SERIOUS LUNG TROUBLE STARTS WITH COUGHING

Physicians warn against neglecting coughs and colds and tell of the serious lung complications that may result. Leading physicians now prescribe the BAL-SAME for all bronchial affections.

Do not confuse it with ordinary balsam cough syrups that are only soothing syrups and do not go to the base of the trouble. Unlike other cough remedies BAL-SAME is free from coal tar and other harmful narcotics.

Improvement was almost immediate. Write: Dr. A. L. Lamb, 1022 Kansas St., Portland, Ore. BAL-SAME is the ideal cougher who suffered from coughing since he is in his children.

OREGON PAPERS

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON. Eugene, Jan. 31.—Newspapers and magazines of general circulation are published in 134 communities in Oregon, according to the annual survey of the state press made by Prof. George S. Turnbull of the University of Oregon school of journalism.

This year's total excludes all publications issued at educational institutions, but includes the various communities in Portland, of which there are 17. Only one of these was listed in the directory compiled last year.

Prof. Turnbull's annual survey shows that two new daily papers were started in the state in the past year, the Central Oregon Press, at Bend, and the Klamath News, at Klamath Falls. Both of these advanced from twice-a-weeks, bringing the total number of dailies in Oregon to 33, an increase of two in the year, since there were no fatalities in this field.

New weekly papers totaled 8, exceeding by 1 the number of deaths in this field. One of the 7 weeklies that expired, however, was a paper printed in a nearby town of larger size, and one was an exclusively farm news paper, reducing to 5 the total number of actual home-town weeklies that failed.

In the twice-a-week and weekly field no paper is counted which is a part of a daily newspaper. Thus the reduction of twice-a-weeks from 7 to 4 is not a loss of independent twice-a-weeks, which have held their own at 4 with the additions of the Cottage Grove Sentinel and the St. Helens Mist to the number, counterbalancing the loss of the Bend and Klamath publications that moved to the daily class.

HUNGARIAN COUNTESS, ONCE RICH, RESIDES IN SMALL CHICKEN BARN

BUDAPEST, Jan. 31.—Countess Alexandra Forgach, daughter of the late Count Alexander Forgach, who was one of the wealthiest landowners in Hungary, affords the unique spectacle of a countess living in a chicken barn. In the little commune of Hidegkut, immediately outside of Budapest, and adjacent to the fashionable residential section known as "Cool Valley," the countess lives within four plain board walls in a room about 6x9 feet, amid numerous chickens and a large brood of dogs.

The countess is now an old, withered dame, clad in a man's long coat and soldier's boots. She speaks French fluently with a rich, mellow voice, and makes no bones whatever about her story.

"I was frivolous when a young girl. As I had a good voice, I was determined to go to the opera, but my father said that a Countess Forgach could not choose such a profession. So I ran away to Paris. There I got along well on the stage. I appeared under the stage-name of Carolina Mare, and was in a class with Adeline Patti and Christine Nielsen.

HONEST ADVERTISING LAUDED AS MEANS OF SECURING PUBLICITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—The gas companies of America should beware the publicity specialist and shun all that savors of press agentry, propaganda, or seeking free space puffery, and tell their story to the public through the advertising columns of the local newspapers, according to B. J. Mullaney, vice-president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company of Chicago, in an address prepared for delivery here today before the mid-winter meeting of the American Gas association.

Doing the first will not take you far if the second is not done and persistently done, as often and as much as circumstances will permit.

"On the other hand, silence is easily mistaken for secrecy; secrecy breeds suspicion, and suspicion, if not checked, soon ripens into hostility. Thus public relations may become bad, even when the service is good. It has happened.

"There should be no room in the gas industry for the so-called publicity specialist. He serves no purpose except to get easy money. We should make all the use we can of the other kind of publicity which frankly recognizes that a clam-like attitude is oftener evidence of stupidity than of wisdom.

Mr. Mullaney said the public does not yet entirely realize how the gas business and all public utility business is utterly unlike other business in certain fundamentals. When the customer wants gas he wants it instantly, even though several hundred thousand others may want it at the same time.
