MILK FROM PRIZE COWS SOLD HERE

Salem Jersey Dairy Supplies the Best Milk From Jersey Herds Near Salem

The source of supply of milk delivered in Salem by the Salem Jersey dairy is interesting for the reason that many of the cows from these Jerseys herds have taken prizes at both the state fair and the Pacific International stock show.

The Crandall herd, southeast of Salem; the Morrow herd, near Rickreall; Meadow View Jersey farm, near Turner and the Robinson herd near Rickreall. A new service just inaugurated by the dairy is the delivery of butter to their patrons with the milk.

tion about Linn county, says the Albany Democrat. One letter is from Glenmore, Ohio, written by a German wanting to locate in Oregon with a German colony he is organizing.

The Great Southern Lumber company, located at Pogue's La., writes that when it decides to leave Paradise it may consider Oregon. This letter was in answer to a letter sent out recently by Secretary Gilkey in an effort to interest capital in the lumber industry and the manufacture of paper.

From Orange, California, comes the letter asking about "your most wonderful country," and also wanting to locate in the hardware business or a dye works plant.

From Oklahoma comes a letter asking if there is sufficient rain here and degrading conditions in that state, as it is too hot in summer and too cold in winter. A letter from Salem is an inquiry about wanting a supply of alder lumber. The majority of the last few weeks want to locate on farms.

A recent classified ad in the Albany Democrat announcing a small farm for rent near Albany caused a deluge of inquiries for the place.

Former Salem Man Passes Great Divide at Newport

William Flamingan passed away at Newport Tuesday, Jan. 27. He will be remembered by the older employees at the Oregon state hospital for the insane that he was employed from July, 1898, to April, 1914, as gardener at the cottage farm.

Not only was he eminent in his chosen work but was blessed with a cheerful disposition coupled with old fashioned honesty, and his passing on will be regretted by all who knew him.

CORNS

Lift Off - No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation. Adv.

pastor is uniting in his work for the Auburn community, and those not attending the meeting are missing much.

The evening of Feb. 6 is the date of the Willamette University Glee Club. The proceeds of the evening will be applied to the piano fund.

At the executive meeting of the Auburn Community club Monday evening at the W. H. Sneed home plans were discussed for several interesting and instructive meetings for the remainder of the club year. The folding chairs purchased by the Community Club to be used for public gatherings have been found serviceable for school and Sunday school purposes.

STAYTON NEWS

The Rebekah club which meets next week at the home of Mrs. Harry Humphreys, is preparing an especially pleasing program and lunch for the occasion.

Wm. Tate was in from his farm home near Union Hill Saturday. Mr. Tate is one of the prosperous farmers of that vicinity.

Albert Watters and wife, Mr. Mulford and Miss Naomi Mulford who went to Vancouver, Wash., to visit a relation over the weekend are at home again, having enjoyed a pleasant trip.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kramer tried out their new sedan yesterday in a trip to Salem. They were accompanied by Alva Davis.

Mrs. William Crabtree was called to Salem Wednesday by the serious illness of her daughter, who had suffered ptomaine poisoning from eating a pimento cheese sandwich. Mrs. Crabtree returned home Friday reporting her daughter much improved in health.

Owing to heavy local rains during Wednesday night and Thursday, the Santiam river is well out of its banks at this point and much drift wood and up-rooted trees are being carried down stream by the flood waters.

Lester McDonald of Silverton has purchased the interest of C. H. Platts in the Passtime Pool hall which includes the entire stock while the building and fixtures are owned by Joseph Piezer. Mr. McDonald having extensive interests elsewhere will not look after the business here personally. Mr. Platts will go to another field where he has secured employment.

As the result of a fall, Charles Lammpan, a local carpenter, received a badly dislocated shoulder Wednesday evening while about his work at his home on Water street. Dr. C. H. Brewer was unable to reduce the dislocated member and the unfortunate man was taken to the Salem hospital where he was given relief. He has returned to his home but will be off duty for a few days.

Roy King, a prominent farmer of the Victor Point country, was in Stayton recently transacting business. Mr. King reports crops in that community looking good considering the hard freezing spell which visited this end of the county during December.

Mrs. M. Herzeffen pleasantly celebrated her birthday last week by having her children, Peter Hirszeffen of Portland and a few Stayton friends with her upon the occasion. An excellent dinner was served by the hostess and a general good time enjoyed.

Safety Council Honor

Railroad Benefactor

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—A movement to immortalize the name of Lorenzo A. ("Father") Coffin, accredited with being the sponsor of the first safety appliance act adopted by Congress and godfather of the air brake and the automatic coupler, has been started by the steam railroad section of the National Safety Council. The memorial may be in the form of a monument to be placed in the national capital.

Mr. Coffin at one time was a state railroad commissioner. Struck by the great mortality among trainmen, he began experimenting with safety devices. These resulted in the writing of a safety appliance act, submitted section by section to the judges of the Iowa supreme court. It was adopted later, and in four years the Coffin measure had been passed and signed by President Harrison.

"Mr. Coffin did two great things and he received his reward while living," the Safety Council says. "He saved thousands of railroad men from death or permanent injury and in the effort to accomplish this, he effected an evolution in railroad transportation."

Opposing the proposal to separate the air forces from the army and navy and unite them in a single air force, Secretary of War John W. Weeks has issued the following statement:

"The army and navy have long been established as separate and independent arms of the national defense, each with its definite functions and its own particular sphere of action. Their duties and functions do not conflict or overlap except along the coast line. A system for coordinating the operations of the army and navy along our sea coast has been evolved after long experience. This system, though not ideal, serves to avoid as far as possible duplication of operations as well as to overcome the inherent lack of unity of command in this restricted area." The secretary of war points out that while the operations of the army and navy overlap only along a single line and in areas immediately adjacent to the sea, the operations of a separate air force would overlap everywhere in the sphere of action of either the army or the navy.

Referring to difficulty which has been experienced in the past in coordinating the action of the army and navy along the sea coast, Mr. Weeks says, "Imagine what difficulties would exist in the future with an independent air force continually operating in the zone of action of either the army or the navy while our three independent agencies, army, navy, air force, would have to be coordinated along the coast. Such a condition of affairs could only end in disaster in time of war and should not be tolerated in time of peace."
