

TRIBUTE OF W. T. RIGDON AT THE FUNERAL OF UNCLE JAKE BAUGHMAN

Woodburn's "Grand Old Man" Was Possessed of a Remarkable Character—Had His Temper Always Under Control and Held to His Purposes Without Wavering Throughout All the 98 Years of His Earthly Pilgrimage and make his own clothes, keep his motherless children together; keep up the leadership in the church and his place on the school board, and a proper relation with his neighbors.

(At the Methodist church of Woodburn, at 2 o'clock last Sunday afternoon, Feb. 15, 1925, was held the funeral of J. H. Baughman, who died at his home there on the preceding Thursday. All the pioneers of that section were present, and the church was filled. The following were the remarks of W. T. Rigdon of Salem in the course of the funeral ceremonies.)

Mr. Mulligan would have me say a few words on the character of the one who, so peacefully, lies before us in the embrace of gentle death.

I am probably as well qualified to speak on this matter as almost any one in this presence, as I have known him as long as any here.

In later years I have seen him in happy relations with another companion, with a new and tender brood, as the former had grown to maturity.

Later I have seen him for days on a sick bed with despair written on the faces of all the family when the doctor said, "but a few hours more to reach the inevitable." Still he was the calmest of all about his couch.

Yes, I have seen him in joy and in sorrow, but never did I see the pallor of fear in his face, the lack of fortitude in his demeanor or the absence of calm serenity in his voice.

Jacob H. Baughman was the best friend I ever had, aside from my sainted mother and blood relatives. He did more to shape my life than any other man. In trouble I always went to Uncle Jake. He was ever ready to give me a helping hand and good advice.

He went security for the first money with which I started in life. I was still owing three hundred dollars of this money when, at the University at Salem, the news came to me that Mr. Baughman had fallen from a tree and was expected to die any minute. I secured conveyance from Salem, was soon at his side.

Life despaired—a few hours about his couch and he bade us retire, but at two o'clock he sent for us all to come quickly and sing. We sang for an hour; every time we halted he would say "Sing"—and I tell you, friends, it was mighty difficult to sing under such circumstances, but he wanted to go out on a wave of praise and glory.

After an hour, he fell asleep and one by one we slipped away. The crisis was past, next morning he was better. He continued to improve from day to day, and was in due time again himself.

He passed a similar crisis in Illinois when digging a well, as the helper let a tub of dirt fall upon him breaking his hip, from which he had a slight hitch in his walk through life.

But God seemed to be with him for an example to the world of a just and true man.

Uncle Jake never had the faintest touch of anger in his mind nor the spirit of resentment in his soul; never did I see him in a petulant mood nor even a fretful mood. Kind to his family, generous to his neighbors, just and honorable in all his dealings with men and true and loyal to his God.

True, he was not a great man as the world estimates greatness. He was not a Lincoln, a Washington or a Caesar. But, friends, Jacob H. Baughman was the kind of a man who makes greatness possible. He labored at the foundation of greatness, saw that every stone in the foundation was true to the die and was laid with imperishable

LIBERTY HOST TO ALL CLUBS

Community Federation Has Fine Meeting; Committees Are Named for Year

The Liberty community hall was crowded to its utmost in entertaining the February meeting of the Marion county community federation this week, notwithstanding most unfavorable weather conditions.

Dr. J. E. Crothers of Liberty, the loganberry enthusiast, reported that the Humphrey loganberry dispensing machine had been installed at the Lipman-Wolfe store in Portland. A thorough test will be made as to the value of loganberry juice as a drink. Dr. Crothers said.

In order to again discuss what may be done for the loganberry industry, Dr. Crothers asked that a committee of three growers meet with three business men from Salem. To represent the federation, C. H. Taylor of Sunnyside, Dr. J. E. Crothers of Liberty and William Rickman of Kelsier, were appointed.

A. N. Fulkerson, president of the federation, said that road building was of the greatest importance in Marion county and that he hoped the legislature would not change present road laws, by which the county of Marion is able to continue its present program of building.

John H. Scott of Salem said he surely was an advocate of good roads. He recalled the time 24 years ago when he was county judge and when he held a meeting in the old Liberty schoolhouse, at which time the Liberty folks went on record with the county court in favoring good roads.

The new member taken into the federation was from West Stayton, with E. R. Clark as president. Reports were read showing activities of various committees. The Keizer community reported organization and will become a member of the federation at the March meeting.

To transact the business of the Marion county community federation for the coming year, President Fulkerson appointed the following committees:

- Executive committee: C. E. Wilson, Salem; W. W. Fox, Hayesville and Fred Scott of Liberty.
- Ways and Means: Joe Bern, Mt. Angel; Eugene Courtney, Woodburn, and Albert Lengren, Hayesville.
- Taxation: G. Weisner, North Howell; F. N. Smith, Mt. Angel, and V. C. Bishop of Labish Center.
- Legislation: Noble Andrews, Fruitland; S. E. Richardson, Silverton, and S. J. Smith, St. Paul.
- Agriculture: A. C. Barrows, Shaw; George Heckert, Sunnyside, and A. F. J. Lafky of Marion.
- Education: W. W. Fox, Hayesville; J. E. Bidgood, Turner, and Fred Scott of Liberty.
- Roads and Highways: George W. Hubbs, Silverton; J. P. Feller, Donald, and J. W. Mayo of Stayton.
- Organization and Membership: P. M. Gregory, Salem; R. D. Hulse, Salem Heights, and C. E. Wilson, Salem.

PICKARD JERSEY WINS MEDAL

Pickard Brothers of Marion, Oregon, have bred and tested another fine producer in Vive La France 3d 513490. This heifer was placed on test at the age of two years and two months and in the ensuing year she produced, with calf, 505.54 of fat and 8066 lbs. of milk, which averaged 6.27 per cent fat. With this fine record she qualified for a Silver Medal.

Vive La France 3d is by Darling's Gallant Boy 154816. This sire has 6 tested daughters, 5 of which have won Silver Medals. He is a full brother to Darling's Jolly Lassie 435948, the world's champion junior 4-year-old, all breeds, and a grandson of the Gold and Silver Medal sire Golden Glow's Chief 61460. The dam of Vive La France 3d is of course the wonderful Vive La France 319616. It will be remembered that Vive La France in six records produced more butterfat than has been produced by any dairy cow in the same number of official tests.

Vive La France 3d has made an excellent start as a producer in this test on first lactation, and with such blood behind her great achievements are to be expected of her.

Pheasant Pickling Plant Will Establish Branch in New Territory

WEST STAYTON, Or., Feb. 21.—(Special to The Statesman.)—A record crowd attended the special Community club meeting held here Wednesday evening, February 18.

Final arrangements were completed for the location of a West Stayton branch of the Pheasant Pickling company. Representatives of the pickling company, including the field man, were present and all questions pertaining to cucumber growing were satisfactorily answered.

C. A. Bear, from the Turner district, outlined his experiences in cucumber raising, stating that there is money to be made in that line of farming. He cautioned prospective growers, however, to use care in preparing the seed bed, planting and cultivating the crop. He stated that paying crops could not be expected from old, worn-out ground, and that his belief is that more can be accomplished by tending well a small acreage rather than attempting to cover too much territory.

was present to assist the needy in securing proper fertilizer for cucumber and bean growing.

Approximately 40 acres of the 50 desired, were contracted for at this meeting. Several ranchers present stated they intended contracting soon. Several more who were unable to attend have acreage promised sufficient to swell the total to approximately 55 to 60 acres. Any one in this locality interested in cucumber raising or anyone who can conveniently haul his crop here is welcome to do so, inasmuch as the company officials stated they would gladly contract for the entire crop obtainable from 100 acres.

The residents of this district much appreciate the attention being given the roads by the superintendent and his assistant. At the present time many roads here are up in good shape, and traveling over them is consequently more pleasant.

Forty-nine eggs from 52 hens in one day is the latest record here, claimed by Mrs. John Gunsauls. Many of the flocks are laying quite well now and poultry still is the leading winter industry in this section.

The Parent-Teacher association met at the school last week to enjoy a delightful program prepared by the entertainment committee. The main feature of the evening was a talk by Professor White, principal of the Stayton high school. A pie social is announced for the March meeting.

An interesting bit of news is the shipping from here this week of a car load of canned prunes, bound for Canada. The prunes were canned by the Stayton cannery. Mr. Condit, the Southern Pacific agent here, stated this is the second time in 35 years he has billed out freight to a foreign country.
