

SPANISH MISSION STYLE—STUCCO WALLS—TILE ROOF

ONE can judge pretty well from the exterior appearance that the interior is cozy, and study of the plan below will verify this.

The home contains four rooms beside dining-alcove and bath. Good closet space is provided for each bedroom with a linen-closet and a broom-closet for the hall.

The good-size living room has plenty of wall space for furniture, and has a fireplace at the front, adjoining the entrance.

WILL TIME COME WHEN THERE WILL BE NO FEEBLE MINDED IN OREGON

A Good Beginning Has Been Made in a System of Elimination That Promises This Very Thing—A Promise That the Race of Feeble Minded People May Run Out—A Hopeful Outlook, Certainly

Every one talks. Talking seems to be the favorite pastime of many people, and their talk is not always confined to those subjects with which they are familiar.

This act is an act providing for the sterilization of all male or female persons who have been examined by competent examiners and found to be feeble minded, insane, epileptic, criminally inclined, or degenerate, and who through procreation would undoubtedly bring into the world children with the above tendencies.

One of the Advantages One of the chief arguments in favor of this act is that it makes possible the release from the institutions of persons who if properly cared for can do no harm to society, and are capable of doing some work in properly managed.

A Law of Nature Examinations have proven conclusively that it is impossible for a normal child to be born of parents either one of which is affected by feeble mindedness.

State Board of Eugenics In the same act is a section which provides for the creation of a state board of eugenics, to be composed of the state board of health, the superintendent of the Oregon state hospital, the superintendent of the Eastern Oregon state hospital, the superintendent of the state institution for the feeble minded, and the superintendent of the state penitentiary, and in another section of the same act it is stipulated, that "it shall be the duty of the state board of eugenics to examine into the innate traits, the mental and physical conditions, the personal records, and family traits and histories of all of the persons so reported, so far as the same can be ascertained, and if in the judgment of a majority of the said board procreation by such person would produce a child or children having an inherited tendency to feeble mindedness, insanity, epilepsy, criminality or degeneracy, or who would probably become a social menace or ward of the state, and there is no probability that the condition of such person so investigated and examined will improve to such an extent as to avoid such consequences, then it shall be the duty of such board to make an order embodying its conclusions with reference to such person in said respects and specifying such a type of sterilization as may be deemed by said board best suited to the condition of said person and most likely to produce the beneficial results in the respects specified in this section."

TOKIO PRESERVES LANDMARK TOKIO, Feb. 7.—The building and grounds of the famous Peers club have been sold to a syndicate which will erect modern reinforced concrete office buildings on the site. Visitors to Tokio will recall that the entrance to this club was through one of the three remaining great gates of the Yedo period, said to be one of the finest types extant of the architecture of that time. The gate is to be preserved.

GERMANY GETS ARGENTINA ON 30-METRE WAVE LENGTH NAUEN, Germany, Feb. 5.—Direct radio communication between the sending station at Nauen and Buenos Aires is now maintained at given hours every night on a wave length of only 30 metres. This is believed to mark an epoch in radio transmission. Until quite recently it was assumed that great distances could only be spanned by means of long wave DESSAU, Prussia, Feb. 7.—Every baby born in Dessau on Christmas was given a deposit of three marks by the municipal savings bank. The district savings bank of Dessau is doing even more for new arrivals. It has announced that it will give a bond for three marks to the parents of every child born in 1925 on condition that the parents deposit one mark. The four marks will be held in deposit on interest for 14 years to promote the saving spirit among families.

Give Their Consent Other stipulations of the act are that the person to be operated upon must first give his or her consent, and that the nearest relatives must agree to the operation, or if there be no relative the custodian or some close friend of the patient must give sanction to the operation. It this sanction is not given the state has recourse to law, but so far it has not been found necessary to use this method of securing the sanction of the interested parties.

Since the adoption of this act, it has been possible for the institution for the feeble minded authorities at Salem to release to reliable person between 50 and 60 patients who otherwise would have to remain forever in the institution. It has been the policy of this institution to insist on no persons subjecting themselves to the operation. If a person does not care to undergo the operation, he or she may remain in the institution for the rest of his or her span on this earth.

The hope of the people who have been instrumental in promoting this legislation and in administering the law is that it will lead finally to the elimination of the feeble minded entirely, or almost entirely—that it will cause the race to run out, or nearly vanish.

It is a very hopeful thought that can help us to visualize a time when we shall have no feeble minded people.

BLOODY STREET FIGHTING THROUGHOUT ITALY AS RESULT OF FASCIST MEASURES OF REPRESSION

Following the promise of Premier Mussolini that he would "clean up" the political situation within forty-eight hours, clashes took place in various sections of the country and government forces were rushed to suppress threatened uprisings. The above photograph shows a clash between Fascist troops and Garibaldians on the occasion of the celebration of the Armistice last November, and the recent clashes, in which three persons were reported killed and many wounded, were of a similar nature.

Twenty three dresses were sent from the ninth grade sewing class to the contest conducted by the Miller Mercantile company. As the prizes are very much worth while ($6 for the first; $3, second, and $2, third) even more entered the contest, than had been expected. The Miller company is planning on making this contest a semi-annual affair. The dresses are shown in the Court street windows of the store, and prize money will be presented the first of next week. The new addition to the Manual training shop is just about completed.
