

Mrs. J. A. Carson, president of the Salem chapter, American War Mothers, will make a complete report on the state of the Marlon county soldier monument fund within a few days.

She will do this as soon as she receives the return from a number of the cities and towns where solicitation has been made for funds.

She will also give out for publication the names of all contributors to the fund who have given or pledged $5 and over.

It is expected that when all the reports are in, there will be shown a considerable sum yet to be raised, to complete the entire amount of $4000, the cost of the monument.

But the American War Mothers will keep on working, with cooked food sales, bazaars, rummage sales, etc., which, with the help of individual subscriptions, will finally render the memorial free of debt.
