Jarvis with Coffey arrived in Portland this week from Oakland, Cal., where the Pacific coast offices of the company are located. He has just established headquarters in the Northwestern National Bank building, Portland.

He Is Oregon Man

Coffey is a former Oregonian. For several years he has been operating out of Jarvis' California office and has established a record as one of the leading individual producers with the Mutual Benefit company. He is well known on the Pacific coast as an outstanding figure in the insurance field. Coffey says that he is glad to return to his former home renewing business and social acquaintances as the manager of his company in this territory.

A general agent for the Mutual Benefit Health and Accident association will be appointed in Salem through the Portland orfice of the company, Coffey states. Discussing the phenomenal success of his organization in California, Jarvis said: "Although we have been doing business in California for only six years, during this period we claim to have sold more policies than any other insurance company doing business in that state and some of them have been established there for 60 years. Last year we paid more than $400,000 in claims alone in the state. We estimate that when returns for 1924 are complete we will have paid more than $500,000 in claims."

The company will follow in Oregon a special plan of cooperation with agents throughout the state, according to Mr. Coffey.

Education is almost as expensive as ignorance.
