Potash and Perlmutter in New Comedy at the Grand
The cloak and suit business, blasted by a depression in the market, Abe Potash and Mawrass Perlmutter, caterers to public opinion, have turned to a new line of endeavor.
They are now "filming beans" in "Hollywood," which comes to the Grand theater this evening to remain over the week-end. The picture shows the two famous cloak and suit partners in their initial attempt to become movie producers. Their first serious drama, like the movie of ten years ago, becomes a side-splitting comedy. The picture within a picture, however, is just one of the many adventures that Potash and Perlmutter encounter.
A stellar cast, headed by Alexander Carr, George Sidney, Vera Gordon and Betty Blythe interpret the story, which is a screen adaptation of the play, "Business Before Pleasure."

OLD BATTLE FRIGATE CONSTITUTION SURROUNDED BY SOME OF MOST MODERN VESSELS IN UNCLE SAM'S NAVY

INDIAN DIES
YAKIMA, Wash., Dec. 11.—Caesar Williams, an hereditary chief of the Warm Springs Indians died here this afternoon from the effects of a major operation this morning. Williams, who was 50 years old, was widely known on the Yakima Indian reservation, having lived in this section or 20 years and having been in the police service for a number of years. Williams' father, Dry Creek Billy, was a government scout in the Indian wars. Williams is survived by his wife, of Royal Kakima Indian blood. The funeral will be Saturday, with Indian rites.

A second big picture for the coming week-end also opens today at the Oregon, J. Warren Kerrigan and Jean Page in "Captain Blood," from the novel by Rafael Sabatini.
Much of the action in the story is laid on the Barbadoes, an island of the British West Indies, and the theme, as the title suggests, deals with the adventures of a pirate and buccaneer on the high seas.
Featured in the production is the greatest sea battle ever filmed, which results in the destruction of a full rigged ship, and stirring hand-to-hand clashes along the decks of boarded vessels are given a generous share of the whole picture.

THE HUMAN SIDE OF BANKING

What is the banking business? Do a bank's functions include only the balancing of accounts, collecting of interest, making loans and accounting to depositors for their money?
We believe that a modern bank renders service far beyond the mechanics of keeping a record of money transactions. A bank should be a community leader. The nature of its business puts it in touch with the hopes and aspirations of individuals, and the general needs of the town and surrounding territory which it serves. If a bank cannot form a proper connection between these various factors it is not functioning 100 per cent.

Livestock Developing
One phase of the work of the First National Bank has been the development of livestock clubs. Nothing has given it greater pleasure than to receive letters from boys and girls in Marion and Polk counties giving an account of their experience and the results shown since they have joined these livestock clubs. There were 18 members in the First National Bank's Jersey Calf Club, 7 members in the Guernsey Calf Club, 17 members in the Shropshire Sheep Club, 5 members in the Chester White Pig Club, 5 members in the Polk County Shropshire Sheep Club, and 5 members in the White Leghorn Poultry Club. In helping these 57 boys and girls who live in the country surrounding Salem to produce a thoroughbred animal, many of them prize winners at the State Fair and Pacific International Livestock Exposition at Portland, we feel that some work has been done which will be of lasting benefit to this community.

Building Character
The following is a copy of a letter similar to many received by the bank in the halting handwriting of the little boy or girl who, as he receives his schooling, is at the same time learning principles of industry and thrift:

Jefferson, Oregon, August 9, 1924.

President,
First National Bank,
Salem, Oregon.
Dear Sir:
My calf is doing very nicely. I am going to take her to the Fair and I hope to win a prize. I am teaching her to lead. She is four months old.
Yours truly,
EARL L. THOMAS,
Route 2.

A Montana Range Story
Five years ago one Montana range that served about twenty stockmen had almost that many kinds of beef cattle; their calves were piebald, mongrel brutes that always brought the bottom prices where there were any calves to sell. Then the ranchers got together, bought several carloads of pedigreed Hereford bulls, and sold off or shot all other breeding stock. The result has been a 100 per cent increase in the calf crop, a 100 per cent increase in the finished steer price, and the ranchers need no laws to make them money. The plan of standardizing fruit, grain, livestock, or poultry for any locality is the road to financial salvation.

Profit by Experience
A bank sees the heart-breaking struggles of farmers who have worked along and, through lack of information or from misinformation, failed to make their farm pay. With these experiences before it, is it not rendering a public service when it tries to teach the growing generation the advantage of specializing in agricultural pursuits, stock raising, dairying, etc.?
