The theme of the entire campaign will be to make better young people and in that way make Salem a better place to live.

Rev. Ward Willis Long to Deliver Series of Sermons

The first sermon of a series to be delivered at the First Presbyterian church by Rev. Ward Willis Long, pastor, will be presented at the morning services today, according to the announcements made public.

"The Discourses of Jesus," commonly known as the Sermon on the Mount, is to be the basis of the sermons, which will continue each Sunday up to and during the spring months. The first sermon, which is today, will deal with the "Magna Charta, or the constitution of the Kingdom," and the topic for today is the "Nature of the Kingdom."

This evening a special organ prelude will start at 7:25 instead of 7:30 o'clock. During the evening Mrs. Ward Willis Long will appear in a solo number with her autoharp, at the request of members of the congregation.

YOUTHS ARE GLAD ADVENTURE OVER

Disillusionment of 20 Americans in Foreign Lands Is Related

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—The tale of the disillusionment of an expedition of 20 Americans, mostly young men from southern California, who left here last May to seek romance and adventure in secluded byways of the Orient, was told by the last of the party, who recenaly returned home here. They, as had the rest of the group, made the return trip by a devious route, doing menial tasks aboard steamers after having been stranded for months at Singapore, where their romantic complexes were shaken by fever and privation.

The returning adventurers offered a strange contrast to the debonair party which set sail on the President Van Buren with the intention of obtaining motion-pictures among the queer folk and animals in the wilds of the Orient. An "ape-man" was to be filmed for the benefit and enlightenment of American audiences. The itinerary included a side trip to the Isle of Bale, where a few choice scenes were to be taken of the inhabitants offering 1000 babes to their gods on an altar of fire. These pictures were to be sold on the expedition's return.

The party was headed by Carl P. Winther, and associated with him was William Bals, who professed to have had experience in the Orient. The former's wife and little daughter, a child of 10, were with the party and shared its hardships.

The voyage to Manila passed without incident, but at Singapore their troubles began. Money sent by Los Angeles backers arrived late, and the travelers were without funds. When it did arrive dissentions started. Then the backers backed down and out, and a local hotel turned the Americans into the street.

The American consul helptd as much as he could, and arranged for living quarters in an unused school. But the condition of the adventurers steadily became worse. Several were attacked by fever.

Heroic methods were used to raise funds, but there were no odd job in Singapore for American or Europeans. W. E. Boerg, of Peoria, Ill., secretary of the expedition, who had been something of an amateur boxer, had an idea that he might earn a few dollars by fighting in one of the frequent cards at the athletic club in the European colony.

Boerg obtained a match with Harry Smythe, a Chinese boxer notwithstanding his English name but on the day of the fight came down with fever. He insisted however, on climbing into the ring and lasted four rounds, which enrichened the expedition's coffer by $40 in Mexican money.

In giving the account of the Weber-Block wedding last week, it was omitted that refreshments of ice cream, cake and bananas were served following the ceremony.—Astoria Argus-Searchlight.

CROWDS AVOIDED IN LONDON'S SUBWAYS

Sensible Policy in Underground Trains Eliminates Crushes During Rush

LONDON, Jan. 17—The city of London, instead of talking about subways, builds them. For several years this has been going on, and in consequence there is seldom a crush. Except for an hour or two in the mornings and again at the end of the workday, the tube trains seldom have any straphangers. There are seats enough to go around.

And they are comfortable seats. Well-stuffed plush or leather cover most of them. Only the very oldest coaches have the plain straw seats so common in America. One can, and does, smoke in about half of the cars without fouling the air unduly. For there is seldom a close-packed crowd.

Fares for the short rides are cheaper than in New York, and for longer rides the cost is higher. Instead of a standad fare for any distance, the London tubes charge for the length of the ride. Three half-pence is the minimum, but this soon is to be reduced to a penny. The cost of ordinary runs usually averages a little less than a penny a mile. The omnibuses which, like the tubes, spread out in all directions, charge about the same.

During the present year the lines of two of the underground railways have been extended far out into suburban territory. London, unconfined by either sea or river, and not caring to grow upward in the American apartment-house manner, is sprawling out in every direction with great rapidity.

The tubes are helping to create suburbs, already encouraged by steam railway lines from a dozen or more London terminals. Some of the underground lines make a practice of buying outlying property, pushing their rails out to it, and then advertising it for sale to home-seekers, who, of course, become habitual patrons of the electric trains.

But one is beginning to hear complaints that the suburbs they are helping to make are becoming too thick. Only recently it was proposed that a green belt of parts, forests, golf-courses or other open spaces be established around the greater city, to preserve some of the amenities of the countryside within easy reach of London.
