

WILLAMETTE LOSES TO WHITMAN COLLEGE BY SCORE OF 37-34

VISITORS WIN FAST CONTEST

Local Team Weakened By Drawing of Hartley on Foul in Second Half

The Whitman Nemesis persisted last night when the Missionaries from Walla Walla grabbed victory from the Bears by a 37 to 34 score in a basketball game at the university gymnasium. The Willamette team was materially weakened early in the second half when Hartley was taken out on account of personal fouls. Stolzeise, who took his place, was unable to gain a single tipoff from Holmaren, the tall Whitman center, this proved a severe disadvantage. The game was close and fast, although the visitors led throughout by a few points. The half-ended 19 to 15.

Whitman started the scoring with a basket early in the game, but Willamette came back with one in the next instant. The defense play of both teams was rapid, and many easy shots were made from under the baskets. The Whitman players were unusually clever in passing the ball around for strategic shots, and their deceptive plays worked well. Willamette's chief weakness was in passes, and fumbles were frequent.

Fry, the diminutive Whitman guard, proved to be clever at alley runs for close shots, and his 15 points were a big factor for his team. He tied with Robertson of Willamette for high point man of the game.

The Willamette players meet the University of Washington on the local floor tomorrow night. The Washington players are now strong contenders for the coast conference championship, and should present an interesting exhibition.

The lineup follows:
 Willamette (34): Whitman (37) Farnsicht, 9; Holmaren, 4; Robertson, 13; Faust, 8; Hartley, 6; Yenny, 4; Engel, 6; Fry, 13; Erickson, 6; Neilson, 3; Stolzeise, 2; Ralph Coleman, OAC, refereed.

Warmer Weather in Sight For East; Mercury Climbs

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Winter relaxed its zero grip in the metropolis today, the mercury climbing from one degree below zero just before 8 o'clock this morning to 19 degrees above by mid-afternoon. The weather bureau announces tonight that it expected no lower temperature here tomorrow than 16 above.

Last night's sleety snow ushered in the coldest weather since 1922 and left distress in its wake. It boosted the total January snowfall to more than two feet, breaking 11 records and causing the street-cleaning department to recruit an emergency force of 10,000 chovelers to supplement 417 motor plows. The city's snow removal bill for the winter was pushed well past the $10,000,000 mark.

Three deaths from exposure were reported.

State Ownership Frowned Upon By House Resolution

Representative Carlin of Jackson county introduced a resolution yesterday which would cause the legislature to go on record against the state going into any schemes of state ownership or operation of public utilities.

The resolution calls attention to certain bills that have been introduced which are aimed to put the state in business of developing and marketing hydro-electric power. Mention is also made of the experiences of the federal government in the operation of railroads and the matter of taxation of public utility properties, which in certain cases is exempt from taxation.

Child Labor Opponents Will Continue Fight for Measure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Rejection of the child labor amendment by a state legislature "is a temporary setback, not a final defeat," said a statement tonight by the organizations associated for ratification of the child labor amendment, commenting upon unfavorable action on the amendment in 13 states.

Declaring that constitutional authorities agree that ratification of a constitutional amendment is final, but rejection is not, the statement said the organization's "answer to the campaign of misrepresentation which has hindered speedy ratification of the children's amendment is an immediate speeding up of activity, with the object of securing ratification by the 33 states which have not yet acted, and reconsideration in the states where one or both houses have rejected."

"A sober second thought would be the result where the real facts reach these legislators," the statement asserted.

DOLAN TO ANSWER CHARGES
 NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Cozy Dolan, one of the principal figures in the O'Connell-Dolan baseball bribery scandal, arrived here tonight and telephoned Assistant District Attorney Brothers, who is investigating the charges, that he was ready at any time to tell his side of the story, or case.

"BIG" MUNN, EX-COLLEGE ATHLETE, BEATS LEWIS, IS WRESTLING CHAMPION

Wayne H. (Big) Munn, former University of Nebraska athlete and football star, won the world's heavyweight wrestling championship by defeating Ed. (Strangler) Lewis at Kansas City. Munn won the first and third falls, losing the second on a foul when he picked Lewis up bodily and tossed him from the ring. Munn is probably the biggest man in athletics, standing 6 feet 7 inches and weighing 258 pounds. His first professional appearance was as a boxer, but he deserted that sport for the wrestling game after being coached by Joe Stecher, former champion.

ACCIDENTS COST NUMBER OF LIVES

Series of Casualties Thruout Country Are Recorded; Many Injured

SANTIAGO, Jan. 28.—(By AP)—Eighteen persons are believed to have been killed when the roof of the Popular Credit Bank suddenly collapsed today, burning under it, the employes and several clients.

Firemen and police immediately began working to rescue persons imprisoned and recover the bodies of the dead. The bank, which opened in 1922, was a state pawn shop created to protect the people against the usurious interest rates charged by private lenders of money.

Six Reported Killed

Two Firemen Die; Six Hurt
 MONTREAL, Jan. 28.—Two firemen were reported dead, six others were known to be injured in two fires in Montreal's business district tonight which necessitated a call for the city's entire fire apparatus.

The Silverton Legion five were true to form last night and scored 35 to 23 in a basketball contest with Independence, in one of the fastest and clearest played games of the season. Quall for the Legion team did some of his outstanding playing and won the full approval of the fans.

Sunday they play the Mollala five at Mollala and February 12 they are to meet Dallas basketball team on the Silverton floor.

In a speedy preliminary the Mt. Angel junior college snatched a victory from the Lightning five of Silverton by a score of 24 to 18.

THROUGH HEARS CHILD LABOR

land, president of the Portland A. T. association followed, saying "what is wanted for our own children is wanted for all children."

Federal Laws Good
 Mrs. Alexander Thompson of Portland, president of the state federated clubs, maintained that the federal government was to be trusted, pointing to good federal laws passed doing away with states rights. She included the Harrison narcotic act; the Mann white slave act; the acceptance of help in building highways and aid for schools by the Smith-Hughes act.

"The Oregon legislature at present is memorializing congress for federal aid," Mrs. Thompson said. "Why are we afraid of federal laws to guard our children? Distrust is not good Americanism. The federal government must do what the states have failed to do."

"Employment of children under unfit conditions and with unwholesome hours is an economic waste, a crime against society and a political menace," declared Mrs. J. W. Fowler, of Portland, representing the Consumers' league.

"What has come over Oregon that it hesitates for one single minute to ratify this amendment?" asked R. W. Gill of Troutdale. "I will not deprive the farmer of having his 17-year-old boy from milking the cow or his 16-year-old daughter from washing dishes. The farmers of Oregon are not boobs enough to believe this stuff."

Mrs. Henrietta H. Bailey of Portland, also of the Consumers' league, questioned the expediency of leaving the question of child labor to local sentiment in the various states.

National action was held necessary by Grace Bridges, of Portland, representing the Portland Grade Teachers' association. She told how in Portland alone 450 children have come from other states lacking an eighth grade education, while many had less than three months' consecutive schooling in any one year. She emphasized the fact that in many of the manufacturing states there was a high percentage of young men found physically unfit for military service during the war.

Mrs. E. B. Caldwell of Portland held that the child labor amendment does not threaten religion, the home or the flag, and that the details must be thrashed out after the amendment is passed.

Eight Are Limited
 Eight one-minute talks were given, as the time assigned to the backers of the amendment passed rapidly.

Mrs. Charles Carver of Portland, president of the League of Women Voters, quoted a letter in favor of the amendment from Casco Pound, dean of the Harvard law school.

Mrs. Isaac Swett of Portland, head of the Council of Jewish Women, said that they would not be satisfied until all children had been given due consideration.

G. L. Buland of Portland held that the large number of children not in school was an economic loss.

Mrs. J. C. Othus of Portland Housewives' council, said that the state could not afford to go on record as refusing the right to protect future citizens.

Mrs. George A. Johnson, of the Portland American Association of University Women, pleaded for the legislature to give to congress the

Benny Leonard Retires as World's Lightweight Champion, Hangs Up Gloves as Mother Watches

Benny Leonard, in quitting the ring as the undefeated lightweight champion of the world, announced that he was retiring to please his mother. His long periods of training for battle were periods of great mental suffering for her and according to Benny, "Billy" Gibson, his manager, made him see that her health would be threatened seriously by his continuance in the ring. Leonard had been champion for eight years, having won the title from Freddie Welsh.

editor of the Gazette-Times, spoke briefly against the amendment. He declared that statistics upon which the measure was being put over were based upon those of 1920 and that, since that time legislation in many states had remedied the situation.

Dr. Hugh Mount, of Oregon City and J. V. Mitchell, of Portland, were slated to appear, but were not present.

J. S. Mill, representing the American Federation of Labor, and a Portland electrician, said that organized labor was back of the amendment, speaking from the authority to help children not able to help themselves.

Mrs. Mary C. Mallett, of Portland, president of the state WCTU, said that the national organization recommended ratification and thorough investigation.

A. O. Freel, of Portland, speaking for the Oregon State Teachers' association, said that the educators were not afraid to trust the legislature or congress.

Thomas Hewitt, of Portland, from the court of domestic relations, held that compulsory education and child labor laws were beat boots to the state in its effort to aid boys.

For 45 minutes Thomas Brown, of Salem, representing the farmers of Marion county, he said, held forth, interrupted at the start of his talk by hisses, which were stopped by the chairman. He based his remarks upon two outstanding features, an attack upon state rights and an undermining of the constitution.

"From Aurora to the Santiam here is not a farmer who did not curse the law," he shouted. "The proposed amendment is radical, evolutionary and defies the sanctity of the home. It will be defeated in 39 states of the Union. Mothers of large families are against we fare and welfare workers who have never borne a child."

Before closing he attacked Dr. Louise Strong and pointed to Loeb and Leopold as examples of the work of welfare workers. Such an amendment would bring forth 16-year-old murderers, he said, citing the case of the California matricide.

Opponents Are Heard
 Representative A. S. Roberts, of Wasco county, was another champion of the opposition, pointing out that birds kick their young from the nest.

Mrs. C. P. Bishop, of Salem, said that to give absolute power to anyone was a dangerous thing but that she would work hard for a child labor bill if it were in the house and not where it tends to be unrestricted power.

Claude Ingalls, of Corvallis, floor after all the others had finished.

Arguments Said Asinine.
 Legal phases of the amendment were emphasized by Representative Mott, in closing the supporting arguments and refuting the previous speakers. He held that the allegation made by Mr. Brown were asinine and that everything he said was a re-hash of the propaganda sent out by merchants and manufacturers' associations. Mr. Brown did not deviate one word from the stuff, he said. He quoted the table of the wild asses, one of which disguised himself as a lion to frighten the others, but was betrayed by his bray as applying to opponents of the amendment. The power to limit the labor of minors in the inherent right of government, he said in closing.

Messages urging the ratification of the amendment were read from the Central WCTU in Portland and from Otto Hartwig, president of the State Federation of Labor. A message opposing the amendment was received from the Associated Industries of Oregon and also read.

Dairymen Gather to Talk Over Dairy Legislation

Members of the Oregon State Association of Holstein Breeders gathered at the Salem Chamber of Commerce for their annual meeting, under the presidency of Frank Durbin of Salem, and Paul Adams of Warrenton, secretary.

W. B. Barney, of the extension department of the National Holstein association, with headquarters in Chicago, is in the northwest for the purpose of promoting legislation in western states, and promoting the interests of the breeders. Barney is active in the ranks as a breeder and as a member of the board of directors of the national association, and for merely was food and dairy inspector for the state of Iowa.

A tax against oleomargarine is being sought by the speaker, who declares that unfair competition is given the dairy interests, as well as injuring the health of the public. He particularly stresses legislation which will prevent the oleomargarine interests from using the picture of a dairy cow, or any dairy terms, to push the sales of their product.

The legislation desired is to cause the oleo product to be sold on its own merits instead of the reputation and character of the dairy products.

Opportunity knocks but once, which explains its poor record as a reformer.
