PRESIDENT Eugene C. Hickman was very thoroughly surprised Thursday evening when the student body and faculty members and friends of Kimball School of Theology arrived at his home to spend the evening. President Hickman's recent return from an extended business trip in the interests of the school was the motive of the occasion which all delighted in the most delightful of the school year.

Rev. O. J. Beades of Pratum acted as yell leader for the group and led off the evening with a number of yells, expressing real college spirit and given in that style.

The evening was spent in games, contests and in a literary program. One of the most amusing games and one which almost wrecked the house was certainly the dignity of every one present, was a volleyball game between seniors and faculty. It might well have been called the "big blow."

The literary features of the evening were notable. Mrs. Dean C. Polander, wife of the pastor of Yimhill, gave several piano selections and Mrs. Donald W. Riddle, wife of Professor Riddle of Yimhill school, sang in her usual charming way. Professor Riddle, always a favorite with the students, gave two piano numbers, followed by a song composed especially for the occasion by Rev. Earl McAbee, a senior. Mr. McAbee sang the verses as a solo and the students joined in on the chorus.

Miss Carrie Bamford, first woman senior at Kimball school, and president of the student body, and Prof. John D. McCormick of the faculty, spoke words of appreciation of the work of President Hickman, to which he responded in his usual fine way. Dr. D. H. Leech, superintendent of the Salem district, was present and responded to an invitation to speak.

An unique feature of the program and one much appreciated was the singing of President Hickman and his father, Rev. G. Wm.

Hickman. Rev. Mr. Hickman and his wife came here from their home in South Dakota to visit with their son and his family. The program was arranged by Mrs. Alta M. Gentry of Gresham, who presided. Mrs. Gentry is a junior. The American Association of University Women will have opportunity at 12:30 o'clock luncheon today at the Marion hotel of hearing Dean Ava B. Milam, head of the school of home economics at Oregon Agricultural college. Dean Milam will talk of her experiences in the Orient, having been associated with the University of Peking.

Miss Lena Belle Tartar will sing charmingly at the luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Will May had as their recent interesting house guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hubbard of Moore Inn, a summer resort in the Washington Cascades. Mr. Hubbard, a cousin of Mrs. May's, is master of the inn so well known to discriminating tourists. Situated on Lake Chelan, in the heart of the Cascades, it is a retreat of unusual beauty and is for a distance of 46 miles, accessible only by boat.

Mr. Hubbard, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Hubbard, early settlers in the state, is of a family well known in the valley, especially to those of Polk county. This is Mrs. Hubbard's first visit to Salem. Following her visit here she left for California to spend the remainder of the winter with friends in Pasadena. Mr. Hubbard will be in Seattle till time for the spring opening of the Inn.

Mrs. Otto J. Wilson was a guest Thursday in Portland.

with blossoming plants and a glowing fire in the huge fireplace.

During the study period Mrs. E. Manning read a very instructive article dealing with early Oregon history and early Oregon laws, with round table discussion following. During the social hour Mrs. Max Gehlar gave a humorous reading entitled, "Parson's Wooing," which brought forth much amusement and laughter. Mrs. E. Manning assisted the hostess in the serving. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. I. Adams when Mrs. F. D. Bentley and Mrs. Fred Kubin will have charge of the program.

INVESTORS URGED TO INVESTIGATE

Robert H. Mount States That Confidence of Buying Public Must Be Secured

Robert H. Mount, representing the better business bureau of Portland, addressed the Lions club yesterday at their regular luncheon at the Marion hotel on phases of the investment problem.

"Investigate before investing," was the plea of Mr. Mount, "And you will not have worthless securities cluttering up your safety deposit boxes. The sale of questionable stocks and bonds has reached a tremendous pace and has succeeded in destroying the confidence of the buying public."

"The man who loses money in a questionable stock scheme loses in addition to the money his confidence in human nature, a loss of much more importance and worth than the money," was another remark of the speaker.

Citizens of Salem have been blicked by fake promoters and every business man has suffered directly and indirectly from the results. The systems that have been evolved by the confidence men to blick the unsuspecting public. The confidence man has made a careful study of the proposition and as a result the sums realized from the ventures have reached a tremendous figure. The confidence man, as a rule, according to Mr. Mount, is ahead of the average investor in intelligence. The high powered sales schemes are usually successful, until the buying public has been educated, and then some other system is worked out.

All businesses have suffered from this evil and in order to secure protection a national vigilance committee was formed. The need to keep the confidence of the buyer was needed, it was held.

The speaker illustrated the ill-effects of false advertising by the activities of the fur industry. So much ill-effects came from the trade names used by the companies in describing and hiding the real identity of the furs that other business men were aroused.

Consequently, during the past year, the fur industry went on record as favoring the advertising of furs on their real merits.

Al Krause, local clothier, was appointed official tail-twister of the organization and spent the greatest part of the noon hour yesterday in collecting and assessing fines.

Miss Naomi Phillips, a Salem girl who has been studying in eastern musical circles, favored the Lions with a solo number and an encore at the meeting yesterday.

You can say one thing for the League. It observes a strict neutrality.
