DUST IS SHAKEN OFF PARKING LAW

In Sudden Burst of Activity,
Police Make Over 100
Arrests Thursday

The new parking ordinance which was ruthlessly enforced by the Salem police yesterday worked a hardship on a number of people it is declared, and steps are to be taken to care for the emergency that exists. The parking ordinance recently brought from the dusty archives of the city was brushed up by the city council and handed over to the chief of police.

Farmers suffer particularly in this instance, as the points brought out yesterday. It is not possible to transact business in an hour and 10 minutes, and in several instances farmers were among those who fell into the clutches of the law.

Over 100 arrests were made and in several cases many amusing incidents resulted. It is stated that one prominent business man became incensed about the matter and tore his parking tag into shreds. Later, however, he thought better of the matter and took the pieces before Judge Paulsen and explained the matter.

CELERY UNION HAS ALL-DAY MEETING

Annual Gathering Marked By Election of Officers and Directors for Year

The Labish Meadows Celery Union held their annual all-day session yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce to elect officers for the year. J. M. Yada was elected president; Roy K. Fukuda, secretary; and H. T. Nakado, treasurer. The board of directors is composed of 11 members as follows: Roy K. Fukuda, J. M. Yada, C. K. Ogata, J. Temisake, K. Furuyama, R. Ostuki, K. Uawate, M. Shishido, H. T. Nakado, T. Fukawa, and Y. Kaneko.

The 32 Japanese members who comprise the Labish Meadows union began their meeting early and did not close until almost dark. Matters pertaining to the celery industry were discussed in detail.

Although the Troutdale celery exposition, the Labish Meadows celery growers were busy shipping out their product and getting a premium. Consequently, they did not enter a prize. Despite the fact they do not have the official award, the Labish Meadows celery is classed as the best in the United States.

The Great Northern railway company has featured the Labish celery in their dining cars the past year, and from all indications will continue to do so.

Four More Measures Are Introduced into House

Four bills, covering minor matters, were introduced in the house yesterday. These were as follows: HB No. 402, by Cramer by request—To control white pine blisters and appropriating money for the same.

HB No. 403, by Fuller—Appropriating money for the Polk county fair.

HB No. 404, by the Linn county delegation—Pertaining to salaries of Linn county officers.

HB No. 405, by Pierce—Correcting present commercial fishing code of the state.

FATE OF ENTOMBED MAN IN DOUBT

entrance where the ground level is but four feet higher than at the ledge overhanging the sand cave, a mine is penetrating the rocky earth. It was 10 feet deep this afternoon with 45 more to go before rescuers expect to tap the cave behind Collins. An electric lighting system was hurried to the scene so that night work need not be interrupted for lack of illumination.

The excavation now under way, while extremely hazardous to Collins' safety is not without peril to miners who may strike the huge cavern Collins said he found and instantly plunge 80 feet or more into the depths of its darkness. Federal engineers reaching here from Indiana, state mine inspectors, a University of Kentucky geologist, military authorities and old-time cave men of the vicinity all agree that a shaft is the only solution to their quest for the cavern's victim. Brigadier General Denhardt says it will require 24 to 36 hours to sink the mine. The federal engineers not so optimistic, place the time at 36 to 72 hours.

Doctor and Nurse with Healthy Quadruplets Born to Wife of $30 a Week Brooklyn Worker

There were four children in the Brooklyn, N. Y., home of John Kelly until a recent visit of the doctor. Now there are eight. This photograph shows the attending physician and nurse in the modest five-room flat of the Kellys with the four healthy little Kellys. Only an hour after the last baby was born, the proud father, who is a gas company employee at $30 a week, walked into his wife's room and they agreed upon names for the two boys and two girls.

Esperanto Converts Put Language to Rigid Test

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—Esperanto is being given a thorough test as a business language under the auspices of the British Esperanto committee and the Universala Esperanto Asocio. From January 1 of this year until March 31 there will be courses offered to young business men in Germany, France, England, Holland, Italy, Austria, Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Hungary.

There will be 20 students in each country. The course will consist of 25 lessons, and at its conclusion the young men will exchange letters with each other in Esperanto on business subjects.

It is the contention of the leading Esperantists that business knowledge of the language can be acquired so readily that it is the ideal means for international communication.

Word Hunters Exhaust British Dictionary Supply

LONDON, Feb. 7.—When news how the cross-word puzzle craze had gripped America first seeped across the Atlantic to this tight little island, newspaper paragraphers assumed a somewhat superior air and pointed out that such foolishness wasn't the rule in England. Now nearly every newspaper publishes its daily puzzle and large prizes are offered for solutions and new problems. So completely has the fad caught the public's fancy that one firm of secondhand booksellers has reported that the demand for cheap dictionaries far outstrips the supply, and that its entire supply of dictionaries and books of synonyms has been exhausted, with dictionaries going at the rate of 50 or more a day and synonym books at 25 a day. Even dictionaries dated in the '40's and '50's of the last century are being snapped up.

In their search for novelties puzzle editors have departed largely from the conventional squares and rectangles, and puzzles have appeared in all manner of queer form such as circles, triangles and crazy-quilt patchwork.

Tourists Now May Motor To Wild Lands of Bontok

MANILA, Feb. 5.—The famous rice terraces of the Ifugao tribe in the Bontok region of the Mountain province, which always have been inaccessible to the outside world, except over a narrow mountain trail, will henceforth be accessible to tourists in motor cars. The Ifugao tribesmen have themselves completed the roads over which automobiles can now reach their territory 5,000 feet above sea level.

The engineering accomplishment of the Ifugaos, by which they irrigate their rice fields on the mountain sides, even though their implements are of the crudest kind have attracted the attention of irrigation engineers from many foreign countries.

It's An Ill Wind, Herriot's Chauffeur Might Have Said

PARIS, Feb. 5.—The recent illness of Premier Herriot gave Julien, the regularly accredited chauffeur to the foreign office his first opportunity in three years to enjoy a vacation.

Julien has acted as chauffeur for Premiers Briand, Poincare and Herriot.

His job with Premier Briand was the easiest Julien volunteers. M. Briand never called upon Julien to do any extra work, dismissing him regularly about 7 in the evenings, excepting during inter-alled conferences.

Julien, while appreciating the cool and correct man that Premier Poincare always was with him, finds his work with Herriot much more agreeable.

"A tireless worker and very hard driver for himself," Julien said, "M. Poincare did not seem to realize the amount of work he was imposing upon those near him. Finishing my day's work about 9 or 10 in the evening, I had to be on the job at 7 the next morning. With M. Herriot, it is different. Many times he has dismissed me before dinner, saying 'Goodbye, Julien, I will return in a taxi.'"

Recently on one of these occasions, the premier, returning in a taxi to the ministry, was surprised when the taxi driver stubbornly refused to accept the price of the trip.

"Just shake hands with me, Monsieur le President," the taxi driver asked. M. Herriot did and with the other hand he extended to the delighted chauffeur a long black cigar.

Church Begun Over 250 Years Ago to Be Completed

PARIS, Feb. 7.—A Paris church begun over 250 years ago, but never finished, has at last a chance of being completed after the original plans. Between 1650 and 1700 work was begun on the church of Saint Nicholas du Charbonnet, in St. Victor street, with the painter Le Brun as architect. Want of funds put a stop to building and the church, without a front, has stood for years, a mournful and dilapidated object.

A mutual benefit society now plans to erect a magnificent office just opposite the church, but hesitates as the unfinished old building would be an eyesore. Completion of Le Brun's plans would cost 900,000 francs, but the municipal council, although more than usually embarrassed for funds, has the matter under consideration.

Garments Worn 140 Years Argo Now on Exhibition

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 5.—A hand-tailored broadcloth coat and vest worn 140 years ago by Sir Walter Scott, almost identical in line with those worn today on formal occasions, was exhibited in a tailors' show here recently.

A daughter of Sir Walter gave the coat to an English friend of his and it came down from generation to generation. Every stitch in the garment was done by hand. The broad lapels are properly notched, and cut square in front. Claw-hammer tails reached to the bend in the knee. The waistcoat was of broad purple silk with small, round, colorful buttons.

Wiles Nabs Speeders—Three speeders exceeded the speed laws last night and were haled into police court. They were W. Spaulding, W. W. Robinson and R. A. Miller.
