

CALIFORNIA WINS SECOND GAME OF SERIES SCORING 32 TO 17

OAG DEFEATED IN FAST GAME

Deciding Match Will Take Place Tonight; Play Fast and Brilliant

CORVALLIS, Or., March 13.—The University of California basketball team defeated Oregon Agricultural college here tonight by a score of 32 to 17 and evened up the series for the championship of the Pacific coast. The deciding game will be played here tomorrow night.

California staged a brilliant comeback and from the puzzled team of last night on an unfamiliar floor, became a fighting grizzly bear, rushing the Aggies all the way. A little bear-hugging on both sides made many fouls.

California guarded closely, different entirely from its open style of last night, and showed a remarkable ability to run through its play. The game was a California affair from start to finish. Captain Steele of the Aggies was knocked out three minutes after the game started and had to be carried off. Harold Ridings, the Aggie star forward, went without scoring a single point for the first time this season. Jorgensen played a dashing game for California at forward, making four field goals and five free throws.

The Lineup:
California: 32 Aggies, 17
Watson, F. Ridings
Jorgensen, F. Baker
Higgins, C. Diwoy
Belasco, G. Graap
Frechter, G. Stoddard
Substitutions—Agiess: Graap for Steele; Steele for Graap; Ellertson for Stoddard.

California: Carver for Frechter; Frechter for Watson.
Scoring—California: field goals Jorgensen 4; Watson 1; Higgins 3; Belasco 3. Free throws: Jorgensen 5; Higgins 2; Belasco 3.
Agiess—Field goals, Baker 2; Diwoy 1. Free throws: Diwoy 5; Steele 1; Graap 1; Stoddard 4.
Referee: Hollander.

SENATE BILL HAS NO REVENUE AID

existing duties of such department. The administration of senate bill 216 will entail considerable labor in the examination of records and in clerical services and the like, and much printing, stationery, postage, files, etc., variously estimated from $50,000 to $100,000, without any appreciable return to the state on account of the service and protection to motor vehicle owners through the operation of such a law.

"It is contended, and I am reliably informed," said Mr. Kozer, "that motor vehicle thefts will be greatly reduced, and by reason thereof the cost of theft insurance to the motor vehicle owner. No fee is exacted from the motor car owner for registering his title to the car which the law imposes. For any subsequent transaction, however, a transfer fee of $1 is exacted. Where duplicates are desired a charge of 50 cents is imposed. These receipts would, under existing laws, be converted into the general fund of the state. They could be made available as an offset to any administrative expenses incurred.

"The attorney general, in view of this omission upon the part of the act, directs my attention to the law creating the emergency board and defining its duties and powers, stating that the instant case is clearly the kind which may be properly authorized by the emergency board. Inasmuch as the duties are required to be performed and no funds provided for the payment of the expenses to be incurred in their performance, it will be my purpose at a later date to issue a call for the emergency board for the consideration of the matter of providing for the administrative expenses of this law, which has to do with the protection of the titles of motor vehicles of residents of Oregon. A similar law exists in some few of the other states, among which are Indiana and Michigan. It is along the lines of the laws of those states that the Oregon motor vehicle title law has been framed."

He said he could not make a further statement until he had seen his attorney, C. E. Rathbun of Chicago, who was not in the courtroom, but was so happy at the crowd milled about him that he added:
"I was a sick man and my doctors warned me that it might be my death if I attended this trial, but nothing could have kept me away.
"I haven't very long to live, you know, but I am going to try to do some good in the time that is left me."
Mrs. Stokes' clash with Miss Brophy was precipitated when they met in Judge Gemmill's private chambers, which they entered to escape the crowd struggling about the court room door, when they arrived after the court had begun instructing the jury, and could not be admitted while that step was proceeding. Miss Brophy said that Mrs. Stokes said she refused to remain in the same room with the secretary, and demanded that she be removed. "I positively refused to leave," said Miss Brophy. After a few angry exchanges the women went into separate rooms.

The exhibit opened Wednesday evening with a program by the children of the school and including both folk dances and living pictures. On Thursday night the Parent-Teacher association had charge of the program and gave numerous interesting readings and musical numbers. Last night marked the closing night. Tea and wafers have added to the pleasure of the afternoon openings.

One entire class room and the whole upper hall of the school were given over to the exhibit, which acquainted the children with the masterpieces all time. The teachers have made it more interesting by the telling of stories relating to the various pictures.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week the exhibit will be transferred to the Englewood school, and on the week following to Englewood.

VITAGRAPHS

Those Northwestern wolf-dogs are born fighting. The pack used in "Baree, Son of Kazan," which David Smith is making for Vitagraph, staged a wild fight the other day, and a six weeks old pup was nearly strangled trying to get his ear in. When the melee started he let loose a snarl, took a header at the nearest malemate, and hung himself at the end of his leash. Cut loose quickly, he made a dive for the centre of the fight, fastening his teeth in the leg of one of the old timers. It took three men to pull him off.

Arthur Bryson, the little colored jockey of "Wildfire," that great race track melodrama now being made by Vitagraph, is studying the dope sheets these days. He has unearthed one at Havana, where the company is going to film the race track scenes, and he is going to play it all on the nose its first start. The horse is "Shingle Shack." Asked why he picked him, Arthur grinned and said, "I was bawled in a shingle shack. Ain't that hunch enough to any man?"

Vitagraph announced today that "In the Garden of Charity," the Basil King story that J. Stuart Blackton is making on the West coast has been changed to "Tides of Passion." Mae Marsh is being starred.

Conway Tearle, who is starred in "School for Wives," Victor Hugo Halperin's Vitagraph production, is all for being natural.

JAYWALK RULES CUT LOTS OF FATALITIES

Since the installation of the new traffic laws in Los Angeles, deaths through motor vehicle accidents have decreased almost one-half in comparison of January of this year with the first month of 1924.

This decline, reported by the public safety department of the Automobile club, is believed due in large part to observance of the jaywalking ordinance. Auto accidents, the report shows, caused twelve fatalities in January of 1925, while twenty-three are recorded for the first month of last year.

White Roads Give Drivers Variety of Eye Ailments

LONDON, March 14.—The grey of white surfaced roads of England at which the increasing number of automobile drivers are compelled to gaze intently in guiding their speeding cars, are causing a mass of minor eye troubles, according to Arthur Upson in a recent address before the Institute of Opticians.

White roads reflect the harmful actinic rays, and Mr. Upson recommends that road builders mix green coloring matter with their surfacing material.

Rival New York promoters have invited Kearns to consider a select assortment of bids for matches between Dempsey and Gibbons, and Dempsey and Harry Wills, the negro challenger.

Kane said tonight that Gibbons is anxious to box Dempsey any place, provided the championship would be involved in a contest to decision.

SCHOOL ART

A beautiful art exhibit will open at Highland school, March 11 at 2:30. The pictures, numbering two hundred, have been arranged on the walls in their chronological order, beginning with Egyptian art and coming down to modern American art. Afterward the pictures will be exhibited at Englewood school for three days.

The great majority of us will never have the opportunity to see the originals of these pictures as they are scattered all over the world, Europe principally, and an opportunity of this kind, that enables one to see and study real art, although reproduced, is eagerly taken advantage of by many. The pictures do not have the crude appearance that is seen in many reproductions, but show that the ones who copied the masterpieces knew how to do it. They are beautiful.

It is now generally recognized among educational authorities that education in culture and refinement can easily be aided through the wholesome influence of pictures of the right sort on the school walls. The larger the attendance at the exhibition, the greater the number of pictures that can be secured for the schools.
