

ANDERSON & BROWN DEFEATS DRUGGISTS; HAUSERS WIN GAME

SECOND GAME PROVES FAST

Soldiers Lose Out by Close Score; Armory not Available Next Week.

Anderson & Brown cleaned up on the Central Pharmacy quintet last night at the armory in the first game of the evening, by a score of 20 to 14. Garnet Hara was the star for the victors and piled up 10 points. The A&B team was handicapped by the loss of Tucker and the injured hand of Albers, who, however, played through the game. Sparks and McCune started for the Druggists. The game was a listless one and showed that both teams were badly in need of practice. Their playing was more of a practice than a game.

In the second game of the evening Hauser Brothers defeated Company F by a score of 14 to 12. This was a fast, close game with Hauser Brothers in the lead throughout the entire game. Although the Soldiers did their best to take the lead they were unable to put things across. This is the first game of the season that the Hauser Brothers have won. It takes them out of the cellar position. Kenney made four points for the winning team. The Kings for Hauser Brothers was Strayhorn, who did creditable work. Fallin, as usual, was star for the infantrymen. He was seconded by Kelly. Company F did not have the team work usually displayed by them.

Owing to other arrangements the armory will not be available for the Commercial league next week. Arrangements will be made perhaps, to secure the high school gymnasium. Announcements will be made later.

Practice Game With Normal School Is Slated for Next Tuesday Night

The Willamette university basketball team will have its first taste of scrimmage Tuesday night when it meets the Monmouth Normal school five in a practice tilt. No definite lineup for the team can yet be determined, but strong lettermen are available for every position. Hartley, who showed up well at center last year, is slated for the post again. Fasnacht, star forward, and high point man last season, sustained an injury in practice a few days ago and has been unable to be out, but will be back on the floor next week. Robertson, and Erickson are out for their old places at guard and look well in practice. Mast, a new man, is making a strong bid for forward, with Stolzeise, Johnson, Emmel, furnishing competition for the various posts. About 15 men remain on the squad but this number will be reduced soon.

Coach Rathbun will attend the Northwest conference meeting in Portland December 13, and games with the various teams in the conference will be scheduled at that time. It is planned to bring every conference team to the home floor and in addition contests will be staged with other organizations.

Can Help Enumerators by Making Advance Figures

John U. Plank, who is taking the agricultural enumeration in the Macleay neighborhood, is making about 15 reports a day. He left the following at The Statesman office, which will be of help to all the enumerators in the county:

"The farm census enumerator desires to express his appreciation of the spirit of cooperation and the uniform courtesy shown by those with whom he comes in contact while carrying on his work. There would be a considerable saving of time and the inevitable little annoyances incident to the work could be almost entirely eliminated if each farm occupant would prepare the sample enumeration sheet and have it ready for the enumerator when he comes for it."

Every farmer has been provided with one of these sample sheets.

NATIVE LILY BULBS GROW PROFUSELY

Tillamook Man Experiments for Years in Easter Lily Propagation

Native easter lily bulbs can now compete successfully with imported bulbs, according to Louis S. Houghton, lily king of Tillamook, who for five years has been experimenting with the bulbs. He has succeeded in growing an Easter lily bulb which is more satisfactory for forced production in green houses than imported bulbs.

Mr. Houghton is the guest of W. C. Dibble, local tulip grower.

Mr. Houghton, a former expert in the employ of the department of agriculture, has had the cooperation of the United States government in his experiments. Many species of lilies have been tried out until it was found that the Easter and the Regal lilies are the most successful. Bulbs from the Tillamook country were sent east last spring to compete with foreign grown bulbs which resulted in the victory for the native bulb.

Mr. Houghton is keeping his bulbs on hand and is not putting them on the market. He reports extensive operations in bulb growing around the Tillamook country.

BIG PRODUCTION AT GLOVE PLANT

Gleason & Company Factory Has an Average Yearly Sale of $60,000

Thirty-six hundred pairs of gloves every day is the rate of production of the Gleason & Company glove factory, which is located at 1455 Oak street. That is the average output daily, and L. W. Gleason, the manager and moving spirit of the institution, says the factory is capable of an even larger production. The average yearly sale of the company amounts to approximately $60,000. The gloves are sold for the most part to western dealers and jobbers, but shipments have also been made to Alaska, and to the Hawaiian Islands.

Cloth From South Carolina
The cotton cloth used in the manufacture of the gloves is purchased in South Carolina and Georgia, while the leather for facing comes from California.

Manufacture Simple Process
From a small piece of cotton cloth and a bit of cow-hide to a leather glove is quite a transition, and yet it is the work of but a few minutes. The cloth, which comes in bolts about three feet wide, is placed one layer upon another to the depth of 24 layers, upon a table some 20 feet long. At the lower end of the table a man stands with dies for cutting the cloth, close at hand. The cloth is drawn along the table a few inches, the dies placed, and a huge electrically manipulated mallet descends upon the dies cutting through the 24 layers of cloth at once. The cloth, then cut into the shape of the back of a glove, if it is to be a leather faced glove, is taken to one of the 22 girls at the sewing machines. In the meantime the leather face of the glove has been cut from a large piece of cow-hide.

Faces Cut Similarly
The faces are cut much the same as the cloth, except that the operation is done by hand. The girls arrange the back and face of each glove quickly, step on a pedal, and the needle begins to fly at the rate of 3500 stitches per minute. The glove is soon sewed and the wrist attached. The glove is then sent to a woman at the lower end of the factory, who turns it right side out by placing it upon an ingenious and yet very simple little device consisting of hollow tubes and a plunger, and the glove is ready to be mated, packed in a Landle of 12 dozen, labeled, and stacked upon the stock shelf.

Russian Families Split Over Children's Religion

MOSCOW, Oct. 27. (AP)—The question of the religious education of children is one of the great problems of the Russian people. Frequently it is the cause of dissension between father and mother, leading to divorce and separation. In many cases the state has been called upon to settle disputes arising out of this question. A unique case recently came before a Moscow judge. A wife complained that her husband had objected to the Christianizing of her children, for which reason she left him. She demanded from her husband sufficient money to rear and educate the children, which the husband refused to pay, arguing that his wife intended to give religious instruction to the children. The father then took the case into court and asked the judge to place the children in a children's home in order to save them from the influence of their mother. The judge who was a Communist, evaded both points, but ordered that the children be returned to the father without any pay to the mother.
