HOW TO ESCAPE FROM EVIL:—Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the Most High, thy habitation; there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. Psalm 91:9-11.

PRAYER:—We rejoice to know, Father, that Thou dost keep us precious, as the apple of Thine Eye.

DOING BETTER, BUT SHOULD DO BETTER STILL

The Northwest Cannery association, which has been holding its annual session in Portland, on Wednesday took up the discussion of prevention of plant diseases—

And it was shown that while the losses of growers in the Pacific Northwest from pests are large, they are proportionately much less than they are in the East.

This is a showing creditable alike to our growers and to our agricultural college experts, who are working day in and day out, in every known way, and constantly by experiments finding new ways, to stamp out plant diseases and to control their ravages.

Readers of the Slogan pages of The Statesman will recall that, in the issue of yesterday morning, W. Frank Crawford, successful fruit grower and general farmer of Polk county, seven miles below Salem, said in his interview on the gooseberry industry, that he puts on a dormant 1 to 9 lime-sulphur spray every year—sprays every bush fruit and fruit tree on his place. He does this as a prudent housewife would clean house. It is his annual housecleaning for his orchard; for all his orchards and berry plantations. It must make a large annual expense for Mr. Crawford. But he thinks it pays, as a matter of insurance. And he believes that if all growers would do this, there would not be much loss from bugs or pests high or low.

Mr. Crawford does not refuse to spray, either, for specific diseases when they show up. He generally sprays his gooseberry plantation of 25 acres twice besides giving it this dormant winter spray; and he cultivates, too, with an eye partly to the control of diseases.

The canners of the Pacific Northwest could put over larger campaigns of selling their products if they could have all their raw supplies from such farms as the one of Mr. Crawford. They could, with greater confidence expound the virtues of their quality canned products for the markets—

And all this would tend to allow them to pay the growers better prices.

There is no money in scrub products. Let the "other fellow" grow them. But our growers should get above the dead line of mere competition in such a field.

We are doing better than others, but we should do better still. We will not get as far as we should till we do our best, in putting out quality products.

"Those Salem fellows are mighty loyal to their town. First thing Treasurer Kay did was to move the state depository back to Salem," Oregonian. The Salem fellows ought to be loyal to their town. It is a virtue possessed in high measure by Tom Kay. But he is also loyal to his state, and he has a regard to the best public service and convenience. Having the active account in Salem is much handier than to have it in Portland. It facilitates state business. That is in the account that has been transferred to Salem. All the rest of the state money is deposited as before, in the banks throughout Oregon.

ADVERTISING WILLAMETTE VALLEY
 (Corvallis Gazette-Times.)

The best piece of advertising for the Willamette valley and for Marion and Polk counties in particular, that has come to our attention, is the New Year Slogan edition of the Salem Statesman. For six years now Old Bob Hendricks has been preaching that Salem is the cherry center or the prune center or the nut center of the universe. They laughed at Bob, but he is hard headed and kept on preaching. The result is that more people know about the possibilities of Marion county than ever before and while we think Bob talks a good deal like a real estate agent sometimes, nevertheless, as a constant booster for his community, you have to hand him the long distance medal. And the latest annual number of The Statesman contains everything that Bob has said about the community possibilities in the past six years. Bob's boosting is largely responsible for the flax mill Salem will have and the flax mill means that Willamette valley farmers will have another outlet for a profitable crop.

STRENGTHENING THE LAW

The blue sky law in Oregon must be strengthened if it is going to serve the people. It is a good law, and yet, according to the reports of the governor's special investigating committee, it is not working as it should work. Commissioner Crews is proposing certain amendments. They are entitled to every consideration. If they plug up all the holes, his bill should be adopted. If the legislature sees where the law can be still further strengthened, such amendments should be adopted, and it would meet the hearty approval of Mr. Crews.

What Oregon wants is protection against the depredations of the blue sky salesmen who hold out glittering promises that cannot be fulfilled. It is the old get-rich-quick idea, and it takes millions out of the state every year. Oregon is not alone in this. The whole country is suffering. We need a national blue sky law, and we need one with teeth in it.

RE-ARRANGING TAXES

We must remember that a rearrangement of taxes is not reducing taxation. Taking taxes off one article and placing them on another is only a makeshift. It is necessary to be continually doing this, however, to have fair distribution of the burden.

We must address ourselves to must have this protection. The industry gets credit for accidents that are chargeable to the violations of the prohibitory law. It is a very serious matter to handle the question of drunken automobile drivers and this judge seems to have offered a solution that is sound.

The most fearful unbeliever is unbeliever in yourself.

Pioneer Fruitland Woman Given Big Surprise Party

FRUITLAND, Jan. 8.—Prayer meeting was well attended last Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Evans and daughter Jean have returned from Hermiston, Or., having spent the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Roger Lambert.

In honor of Mrs. C. W. Pugh, whose birthday was an event of January 8, a surprise party was held at her home at Clear Lake. The evening was spent with games by the young folks and a social hour was much enjoyed by the older ones present. A number of lovely gifts was received by Mrs. Pugh, after which luncheon was served by Mrs. H. E. Evans, Mrs.

STAYTON MAN PURCHASES Estacada Phone Exchange

STAYTON, Or., Jan. 8.—Alva Smith has purchased the telephone exchange at Estacada and will move to that place in the near future. Mr. Smith went to Estacada on the first of the week to look after his new possessions.

Mrs. Matilda Jones has returned to Bend after a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. J. M. English and other relatives. Mrs. Jones spent the holiday vacation here.

C. H. Flatts, proprietor of the Pastime pool hall, went to Hubbard Monday on a brief business trip.

Mrs. Jane Burson of Portland, a former resident of Stayton has been here for a week or more visiting her daughter, Mrs. Grant Murphy.

Melford Allen returned to Springfield Sunday after spending a few days visiting his mother, Mrs. Mary Allen. Mr. Allen is in the undertaking business in Springfield.

Edwin Keech, Lee Brown, Miss Ruby Spear, Miss Wava Brown and Miss Margaret Hensley, a group of Stayton young people, who are students at the University of Oregon, have returned to Eugene after holiday vacation activities here.

School activities were resumed Monday morning, with renewed zest, after a few days vacation, which was enjoyed by both teachers and pupils. However all seemed glad to return to school duties after the few days' rest.

The Misses Norma and Mary Stamp came up from Portland Friday after spending the holiday vacation with their mother, Mrs. Esther Stamp in Portland. Norma is a freshman at the U. of O. and left Sunday for Eugene where she will resume her studies.

Mrs. Dena Mack, who operates the local millinery store, went to Portland Monday where she attended the wholesale millinery opening. Mrs. Mack was accompanied by her husband, J. Forrest Mack, who is also looking after business interests in the city.

H. J. Rowe, manager of the Mountain States Light & Power company for this place, has installed concrete foundations for two new transformers which are to be added to the service here. The company has made several new additions since taking over the plant.

Hearse and Auto Damaged in Head-on Collision

STAYTON, Or., Jan. 8.—While driving into town last week John Dozier, who lives near Stayton, drove head-on into a hearse which W. A. Weddle, local undertaker, had left standing for a moment near the Yeoman service station.

Mr. Dozier was blinded by the heavy rain and did not see the hearse in time to prevent the accident. Both machines were damaged by the impact.

District Convention Held By Stayton M. E. Church

STAYTON, Jan. 8.—A splendid program and business meeting was held at the M.E. church in Stayton on Sunday when the Sunday school district convention was held here. A basket dinner at noon was also a much enjoyed feature of the day's program.

B. J. Kember, county YMCA secretary, who was scheduled to deliver an address before the convention, was unable to be present. His place being filled by Mr. John J. Brady, editor of the Oregon Statesman.
