WEST STAYTON IS ORGANIZING CLUB

Poultry and Flax Industries Gain Adherents; Irrigation Outlook Good

WEST STAYTON, Ore., Jan. 19.—(Special to The Statesman.)—The West Stayton Commercial club has come to life again.

The citizens of this district are awakening to the many opportunities offered here and are out to let the world know about it.

Organization of the club is now complete with E. R. Clark, president; Mrs. F. C. Perry, secretary and treasurer.

Poultry is becoming quite a prominent industry in this section. Poultrymen here are daily talking of increased egg production.

Some of the best flax produced in the valley last year was grown half a mile west on a tract owned and farmed by L. Walker.

West Stayton is centrally located in the flax producing area and it is rumored that a scutching plant connected with the Vancouver line mill is to be located here.

P. E. Thomason, district manager of the irrigated land tract here, promises big things for water users this season.

Approximately 30 acres of Kentucky wonder beans have been contracted for in this section by the Oregon Packing company of Salem.

It is popular. The popularity of the play ground can be judged by the attendance, which was recorded to be as follows for the 52 days during which the play ground was open...

Wool Prices are Better Than are Being Offered

Small wool dealers are being robbed of from 5 to 10 cents a pound on their product by following the advice to contract everything at from 40 to 45 cents a pound.

This became known yesterday when outside buyers visited the district and were offering greater amounts than were being paid by local buyers.

It is understood that in Eugene 50 cents a pound is being paid for medium and fine wool and 45 cents a pound for wool of a coarse grade.

Armory Revival Services Drawing Large Crowds

People attending the revival meetings at the armory are enthusiastic in their reports of the interest and power manifest. Some remarkable testimonies are being given regarding the wonder working power of God in transforming both soul and body.

Sunday afternoon he preached on the subject: "Repent for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." He proceeded to show that there is the same need of a special preparation of God's people today for the second coming of Christ that there was in the days of John the Baptist for His first coming.

THE ACTIVITIES OF SALEM THRIFT WEEK

Everything Is Organized and Prepared for a Big Week and a Useful One

Saturday, January 17, was the first day of Thrift week. This is a national institution, and originated in the industrial department of the Y. M. C. A. in 1908.

The bill would prevent the sale of small firearms without a license to persons other than peace officers and military organizations unless a special permit is held.

There are twenty odd organizations in Salem fostering the program for this year's Thrift week.

They include: Rotary club, Lion's club, Realtors, Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis club, Y. W. C. A., Business Men's league, Ministerial association, Salem Heights Community club, Salem library, Mutual Savings and Loan association, State Business and Loan association, Boy scouts, University Women's club, Underwriters, Bankers, and the Y. M. C. A.

A lot of work. Dave Eyre is the chairman of the Salem organization for observance of Thrift week, and Mr. Kells is the secretary.

All of the cooperating clubs will emphasize the program for the week. Each day during the week letters will be written by leading business men on the subject of thrift, and these will be published in the city newspapers.

Another form of sport that is to be given encouragement this winter is tobogganing and skiing. Pushball and medicine ball, comparatively little known in Germany before the war, have also come into vogue in the public schools.

During the past summer over 2000 school children were given instruction in swimming and within the next few months the privilege is to be extended to 10,000 young people by setting aside the natatorium in the various parts of the city for their specific use.

Paulus Company Withdraws 30-40's Prunes for Rise

The withdrawal of the Robert C. Paulus company offerings of 30-40s prunes was announced today and will be in effect for some time.

When they are again put on the market the prices will be 1 1/2 cents a pound. Prunes on the market are short and it is expected that the best prices offered will be the next week.

It is presumed that the Oregon packers have no more than 9,000-10,000 pounds of prunes and the holdings in the dealers hands will cause the market to advance instead of decline, as is alleged.

Therefore, the Paulus company expects to make a cleanup on the prunes when they throw them on the market again.

The exchange rate of English money is rising and consequently makes it appear that the market is weakening. What is actually happening is that the same money can buy more prunes because of the exchange rate. There is, however, some movements at eastern docks.

Keeping Laces in Luxury Makes Industry Suffer

HIRSCHBERG, Jan. 14.—The lace and embroidery industry of Germany, which has its chief seat in Silesia, is having an exceedingly difficult time which even the Christmas season did not alleviate.

Embroidered goods still belong to the class of luxuries without which most Germans can do. Since the stabilization of the mark most German housewives have discovered so many gaps in their wardrobes that they have been quite content to re-stock with plain Hmens.

The many women who give their time to fine needlework declare that they will work for almost nothing just to have something to do. They are ready to adapt themselves to changing fashions, whereas formerly their output was of a somewhat stereotyped variety.

Berlin Schools Adopt Courses in Athletics

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—The schools of Berlin are becoming increasingly interested in athletics and calisthenics. The movement for making gymnastic training obligatory is gaining headway.

Thus it is contemplated, as soon as the facilities can be provided, to compel all school children to learn to swim.

During the past summer over 2000 school children were given instruction in swimming and within the next few months the privilege is to be extended to 10,000 young people by setting aside the natatorium in the various parts of the city for their specific use.

Another form of sport that is to be given encouragement this winter is tobogganing and skiing. Pushball and medicine ball, comparatively little known in Germany before the war, have also come into vogue in the public schools.
