WILLS PROUGHT AND PRAYER
Prepared by Rev. J. W. SHERMAN, Oregonian, Oreg. The prayer will have the effect of making the many able-bodied men, who will prove a priceless boon to them in after years.
January 10, 1925.
REWARD OF HUMILITY.—Whoever exalteth himself shall be abased: and he that humbly himself shall be exalted. Luke 14:11. But in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than himself. Look not every man on his own things, but ever man also on the things of others. Philippians 2:3-4.
PRAYER.—O Lord, give us pure hearts, that we may see Thee, and then we shall always walk humbly with our God.

SUGAR INDUSTRY NEWS

Since the Salem district is to enter the sugar industry, this year, at least to the extent of our farmers growing 150 acres of sugar beets, to be shipped to the new Utah-Idaho company factory being built at Bellingham, Wash., as a preliminary to the construction of a factory in this district by that company, sugar news in this field takes on a greater significance here. And there are possibilities of even larger developments in the Salem district this year, perhaps including a beet sugar factory here.

Rev. James Elvin, in a letter to The Statesman, published a few days ago, told of the construction of a $1,500,000 beet sugar factory at Sidney, Montana. It is learned from the current number of "Facts About Sugar," New York, the leading sugar industry newspaper, that the Holly Sugar corporation is the concern building the new factory at Sidney; that this company manufactured during the past season 1,440,000 bags of sugar, at its five plants; that these plants are at Delta, Swink and Grand Junction, Colo., Sheridan, Wyoming, and Santa Ana, Cal., and that this was a 40 per cent increase of the output of that company over 1923. Also that this makes them second in beet sugar output in this country. The Utah-Idaho company is the first, and the Great Western of Denver is among the big ones.

From the same source it is learned that the growers in a number of districts are organizing to fight for the retention of the present protective tariff rates on sugar.

The necessity for this may be illustrated in a number of ways. An outstanding one is the present state of the sugar industry of Italy. That country had a protective duty of 2.30 to 3.50 cents a pound on home sugar. But, on account of a short beet crop and consequent scarce supply of home sugar, this was suspended, and, on account of a quarrel, has not been restored. (The Italian government is practically a dictatorship.) The result is that the Italian factories are being ruined. Cheap sugars are coming into the country from Germany, Czechoslovakia, Belgium and other countries, putting the price below the cost of raising the beets in Italy.

All the German sugar factories are in a combination, amounting to a trust, for offensive and defensive trade warfare. They will be ready to "dump" their product onto the markets of the United States, if they get a chance.

But, in the present temper of this country, they will not likely get the chance. There is every hope that we are getting beyond the domination of any free trade party or wing of a party; and we are certainly free from rabid free trade ideas under the present administration.

Another thing. During the last national political campaign, when President Coolidge had been assailed by La Follette for not deciding in favor of the Wall Street Cuban sugar trust in its contention before the tariff commission for a lower duty on sugars, it was shown that the President had the interests of the 250,000 sugar beet growers of the United States as a part of his concern in the matter.

And it was also shown that La Follette was speaking falsely (and knew it), when he was claiming that the attitude of President Coolidge was costing the consumers of the country a large sum.

For it was asserted that each year, after the beet sugar factories were through their run, and had their product to dispose of, there was a sliding of the sugar prices. Now comes "Facts About Sugar," with the following paragraph in a long editorial on the sugar situation of the world:

"So keen has been the competition between these domestic sugars that the unusual spectacle has been witnessed of sugar selling at a lower price in western competitive territory than on the Atlantic seaboard.

So, not only does our beet sugar keep the price down for the consumers of the East, but it makes sugar cheaper for Western consumers than for Eastern users of sugar. Thus the La Follette lies look blinder now than they did when they were uttered.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION

The campaign to change the election laws so as to cripple the primary is not getting very far. In the Mills bill it is proposed to have a delegate convention to nominate where no candidate gets 40 per cent of the vote. In Texas and a number of other states they have what they call the "run-off" primary. That is, if no candidate gets the majority, then a second primary is held. This looks a good deal fairer than to hold a convention and let that convention do as it pleases. The easiest way would be to have a convention in the first place. The fact of the case is, the convention system means bosses.

A FOOLISH JUDGE

A woman named Sweetin was sent to the penitentiary for 35 years for poisoning her husband. She stood up to take her sentence a crushed, broken and friendless woman. Even her family had deserted her. What happens? A brutal judge seized the opportunity when the woman was in the valley of despondency and despair to exhort her, and tongue-lash her, and laud her. Bad as she was, this woman's spirit was no worse than the judge's, and there ought to be a law against exhorting creatures when they are at bay.

EDITORIALS OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Statesman: We would appreciate it if you would print the following article for the benefit of the farmers in your community.

SOLDIERS VOTING

When the proposition was first made to permit soldiers to vote in Oregon it looked specious and fair and a number of editors took it up. However, there is another side to this.

Early Methodist Activities are Depicted in Pictures

"Circuit Riders" was the appropriate title given to the illustrated stereopticon lecture delivered by Rev. C. B. Harrison, secretary of board of conference claims, at the First Methodist church last night before an audience of 200 people.

All we wish is that these radio guys would find their Sally. You can't turn a dial without someone wondering what's become of her.
