

STATUE CAMPAIGN WILL NOT CLOSE

More Money Needed; Sublimity Only Town to Give its Full Quota

The American War Mothers of Salem have paid a total of $2180 on the statue, "Over the Top to Victory," which was unveiled here Armistice day and have several hundred dollars remaining to be paid. Just how much of a deficit remains has not been checked up as yet.

All Fat People Should Know This

Fat people owe a debt of gratitude to the discoverer of the new famous Marmola Prescription. And they ought to be still more grateful because this effective obesity remedy is now prepared in tablet form. Marmola Prescription Tablets can be obtained at all drug stores the world over at the reasonable price of one dollar for a box. Or you can secure them direct by sending the price for the Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. This new leaves no excuse for dieting or violent exercise for the reduction of the overfat body to normal.—Adv.

American War Mothers can estimate the exact amount they must raise, before completing payments on the monument. At present it is costing them eight percent to carry the debt.

Only one quota was filled and that was Sublimity. Silverton ranks second with most of the money raised, and other towns come in order. Woodburn's community club is to hold a meeting soon to make plans to finish paying their share of the fund and other towns are following suit.

RICCARDO MARTIN LIKES AUDIENCE

after that their songs seem glorified.
Mr. Carlin appeared a second time during the evening with two Spanish numbers and an encore. The arrioso from "I Pagliacci" was admittedly Martin's climax number and one that epitomized the strength of all that had gone before it.
In being asked if he preferred concert to operatic work, Mr. Martin would hardly agree that he did, though he expressed the belief that a cleanliness of solo art was achieved on the concert stage that the opera made almost impossible.

"What this country needs," is a $500 automobile that looks as "classy" as a $5,000 one.

FIRE EQUIPMENT UNLOADED MONDAY

Machine Being Inspected and Tested Before Turned Over to Council

Aerial truck No. 1 of the Salem fire department was unloaded Monday and brought to the station at the city hall, where it is now being thoroughly gone over and tested.

The truck has many of the latest features in fire-fighting devices. In addition to the 88 feet of ladder there is an attachment which makes it possible to convert the ladder into a water tower. This is a device worked out by Fire Chief Hutton and is the first one to be brought into the Pacific northwest. The aerial truck is driven by a six cylinder motor of 130 horsepower, chain drive.

Carter Butts, of the Seattle office of the company, is here to give the official test before the city council and to instruct the Salem firemen in operating the truck.

It takes exactly five seconds to send the ladder to its full height by concealed springs. It is a simple act to release the mechanism which starts the ladder upward, and it is just as simple to have it return to the lateral position on the truck. The operation is automatic, as are many other features on the aerial truck.

company of Portland received a number of copies of the booklet which they are to mail to patrons in the east. The booklets are to be enclosed in Christmas packages. The Portland Chamber of Commerce, the publication of the Portland chamber of commerce, prints a very clever compliment for the Salem publication and states that "In style, design and effective arrangement, the booklet will compare with anything now in circulation from the state. It has on the cover the one appealing, broad invitation, 'Come to Oregon.'"

Gahlsdorf Threat to Quit Is in Nature of Protest

The threat of William Gahlsdorf to resign from the presidency of the Business Men's league will be thrashed out at their next meeting, according to late announcements. The problem of uniform street decoration, which the Veterans of Foreign Wars have advanced, is said to be the cause of Gahlsdorf's stating that he would resign from the presidency of the league as a protest against the treatment of the league by the veterans. The veterans offered to install the flags complete at a cost of $4.85 and through the conferences that resulted between committees from the two organizations much misunderstanding resulted. The veterans went ahead with their proposition and gave the Salem merchants a uniform street decoration. It is understood, however, that Gahlsdorf did not approve of the plan, and did not subscribe to the plans, which the majority of merchants had accepted.

PIERCE - CREWS HIT BY WEST

fect that he considered Crews capable of running the office without outside help.

West's statement, commenting on the committee's dismissal is as follows:

"Our committee was discharged because it was performing its duties without fear or favor and because its investigations were extending into the activities of the present corporation commissioner. The governor was happy without words so long as we were uncovering the shortcomings of previous administrations, but he could not stand the gaff, when the investigations reached his own. The points which have been issued by the present corporation commissioner and his refusal to aid those who have in the past been defrauded show his utter unfitness for the responsible position he now is filling. The committee has withstood the pressure that has been brought to suppress their reports, but the governor, through his weakness, has given way, and it is now open season for all those promoters who would make the small investor his prey." George Black, the other member of the committee, also speaks laconically. He says: "The committee has been a very harmonious one. It is very unfortunate for the welfare of the investing public that it has been discharged at this time. The half has not been told."
