might produce beets that would make 10,000 pounds of sugar— And still we buy most of our sugar from foreign countries where it is made from cane, that will not produce nearly as much to the acre. And think, too, of the wonderful benefits of the industry of beet sugar making indirectly accruing to any community. We are asleep on our ears as long as we neglect this industry. The cherry growers are up against a hard fight. Here's hoping they may win. They are going to talk it over at the Salem Chamber of Commerce tomorrow afternoon, commencing at 1:30. If they can win, they will show the way to others. Frank B. Southwick, who has passed to his final rest, was a leading Salem contractor and citizen for a very long time. He lived a useful life; was a good neighbor; filled his place as was fitting.
