ed. It is said that the scarf is a beautiful thing of silk and wool in grey and blue colors. The scarf will be on display at the Ames Hardware store during the latter part of the week. Chances on the scarf will be sold from one cent to fifty-five cents. At the next regular meeting of the Auxiliary it will be disposed of. All the money received will be returned to the maker of the scarf. Mr. Endres has the use of but one arm and hand and makes these scarfs to help support his wife and two children. The Auxiliary is also making plans for a tea to be given on St. Patrick's day. Mrs. Russell Scott has charge of this and is making elaborate plans for the affair.

The Silverton Parent-Teacher association is making extensive preparations for the county convention of the PTA which will be held at Silverton April 4. The Silverton circle is particularly desirous of making this an interesting meeting and extends a cordial invitation to all who are interested in Parent-Teacher work. This

MISS SHEBA
By Wallace M. Bayliss

The women try to make the world believe that they are chased by men, but by your leave I'll say they do the chasing, as of yore;

Of course that will make some of them quite sore.

But turn to history, its pages scap and you will find, since first the world began, Authentic instances gets lots of space;

For one, let's take the Queen of Sheba's case.

She lived as happy as the trooloo bird.

And would have died that way had not the word Been carried to her that there lived a man Who was the wisest one since time began.

They told her Solomon had never failed To answer any question that as-sailed. From that time on she never slept a wink. But sat up nights and did her best to think Of questions she could ask to stick that guy.

(All women are alike that; I wonder why). At length she searched him out—that is, she chased; And asked her questions with un-seemly haste.

With much chagrin she heard him answer all; The Good Book says he made her feel quite small.

This much we know—She heard; she chased; she lost.

Once in a while we men, so sadly bossed, Avoid the deadly female; danger fraught; But most of us, when chased, are quickly caught.

Quite Simple!
Hemlock BJones, the great detective, reluctantly called in as a last resort by the police, was employing his marvelous powers of deduction, toward the end of establishing the identity of a murdered man.

Picking up the shirt the victim wore, from which one button was missing, the master sleuth cleared his throat and announced: "This man was a bachelor." "I suppose," he sneered, "you base your hypothesis on the one missing button. That isn't evidence enough. What makes you so sure he wasn't married?" Without batting an eyelash, the great detective faced the doubting official. "Because," he slowly drawled, "a married man is usually lucky if he hasn't more than two or three missing buttons."

Poison

Makes folks ill and old. You can stop it now

Millions are made ill and old by poisons in the system. Some show the results in sallow complexion, in pimples, falling hair, etc.

To some come heart and kidney troubles, due to toxins in the blood. To some high blood pressure, to some premature old age. There is hardly a person who reads this not affected by poisons in some way.

Due to Mistakes
The poisons come from germs which breed in the intestines. If left unchecked, they supply the blood a constant stream of poisons.

Bile is intended to check them. An active liver should supply a quart of bile per day. But when that bile is lacking, germs multiply by millions. Then you suffer from poisoned blood.

The remedy is more bile. Stop those poisons at their source, then watch how quickly things improve.

Use Gland Secretions
People have for ages used drugs for torpid livers. Now medical authorities say they have no effect. The greatest discoveries in modern medicine are based on treating glands with glands.

Ox gall is the new-day treatment for the liver. Its results are quick, they are often unbelievable. Every ailing person should see what ox gall can accomplish. It may do for you what nothing else has done.

But get genuine ox gall. It comes in tablets called Dioxol. Your druggist can supply them. Each tablet contains ten drops of purified ox gall. You will gain all that ox gall can do.

Remember the name—Dioxol. Learn now what they mean to you. Perhaps a few days will change your whole outlook on life.

Guarantee: Anyone not satisfied with results from the first box of Dioxol may return the empty box to the makers and receive his money back.—Adv.

CITY NEWS

Survey Nears Completion—
After a few more details are attended to, the survey of the city of Salem will be completed, according to the statement made by Prof. B. S. Laughlin, head of the sociology and economic departments of Willamette university, who has charge of the survey. Due to the inability of the canvassers to find people at home, the final completion of the survey was held up. A few business houses remain to be interviewed. Within a few days the work of compiling the data secured by the survey will commence, and will be completed within three or four weeks. It is estimated that there are over 5,000 homes in Salem.

Special Train Arranged—
Members of the American Legion will leave for the district conference in Corvallis by a special train at 6:10 o'clock Saturday evening, March 14, according to Charles Goodwin, adjutant of the Salem post. Delegates from Albany, Silverton, Dallas, Independence and Salem will be carried on the special. All American Legion posts in the Willamette valley, south of Washington and Clackamas counties are included in the district. The conference idea is a new one in Legion circles and is intended to pep up inter-post relations.

Professor Back on Campus—
Roy C. Harding, professor of history and law at Willamette university, returned to his classes yesterday after being confined to his home with an acute attack of the flu during the past few days.

Board Considers Business—
The executive board of the Salem YMCA met yesterday noon for their regular session, at which routine business matters were considered. The board meets each month to consider the various business affairs of the local organization.

Director Goes to Portland—
Simon Director, manager of the Director department store, was a visitor to Portland yesterday where he went to identify three suitcases held by the police there at the stage terminal. The suitcases were taken to Portland from Silverton by three men and there checked. It was suspected that the articles might have belonged to the Director store, but upon investigation it was disclosed that rough clothing and loggers' boots were contained in the suit cases, according to telephone communication to Chief of Police Minto. Mr. Director was scheduled to return last night.

Asks for Early Time—
R. H. McKean, manager of the Independence Warehouse & Milling company of Wasco, Ore., has written the public service commission on behalf of the farmers in that district relative to the reduction to half rate on transportation charges of seed wheat by freight be made to apply from January 1, instead of February 9, as ordered by the commission. He also wants the reduction to apply on seed rye and barley, as well as wheat, since the cold weather damaged those crops. It will be necessary for the railroad companies to refund part of the freight rates already collected from the farmers.

Letter Received—
A letter from Paris, France has been received from Robert Huot, by a member of the French class of the Salem High school. Other letters have also been received by other members of the class. Ruth Gilmer, a member of the Salem class, asked for the name of a girl, with whom she could correspond, and the reply stated that the boys did not know girls there, and expressed surprise that such a custom should exist in America.

Salem Firm Gets Contract—
Freeman & Struble, of Salem, were selected architects for the new Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity house at the Oregon Agricultural college, which is estimated to cost approximately $27,000. Immediate construction on the building will begin next Monday. McFadden and Swain, of Corvallis, are contractors. The local firm has won over four other contracts

Marshfield Man Is Given Place on Military Staff

Duncan Ferguson appeared before the federal examining board yesterday and successfully passed the examination which gave him the appointment to the major of artillery to fill the vacancy created by Major Charles Gjedsted, former member of the staff of George A. White, adjutant of the Oregon national guard.

Major Ferguson is a resident of Marshfield and will not leave the city upon this appointment. He has been a member of the national guard eight years and was overseas with the American forces during the World War. During the greatest part of his service Ferguson was with the headquarters company of a trench mortar school at Langres.

Price of Loganberries Is Considered Closely

Loganberry growers of this district will be interested to know the prices paid by the Hubbard berry pool by the Ray Mailing company of Hillsboro, because of the probable bearing the reports will have on the market price of this season. This pool was secured in competition with practically every canner of Salem. The pool has about 200 tons of berries and is an important valley berry center.

Prices paid for the pool this year, according to information gathered here, were as follows: Loganberries, 5 cents a pound. Red raspberries, 8 cents a pound. Blackcaps, 7 1/2 cents a pound. Ettersberg strawberries 7 1/2 cents a pound. Soft strawberries, 6 cents a pound. Sour cherries, 5 cents a pound.

The price paid for Ettersberg is a fraction under what has been the reported going price earlier in the season.

Loganberry growers are looking for a price around six or seven cents, as against the price paid last year. They base their contentions on the general contention of the fruit market. However, some of the growers are willing to take a five-cent price, because they think the market is to be somewhat like last year when trouble was experienced in getting the berries from the vines. Despite the short crop the canneries were not taking the berries and they almost rotted on the vines.

It is expected that the dried berry market will be heavier this year on account of the cleanup that has taken place. From all indications it appears that the price for berries will be five cents with a possibility of the price going to six cents, it is reported.
