ORIGINALITY CLAIMS THIS TUNIC FOR ITS OWN

AMID the rank and file of tunics, there arises occasionally a model which has the saving grace of originality. Such one is this charming example sketched in Paris by the Cheney Style Service, which prescribes to service to relieve the monotony of the unbroken line, a fascinating jabot, a dashing belt, and a new and intriguing use of button ornamentation.

The tunic proper is made in boyish or garconne style with the little turned down collar and cuffs affected by Premet on many of their models. The sport effect is further enhanced by the wide leather belt. But simplicity gives way to sophistication in the jabot, a by-product of the Directorate on the mode. This jabot is made of finely pleated white Crepe de Chine. The tunic itself is of bengaline, and is posed over a black satin fourreau. As to color, one may suit oneself in any of the hues accepted by fashion, but whatever color is shown, the belt must be of the same.

Further note of adornment is found in the double rows of small black buttons placed so close together that they give the effect of a new kind of trimming. These, employed in three bands across the skirt of the tunic, the middle row continuing up through the center of the jabot to the collar. The back of the tunic is devoid of ornamentation.

As an advance note on color, we are told by the Creative fashion authority, that Copper-Reds will be the prevailing color scheme for Spring, and that the Bleu Perceche hues will also come in for a share of popular favor.

gate will be hostesses with Mrs. Shipley.

Mrs. and Mrs. Asabel Bush were mid-week guests in Portland.

The four classes at Willamette university held class parties last evening.

Mrs. Charles Swartz's birthday was the inspiration for a surprise party given in her honor by the Book and Thimble club at the home of Mrs. Fred Kubin on Kingwood Heights road last Thursday after the regular meeting.

The rooms were decorated with yellow and buff chrysantheums and wandering Jew. During the regular session Mrs. L. E. Brown read an article on "Domestic Laws." Mrs. C. R. Schwartz read about the "Cranberry Bogs." The same ladies sang a duet, "Sweeten Right Along," and as an encore gave "The Star of the Twilight," after which the surprise came. The history of Mrs. Swartz' life, including many personal incidents such as only a friend knows and appreciates, was read by Mrs. Fred Kubin, ending with who can tell her age? Then the merry party group was ushered into the dining room where the table was set, the same color scheme being introduced throughout the luncheon, except for one red rose at the honor guest's plate. The centerpiece was a burnt leather birthday cake with many yellow candles all burning. They burned while wishes were made, and all forgot to count them until too late, so Mrs. Swartz' age is still a mystery to all but one—the cake decorator. The club presented Mrs. Schwartz with a beautiful friendship book.

The following members were present: Mrs. Mary Beaver, Mrs. E. W. Pattison, Mrs. Max Gehlar, Mrs. C. I. Adams, Mrs. L. F. Brown, Mrs. Charles Schwartz, Mrs. E. A. Manning, Mrs. F. H. Bentley and the hostess, Mrs. Fred Kubin. Mrs. C. Hathaway was unable to attend on account of illness.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks with Mrs. E. Manning, when Mrs. Pattison and Mrs. Beaver will furnish the program.

Plans for a Christmas party on the 18th were made at the meeting Thursday afternoon of Chapter G of the PEO Sisterhood when the group was entertained at the home of Mrs. D. X. Beecher. Late autumn flowers were used in the rooms, with light refreshments served at the conclusion of the afternoon.

Members of the chapter present were Mrs. W. B. Burt, Mrs. W. H. Byrd, Mrs. C. K. Logan, Mrs. F. C. Churchill, Mrs. E. E. Fisher, Mrs. W. T. Hickey, Mrs. E. J. Huffman, Miss Alyce Hollister, Mrs. W. M. Hughes, Mrs. P. J. Kuntz, Mrs. C. B. McCullough, Mrs. William McGhechrist, Mrs. B.

Today is the day of the Marionettes! They will be here this afternoon and they will be here this evening, at 2:30 o'clock and at 8:15 o'clock, under the auspices of the Salem Marionette Club. The "Pied Piper" will be the delightful matinee treat, while "Treasure Island" is reserved for the evening.

From among the many thousands who have seen the dog fight in Tony Sarg's Marionette version of "Pied Piper" have come scores of letters to Mr. Sarg commenting upon the "Gorgeous fight." Such friendly letters please Mr. Sarg, as a matter of course, and he has prepared a series of hand-to-hand, sword and blindfold, marlinpike, and other physical clashes in his new "Treasure Island" which he promises will surpass any of those presented in the popular Rip or even those of Don Quixote.

Because they use different weapons, and because of his natural aptitude for costume design, Mr. Sarg has most enjoyed building his scene in Treasure Island where the dog and the tomcat disagree as to which is the favorite of the pirate crew.

From the opening scene where the pirate cutthroats gather at the Inn, sing their pirate chorus, and depart for the sea, to a Hornpipe dance of most intricate steps takes place, to the Cave scene and the final curtain there is no moment when action lags. Were Robert Louis Stevenson able to see this Marionette version of his great book, he would surely have all the thrill and I had when we first read it.

With Treasure Island as the evening offering, and The Pied Piper of Hamelin with shorter novelties for afternoon, under the auspices of the Salem Women's club, are offering entertainment which is sure to please, the most captious, whether they be six years old or sixty.

An entire summer of experimentation in scenic effects and stage craft by Mr. Charles Searle, stage manager for the Salem Marionettes, has resulted in effects never before dreamed of in the Marionette theater. Mr. Sarg's beauty of design, line, and color has all its attractiveness as shown in the earlier plays of The Rose and the Ring, Slip Van Winkle, and Don Quixote.

While the final scene in the Island cave is a master-piece, the outstanding one is probably that of the pirate ship wallowing through a hurricane while the pirates fight to the death on deck of the rudderless craft. Mr. Sarg has kept few of his Marionette secrets, but the manner in which he depicts the dashing waves, the rain, and the helpless boat is one that he has not yet released. It is one thing which audiences must more and more see and figure out for themselves—if they can.

On Thursday afternoon the members of the Kensington club met for a very enjoyable afternoon at the home of Mrs. N. C. Kafoury. Invited guests for the day were Mrs. J. D. Graham of Long Beach, Cal., and Mrs. L. Spaulding. The afternoon was spent in sewing. Helen Kafoury played for the pleasure of the guests, after which refreshments were served.

Plans for the "Made in Oregon Fair" which the women of the First Congregational church are sponsoring are taking gratifying form. The fair will come on Wednesday, December 17. In view of the dry factories from all over the state are sending in samples of their products to place on sale. The Christian Endeavor will contribute candy for an additional booth. Between 6:15 and 7:30 o'clock dinner will be served featuring local products.
