SEEN BY STUDENTS

Famous Display Now at Highland; Englewood and Lincoln Schools Next

An art exhibit loaned by the Elson Art Publication company consisting of a large collection of 200 reproductions of masterpieces representing the best in Egyptian, Greek, Roman, Italian, Dutch, French, German, English, Spanish, and American art is now on display at the Highland school.

The reproductions have been made from famous pictures in public and private galleries and include reproductions of sculpture, the great cathedrals, and important views from nature. Few collections have ever been brought together which so completely cover the history of art. Most of the pictures are in sepia, with a few in color.

The collection is now on display at the Highland school and will be there until Friday night. In addition the Highland Parent-Teacher association has prepared a program of music and art talks which they will present Thursday evening.

The collection will be displayed at the Englewood school March 18, 19 and 20 and at the Lincoln school March 25, 26 and 27. The funds from the exhibition will be used to purchase pictures for the schools.

best high school games that are to be played in the state, and to see the 10 best teams in action.

Two prominent Salem men have voiced the sentiment of a great number of the Salem business men in regard to this matter. Their sentiments are as follows:

"The tournament brings into Salem a number of players from all parts of the state, and is a wonderful source of advertisement to this city. Aside from its value as an advertisement it is one of the most entertaining and interesting athletic features of the year. I look forward with interest every year to the tournament."—D. W. Eyre.

"The State basketball tournament is one of the many good things brought to Salem every year by Willamette university. During the tournament Salem is host to a large number of desirable young people from over the state. They are our guests. Let us attend the games and give them a good welcome."—Jos. H. Albert."

Salem Dealer Adds Furniture to His Bicycle and Radio Business

A. H. Moore, who has been conducting a bicycle and radio shop at 235 North High street, has added furniture to his business and announces that he will feature moderately priced furniture, in addition to conducting his radio and bicycle shop.

Mr. Moore started in business in Salem 13 years ago in a small shop on Court street. About two years ago he erected his own building on High street and has occupied the lower part of the building with his bicycle shop since that time. Some time ago Mr. Moore added radio to his line, and now he is including furniture. He intends to carry his stock of bicycles in the basement of his building and the repair shop will be in the rear of the main store, which will be devoted entirely to radio and furniture.

Mr. Moore states that he believes in Salem, he spends his money here, and that he is in favor of anything that will help the city.

LYNCH GIVES TALK TO SALEM ROTARY

Civic Consciousness Aroused By the Co-Operative Efforts of People

James Lynch, former president of the San Francisco Rotary club addressed the Salem Rotary club on "Civic Consciousness," at their regular meeting Wednesday noon at the Marion hotel.

"Cities are individualistic," he said. "Some have just grown up like Topsy and others have been deliberately planned. New York is a city that grew up without planning, while Washington, D. C. was a city designed by the father of our country.

"Our buildings, streets, and other civic improvements are the expressions of our ideals. It is the very concepts of our thinking. You know, I am inclined to use as text, just as though I were going to preach a sermon. If I were to choose a text it would be this: 'As a man thinketh in his heart so is he.'"

Just so cities are an expression of the collective thinking of the individuals. This in turn is replaced by a collective thinking.

"A man will only take out of the community, just what he puts in. Consequently, what we need is more collective, community thinking and less individualistic thinking of the selfish type. The success of the community depends upon the cooperative efforts that are made by the citizens. It is not that a few must gain, but that the greatest good for the greatest number must be followed.

"A Chamber of Commerce supplies that unit by which the centralized efforts of the citizens of Salem can be made effective. It will be by these means that the success of the city is brought about."

The Salem Rotary club voted this noon to adopt a blue felt crush hat bearing the Rotary insignia, as the official hat of the club. The hats are to be worn at the Rotary conference and conventions.

LEASE OF TEAPOT DOME QUESTIONED

Government Charges Sinclair and Fall With Collusion and Fraud

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 11.—(By the Associated Press)—Depositional testimony showing there were numerous applicants besides Harry F. Sinclair for the lease of Teapot Dome naval oil reserve was given today in the trial of the government's suit in equity for annulment of the lease obtained by the Mammoth Oil company, a Sinclair concern.

The government alleges the lease was obtained through collusion and fraud between Sinclair and Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior. The testimony showed that several applicants for the lease, while believing their proposals still were under consideration by the interior department, received information from unofficial, but not official sources, that the reserve had been leased to Sinclair's corporation.

The introduction of depositional testimony will continue tomorrow according to plans of the government's special oil council, Owen J. Roberts and Allee Pomerene.

Testimony given by Beatty Shafer and Helms referred to the expressed desire of Secretary Fall to lease the naval reserve to an independent oil producer and the latter's alleged attitude that Sinclair appeared to be the only independent.

ment to permit leasing of the entire fields. He had understood, he said, that only offset wells, on the borders of naval reserves adjoining commercial fields, were to be drilled, and these merely to prevent drainage of the naval oil stores.

The Roosevelt deposition told of the navy's plans for the outfitting of storage to accommodate 45,000,000 barrels of oil for the navy at a cost of $67,500,000 and its program for developing the oil reserves only sufficiently to fill the proposed storage. Asked on cross examination what proportion of navy tankage the department planned on filling with oil from Teapot Dome, Roosevelt replied that he could not tell.

"What part did you take in the dealing into shape of this commission order which the president signed?" he was asked by J. W. Lacey of defense counsel.

"I took a very active part. It is very difficult to recall definitely the certain parts in the executive order to which I dissented. Dissented is a strong word but it was finally assented to by Secretary Denby."

Employment Situation Changes

American Forest Week to Be Observed Late in April

American Forest Week, heretofore known as Forest Protection Week, will be observed this year during the week of April 27 to May 3. The scope of the work is to be broadened this year, taking into consideration the economic side of the forest and forest products, instead of concentrating mainly on fire prevention.

In order that the matter may be given as wide publicity as possible Governor Pierce has appointed the following committee to take charge of this phase of the work. State Forester F. A. Elliott, chairman; John D. Guthrie, U. S. Forest Service, secretary; Hal Hoss, president Oregon Editorial association; Irving E. Vining, president state chamber of commerce; A. Whisnant, secretary Pacific Logging congress; C. C. Scott, secretary patrol associations; R. H. Chapler, Western Forestry and Conservation association; George W. Peavy, School of Forestry, OAC.

Plants of Oregon Growers Remain Unsold at Present

Canning plants of the Oregon Growers' association are not selling very rapidly, according to late reports. Plants at Medford, Roseburg, Grants Pass, Riddle, Garden Valley, Dallas, Forest Grove, Scott Mills, and Newberg, which are used for canning purposes and a drier at Carlton are on the market.

A number of plants have been disposed of at the present time, a few however, remain to be sold. Efforts have been made to dispose of them, but due to the inability of ready cash, the sales are not made.

W. I. Staley, who has charge of the disposition of the effects reports that the market is weak in the way of plant disposition, with all indications that it will not improve. The association has about 10,000 pounds of dried loganberries that are to be disposed of here. Outside of the plants and the berries nearly all the other assets of the corporation have been cared for.

The show last night was in three acts and took place at Glencliff Manor, on the Hudson. The action was continuous, shortly before midnight, a din in the library and adjoining room.

Search for Mate to Black Squirrel Ends in Failure

E. B. Flake, local animal trainer and conductor of the famous "Petland" declares he has the only unique pet squirrel in the world. He has two male jet black squirrels, and from all inquiries there are no others just like these two. Attempts have been made in various parts of the United States to secure a mate for the animals here, but the efforts have been in vain.

Some time ago Mr. Flake had three jet black squirrels, but by inadvertence the female of the species escaped and he was unable to capture her. In an attempt to secure another female, inquiries were sent to zoos of large cities such as New York, Cincinnati and to different sections of Canada, where it was reported the animals could be found. Nowhere in the east was it possible to get in touch with anyone who knew about the squirrels or where they could be procured.

As a result of his efforts Mr. Flake has come to the conclusion that he has the last two animals of a species of the squirrels that are nearly extinct. The animals are of the same size and form as the silver grey squirrels, and are of remarkable beauty. Instead of having the beautiful grey coat, the animals have jet black, shining fur.

Interesting Services Held by Church at Independence

Interesting services were held at the Christian church last Sunday. Immediately after Sunday school, which had an attendance of over 50, communion services were held, followed by a Bible message by Mrs. Edith Putnam and Mr. Youngblood.

At the noon hour a basket dinner was served in the school house and in the afternoon, Ralph Putnam, pastor of the Court Street Christian church of Salem, preached an interesting discourse. Quite a number from Stayton together with their pastor, Mr. Hay, attended the afternoon services.

A number of Salem people remained for the Endeavor meeting after which Mr. Putnam gave a practical sermon from the text: 412 "Prepare to Meet Thy God."

The song services were under the leadership of Garratt brothers. An interesting part of the service during the day was the singing by the two Woodry boys of Salem, of "That Beautiful Home of the Rose," written by Adeline Dorothy Graham and dedicated to the blind and sold for the benefit of those afflicted. Many of the songs were taken at 25 cents a copy. The boys were accompanied by their mother who played for them and who also favored the audience with two solos, which were very entertaining.

Other interesting meetings are being planned to which everybody is invited.—Aumsville Star.
