Men, unshaved and muddy, who had spent days to save Floyd Collins' life, bared their heads in the chilling breeze. The prayer was offered. The little gathering of 150 men and women heard the Rev. Biser tell them they were "standing on this precipice in the midst of death," and listened to him give thanks "for the brotherhood of man as manifested by those who have risked their lives on this site."
Story Is Romance

The story of Floyd Collins, uncertain in its outcome, uncertain even from day to day, Rev. Biser referred to as paralleling the romance of mankind itself. No other incident within memory, he said, had brought so many prayers from the brotherhood of man for one fellow man trapped underground.

"Floyd loved the caverns and the caves; loved them as some of us love flowers and the birds," he continued. "Now he is enshrined in his sarcophagus of stone where his body lies in peace."
"It was Floyd's wish to be buried in a cave," the speaker added, and then related a dream that angels came and took him away from a cave where he was imprisoned.

"Heroes deeds have laid a permanent monument for the whole country in the exhibitions of courage and stamina revealed for the 18 days at Sand Cave, the Rev. C. K. Dickey of Horse Cave, said. He supplemented Rev. Biser's statement that the spot would forever be sacred to the memory of him who had called forth so much loving kindness.
J. F. Van Cleave of Glasgow spoke in a voice so low that the trickling of water down an opposite hillside only emphasized the solemnity of the occasion. Faint clicks from cameras were audible as Van Cleave told softly of how men emerging from the rescue shaft had dropped like dead on their cots night after night.
The Rev. Mr. Dickey conducted the committal and A. F. Pearson, Glasgow undertaker, dropped a bit of ashes, a tiny fluttering fern and a bit of earth as Floyd's unseen remains were committed to his maker.
Fifty-five minutes had elapsed when the final "Amen" brought the closing of the services. Such was the last hour of spiritual tribute to Floyd Collins. A few more hours and his body will have been sealed in its tomb deep in the earth below. A block of concrete will be permitted to solidify in the lateral leading from the rescue shaft while the shaft proper will be filled with rock and earth from the vicinity.
The entrance to the cave will be boarded shut with heavy timbers and Floyd Collins henceforth will rest undisturbed.

SCENES AT CAVE CITY, WHERE FLOYD COLLINS IS IMPRISONED IN CAVE, AND VICTIMS SWEETHEART

Above is shown the emergency field kitchen of the Kentucky National Guard which is feeding the men struggling to release the entombed Floyd Collins trapped almost two weeks ago in a sand cave when he was pinned to the ground by a falling boulder. Below is seen the miniature electric plant established in the woods near the cave. The plant supplies light and heat to the trapped man and is also connected with radio apparatus which has been put to use to obtain the faintest signals from the pinned explorer. The insert shows Miss Alma Clark, the grief-stricken sweetheart of Collins with who she had planned to elope. She prays constantly for his safe rescue.

VOTE SUSTAINED PIERCE VETO

whole thing over to the text book commission. At the end of a two year period, they will probably adopt a new set of books, for the reason that they can be obtained at a cheaper price than the books used during the previous year. This would work a great hardship on many families, due to the fact that school books are usually handed down from one child to another. In my estimation the bill should be adopted.
The senators voting to override the governor were Banks, Beals, Butler, Carnier, Clark, Corbett, Davis, Dennis, Dunn, Hall, Johnson, Klepper, Magladry, Ritter, Staples, Upton and Moser.
The governor was sustained by Senators Brown, Eddy, Flisk, Garland, Hare, Joseph, Kinney, Lafolett, Miller, Strayer, Taylor, Tooge and Zimmerman.
In the forenoon session of the senate the most important item considered was the civil service bill for Multnomah county. Senator Joseph scored heavily in this being supported in the end by Senator Moser. The bill was referred back to the committee.
Another item of interest was senate memorial No. 6 by Senator Upton memorializing congress to take proper care of battleship Oregon. Several bills were considered for a time and finally withdrawn. House bills Nos. 276 and 283 were passed.
A canvass was made among the senators to find the number in favor of reconsidering the child labor amendment. Senator Zimmerman being willing to move a reconsideration vote to submit the amendment to the people. But not enough senators could be found to pass the measure and it was dropped.

Five-Day Week Notice Posted for Mill Workers

SILVERTON, Ore., Feb. 17.—(Special to The Statesman.—) Workers at the Silver Falls Mill must report for work only five days a week hereafter, according to a notice posted at the mill Wednesday. The alteration from six to five days was not put into effect before this week. It is not known how long the men will have their Saturdays free, but it is probable the change will remain until conditions in the lumber market improve.
Another arms conference may be called. The world's planned 10-year naval holiday seems to be up already.

CHANGE IN TRAFFIC LAWS ARE DESIRED

Auto Fatalities in Washington Mount High; Dramatic Action Wanted

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 17.—Seattle's toll of fatalities caused by automobiles since January 1 increased to eighteen today when Ira Heybelt was killed when struck by an automobile and John Sullivan, 44, died of injuries sustained Sunday. During the same period last year four persons were killed by automobiles here.
Changes in the state traffic code, fixing definite responsibility for motor vehicle drivers and pedestrians with heavier penalties was advocated by Police Judge John B. Gordon as a means of reducing the number of fatalities.
Judge Gordon favored the bonding of automobile drivers by approved surety company as a prerequisite to application for a driver's license; examination of driver permit applicants as to mental and physical fitness to operate motor vehicles, police judges to have power to revoke drivers' licenses for cause; reduction in allowable speed along streets and across or around intersections in business districts and congested districts and requiring drivers to come to a complete stop before entering street intersections at which street car lines either cross both streets or turn from one to another. Judge Gordon said he planned to appear before the state legislature in behalf of his plan. Condemnation of Jay-walking and a recommendation to the police that an ordinance against it be enforced was asked in a report of a coroner's jury which investigated the death Saturday of Mrs. C. Rose Algar, 75.

Both Senator Curtis, Kansas, the republican leader, and Senator Harrell referred to previous investigations of the oil industry, the Oklahoman declaring "too many investigations will ruin any business."
Senator Curtis thought the Trammell resolution should be referred to the senate interstate committee, inasmuch as prosecutions had been started or were pending as a result of the federal trade commission's report of 1923. That investigation, he said, cost $23,000, and before another was ordered it should be considered by a senate committee.
Senator Trammell asserted the 1923 report on the commission showed the oil industry monopolistic and has paid unwarranted dividends.
In Oklahoma a woman shot a young man for marrying her daughter. We believe such action a little drastic.

Permanent roads are a good investment —not an expense

—and No Place to Go!

We find ourselves, almost without realizing it, a nation on wheels.
We drive or ride in more than 17,000,000 motor vehicles.
We pack the paved highways coming in and out of town. We over-run even so-called remote regions. And we are pounding to pieces all but permanent roads.
This year probably 4,000,000 new cars will be on the road. Compared to this increase, the mileage of new permanent roads will be insignificant.
We don't want to be a nation on wheels, with no place to go.
The answer is, build more, and where necessary, wider concrete roads—and start building them now.
Not in a long time have general conditions been so favorable for carrying on such public works as permanent highway building.
Your highway authorities are ready to carry on their share of this great public work. But they must have your support.
Tell them you are ready to invest in more Concrete Highways, now.
