

Some Hobbies are Worth Millions - What is Yours? Asks Noted Inventor

WHAT'S your hobby? The pages of history do not need to be turned back very far to reveal inviting romances in the hobbies of men of world affairs.

Harrison Boyce, celebrated inventor and automotive engineer, has a most unusual and extremely engaging hobby. He collects automobiles.

retors or putting one of his relics to some unusual test. He employs men to drive a number of the more recent models over a certain distance each week and to keep account of gasoline and oil consumption, tire mileage, maintenance costs—in fact, of every detail which effect cost and ease of operation.

This Essex-6-Coach

None Can Copy Its Chief Value

The Chassis is Patented Essex is a totally different type. It gives results no other car ever gave.

- Low price, without disappointment in looks or reliability. Economy without sacrifice of performance. Stability and highest readability without unnecessary weight.

Two of every three Essex buyers come to it from those who formerly owned cars bought chiefly for their low first price.

Just as the Coach body and Coach name have been extensively copied, even by costliest cars, so must future mechanical design seek to approximate the results Essex gives.

The Presidential Inauguration by Radio

The entire nation, for the first time in history, may hear the inauguration of its president on March 4. On that day radiocast stations throughout the country are to be connected to Washington by telephone wires carrying the electrical impulses which are then amplified and radiated into space.

inviting friends to their homes. About forty stations have arranged to participate in this epoch-making event. Of these, three are on the Pacific coast, KFI, KPO and KLX, with the possibility of last minute arrangements for another. The service is being given primarily by the American Telephone & Telegraph company.

association's pledge is being raised by contributions from its members. This little bit of inside history is only one incident in the association's record of service to the radio listener.

British Peers in Sewing Competition With Women

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Sewing and other needlework has become one of the favorite pastimes of some of the best-known British peers. The Earl of Listowel, one of the famous wild game hunters of England, has entered for a gold thimble prize which is to be one of the features of a needlework competition arranged by the Friends of the Poor on May 6 at Norfolk House, St. James' Square, loaned for the occasion by the Duchess of Norfolk.

Britons, Eager to Try New Pipes, Now Puff Corncobs

LONDON, March 1.—The cheapest pipe on sale today in London, the city which has perhaps two or three times as many pipe smokers as any other city in the world, is the old-fashioned corncob pipe from Missouri, which was given international prominence by Mark Twain. The corncob pipe here retails at 4 to 6 cents each, but even at that can scarcely be considered as having made any noticeable inroads upon the British pipe industry.

in fact, it may be said that the corncob pipe is considered more of a freak than anything else, and is bought chiefly by Americans, as a reminder of old corncob days back home, and by a few Britons who have lived at intervals in the west or middle west when corncobs were in their prime.

Dr. Wood brought the subject to the attention of the superintendent in making the announcement today of an offer of a $1000 fellowship to enable a member of the staff of one of the institutions belonging to the American Association of Teachers' colleges to go to the Scotland meeting as the professional representative of the association.

The offer is made by the American Child Health association. The money is furnished by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The successful candidate will bring back a report on what boys and girls in the remotest corners of the earth are being taught about their health.

Dr. Wood presented the offer as a representative of the educational advisory group of the insurance company, a group including 18 of the foremost men and women educators of the country. It was recently organized to direct and correlate the educational work of the company with the school health programs everywhere in the United States and Canada.

Pipe dealers say here that the corncob will never become really popular in London, despite the low cost, because of the fact that it does not last any length of time. The Englishmen are always eager to try a new pipe; say the dealers, but they prefer hardwood ones, and in buying a new pipe they endeavor to get one which will last a year or two, or longer.
