REST

(This poem was written by Mrs. G. S. Elwull, of 2720 Cherry Avenue, the twenty-fourth of last August. Mrs. Elwull is now in her eighty-eighth year.)

Lead me, O my Heavenly Father,
Through this wilderness of woe,
Up to thy abode in Heaven—
That is where I wish to go.

When life's duties here are over,
And I go from hence away,
Bring me to Thyself in glory,
There forevermore to stay.

I am weak and full of error,
But I come to Thee for rest,
And I hope by Thy good pleasure,
To safely reach Thy ever-blessed.

—Mrs. G. S. Elwull.

Saturday after spending a three weeks' visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Ross Wimer, at Pendleton.

That "most astonishing picture play," Abraham Lincoln, is coming this week to Salem, bearing with it every element of appeal. The play will start Thursday, March 12, to continue for three days.

In synopsis: The picture is a straightforward portrayal of the dramatic incidents of the birth, romance, climatic events and death of the martyred president. It starts with his birth in the pioneer cabin during a blinding blizzard when the entire family almost perished from starvation. At the age of seven young Abe accompanied his family from Kentucky to the new state of Indiana. Here Nancy Hanks Lincoln, Abe's mother, died. A year later Thomas Lincoln, the father, married a childhood friend, Sarah Bush Johnson, whose devotion to young Abe and protection in giving him an education were marked factors in his later success. All these scenes are depicted in the picture with touching realism.

After the family moved again to Illinois and Sarah Lincoln died, Abe went to work, building a flatboat with which to carry cargoes down the Mississippi to New Orleans. His first trip was momentous. At New Salem he first saw Anne Rutledge, whose name has been connected with Lincoln's in one of the prettiest romances of history. Memories of Anne brought him back to New Salem, where he worked under difficulties, licking the town bully who disliked him because of his studious ways. Lincoln was leader of volunteers against the Black Hawk Indians, but on his return he found that his partner had drunk up the assets of the store, leaving them $1,000 in debt, an obligation Lincoln assumed. He mastered surveying in six weeks and was appointed surveyor for Sangamon county.

At 27 he was studying law in Springfield. The next ten years saw him a circuit rider and finally a congressman. He was nominated for the senate but sacrificed himself in order to keep the election from an undesirable candidate. The repeal of the Missouri Compromise seemed to him an open challenge on the slavery question and in his debates with Douglas he stated his position so clearly that although he was defeated for the senate he removed all chance that Douglas would ever be president.

In a highly sensational party caucus Lincoln was nominated for president and elected in a heated campaign. In the meantime he had married Mary Todd, who bore him two sons, and the entire family moved to Washington to take up residence at the White House. The trying period of the war, the moments of misery in his own household and the death of one son, the critical days, the dissen-son in his cabinet and disloyalty among his friends all played their part in the great man's life before his final victory.

In the very moment of triumph Lincoln was killed. The picture is replete with little known incidents of Lincoln's life, and is remarkable for the bigness of theme, heart interest and the fidelity and spectacular grandeur with which it has been filmed.

Rapherian club members had an especially enjoyable meeting on Thursday when they were entertained at the home of Mrs. John Evans. Miss Letitia Abrams of Eugene was a special guest for the afternoon which was spent in an informal manner with sewing and needlework. Fourteen were present.

In April the club will be en-

Donald Young, Mrs. Clifford Farmer, and Mrs. W. H. Lytle.

Mrs. Merrill D. Ohling entertained in a charming manner on Thursday afternoon for the members of her bridge club. Yellow daffodils and blue candles gave an unusually attractive decorative scheme. The afternoon's high score was won by Mrs. Claude Steusloff, low score going to Mrs. Merle Rosecrans.

Playing at the tables were; Mrs. Claude Steusloff, Mrs. Merle Rosecrans, Mrs. Lewis Griffith, Mrs. Wallace Bonesteele, Mrs. Richard Slater, Mrs. Earle Dune, Mrs. Frederick Deckebach, and the hostess, Mrs. Merrill D. Ohling.

The Salem War Mothers are especially interesting in contributions for their rummage sale which will open on Wednesday, March 11, in the United States Bank building, in the room formerly occupied by the Johnson store. Every variety of saleable clothing is solicited—from furniture, phonograph records and clothing to canned goods and hardware. The committee is anxious to have all contributions brought in sometime tomorrow. The proceeds both from the rummage sale and from the silver tea will go toward the hospital fund.

Makes Fat People Slim

New York Physician Perfects Harmless Method of Reducing Weight

The loss of as much as a pound of excess fat a day with no harmful results is the record made by many patients of Dr. R. Newman, a licensed practicing physician of 286 Fifth Avenue, New York, who announces that he has perfected a treatment which has quickly rid fat people of excess weight. What is more remarkable is the Doctor's statement that he has successfully treated thousands of patients for fat reduction without change of diet or unnecessary exercise. It is also said that fat people who suffer from chronic rheumatism, gout, asthma and high blood pressure obtain great relief from the reduction of their superfluous flesh. Realizing that this sounds almost too good to be true, the Doctor has offered to send without charge to anyone who will write him, a free trial treatment to prove his claims, as well as his "Pay-when-reduced" plan. If you want to rid yourself of superfluous fat, write him today, addressing Dr. R. Newman, 286 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Dept. R-36.—Adv.
