

FLAX GROWING IN AURORA DISTRICT

Much Interest Is Being Aroused in Flax in North End of Marion County

Interest in the flax industry is growing in the north end of Marion county. The Hubbard Enterprise of the current week has the following editorial paragraph:

The Willamette valley is the only section in the entire United States that can raise fiber flax on a par with European flax. The invention of practical flax pulling machines, tested here last year, puts us on a par with European countries in the cost of harvesting flax and means to the industry here what the cotton gin did to the cotton industry.

Growers in Aurora District

The Aurora Observer gives the following complete list of those in that locality who have signed up for flax acreage:

Andy Miller, 3 acres; W. H. Hughlett, route 3, Molalla, 1 acre; R. E. Donahue, 3 acres; J. P. Feller, 1 acre; Frank Gloss, 1 acre; U. Eilers, 1 acre; Fred Drager, 4 acres; Gus Frederickson, 1 acre; Johan Nielson, 5 acres; L. I. Snyder, 1 acre; E. E. Braadt, 2 acres; S. H. Raid, 1 acre; Joe Resch, 1 acre; F. B. Garrett, 1 acre; J. H. Hugill, 1 acre; P. O. Bolland, 1 acre; R. H. Etzel, 1 acre; J. R. Kraus, 5 acres; S. R. Ray, 1 acre.

Seed will be here right away and may be secured at the office of E. G. Robinson.

Things Are Not What They Seem

I REALIZED that things are not always what they seem when I called on Lucy Dater the other day. She was darnin' Bill's socks, and I remarked about her attractive work basket. She smiled and said the work basket had done service as a lamp shade for lo, these many years. She had covered it with pretty cretonne and trimmed it with ribbon. "I should think," I commented, "that with all your sewing you never could take time to make such a work basket." "Not a stitch in it," she exclaimed triumphantly: "I just gined the whole thing and I'm crazy about it."

"Who," I asked, admiringly, "gave you that odd little hanging flower pot with the ivy in it?" "That," she laughed, "is my new Florentine flower holder. Yesterday it was a talcum powder can!" "Gine again?" I ventured. "Yes, and a scrap of glazed chintz I had left over from the dining room curtains. I just got a tube of the best quality liquid glue and I'm on a regular gluing orgy."

"You never made that darling tabby cat door stop!" I exclaimed, admiringly. "But I did," she boasted. "It is a quart milk bottle filled with sand for weight, then padded with sheet wadding glued around the bottle to give it shape. The covering is a bit of black broadcloth I had in my scrap bag. Puss's face is painted on."

I gasped, "What a milk bottle, discarded lamp shade and a talcum powder can made into those nice things!" "Oh, but look at my pickle jar vase," she invited. It was pretty and you'd never guess its origin, but really that was enough. Besides, I was in a hurry to get some liquid glue myself and try my own hand at this new craft of Lucy's.

HUGE STILL IS TAKEN IN RAID

Officers Unable to Take Tank Through Court House Door; Mash Held

TACOMA, Wash., March 26.—A 300-gallon still said to be the largest ever seized by the county dry squad and believed by the officers to have been one of the chief sources of liquor supply for Pierce county, was captured with 1000 gallons of mash near Mineral in Lewis county this afternoon. As the result of the seizure Frank South is being held at the county jail.

The manufacturers of the still failed to take into consideration the size of the court house side doors and the officers, after bringing it all the way to Tacoma, were unable to get it inside the building.

ROOSEVELT TRIP IS PROVIDED FOR

English Officials Lend Support; Paths Are Opened for Expedition

LONDON, March 25.—(By the Associated Press).—Through the good offices of the Earl of Reading, viceroy of India, another route through the Leh pass to the high Pamirs tableland, thence to Turkestan is open to the Roosevelt hunting expedition for its pursuit this summer of the ovis poli and other game of the central Asian highlands.

This route is even more hazardous than the one through the Hunza pass which cannot be used by the American party this year because all available native carriers have been engaged by Swedish hunting expeditions.

The Leh route is a dangerous and difficult trail through barren mountains. A third route to the Pamirs leads through Afghanistan and while it would offer the easiest traveling, it is unsafe because infested with murderous tribesmen, against whom no protection could be guaranteed.

The Leh route is little used except in midsummer, and then only by expeditions carrying mail into Tibet. It stretches along the foothills bordering the forbidden country and in some places is only fifty miles from the frontier, the most difficult part of the trip, however, will be the crossing of two passes at a height of 15,000 feet. Both generally are snow covered throughout the year, unmarked for long distances and there is great danger of avalanches.

The Roosevelt expedition will have to leave the railway at Jammu, making the trip to Leh over good roads, but thereafter the trail is unsurfaced, stony and too steep for vehicular transportation. The route as far as Askote usually is fairly good in springtime but from that point on there will be several days hard traveling up across the Hustagh pass, at a height of 14,719 feet and down again to 8,000 feet, along the bed of the Yarkhand river. This will bring the expedition to the Pamirs on the eastern side and opposite the entrance from the Hunza pass and into the district known as the Maniom Pamir.

Unlike the Hunza route the Leh trail is little guarded and there is a danger of attacks from tribes, particularly from the restless Khizrens. Although the Indian government has offered to furnish an escort for the Roosevelt expedition, the American hunters' progress probably would be hindered by them.

The expedition must return along the Leh route before September when snows make it impassable.

LONE WOLF IS FINALLY TAKEN

Bandit, Preying on Women Apartment Dwellers Is Captured By Police

BOSTON, March 25.—Boston's "lone wolf" mysterious burglar, who for weeks preyed on woman apartment dwellers in the Back Bay district, was in jail tonight under observation of two physicians of the state department of mental diseases. The burglar, whose real name is said to be Jas. E. Walters, and who has gone under the alias of Frank Stevens, was traced to a rooming house in South Boston. Arraigned in court he pleaded not guilty to indictments for burglary and carrying weapons and indicated that he would offer insanity as his defense. Judge Bishop fixed his bail at $90,000.

Walters gave his home address as Richmond, Va., and his occupation as marine engineer. Police said he admitted he was the much sought "lone wolf."

The court was told today that Walters had been disabled at Brest during the war when a mine sweeper on which he served exploded. The attorney also said that Walters had been adjudged insane at Boise, Idaho, several years ago, and that he had later been sentenced to three months imprisonment at Seattle, Wash., on a robbery charge.

The "lone wolf" first engaged the attention of Boston police January 5 when he robbed the apartment of a young woman whom he lashed to a bed. A series of apartment robberies followed and the dread of the "lone wolf" in a district inhabited largely by business women and college girls became so great that a large force of plain clothes police was assigned to duty there.

especially the pastor, feel greatly indebted to God and to all who have felt the burden of the meetings upon their heart and who have been praying that God would richly bless the efforts of His people. Last night there was a deep spirit of devotion in the meeting. The message was taken from the scene of Judah offering himself as a ransom that Benjamin be allowed to return to his father. After having sold Joseph, Judah refused again to face the sorrow of his father, but cried out, "how shall I return if I take not the lad." The application to our own sense of responsibility to God for our fellowmen brought tears to many eyes. The speaker said that he would rather have the parents who disregarded religion altogether than those who take their names on the church roll whose lives were giving the lie to their profession, stating that the children of the latter would scorn the religion of their parents.

This afternoon concludes the junior church services. Make it a record of attendance. Remember, 4:15 o'clock. Tonight at 7:30 o'clock is family night. The subject will be: "A Daring Adventure in the Home."

REINDEER BREEDING CLAIMS ATTENTION

Experimenters Are Endeavoring to Increase Weight of Alaskan Animal

SEATTLE, March 25.—Breeding experiments intended to double the weight of Alaskan reindeer by crossing them with woodland caribou will be conducted on Nunivak island, north of Kuskokwim bay, Bering sea, and Fairbanks, Alaska, by the government, L. J. Palmer, head of a United States biological survey station at Nome, Alaska, declared here today.

"Reindeer are in reality domesticated caribou," said Palmer. "From studies of wild herds, it has been ascertained that reindeer can be increased in weight from 150 pounds, the average of Alaskan herds, to 300 pounds. Fifteen caribou bulls are to be taken from Kookines down the Yukon river to Nunivak island this summer. A small herd of reindeer on the island is to be used in the cross-breeding."

"Another problem to be studied is that of lichens or reindeer moss, the main food of the deer in winter. It now takes from 15 to 30 years for a new growth of lichens and we hope to discover a method of hastening the growth or find-

The liver is a Gland

When torpid, feed it gland

The way to treat glands is with gland secretions. Modern medicine has made no greater discovery. Now results are brought which never were dreamed of in the old days.

The liver is the largest, most important gland. When inactive, it needs ox gall. No drug has ever done what ox gall is now doing for the liver.

Why You Feel Ill

Torpid liver means more than constipation, more than indigestion, vastly more.

The liver supplies bile—a quart a day. That bile checks intestinal germs. When it is scant, the germs breed by millions, and they feed a constant stream of poisons to the blood.

The quickest results are sallow complexions, dull eyes, falling hair. But heart and kidney troubles often result from these poisons. Also high blood pressure, also premature old age.

Stop Those Poisons

Stop those poisons by renewing the bile supply. Do this in the modern way. Use ox gall to stimulate the liver.

Results begin in 24 hours. In a day or two they are often unbelievable. Many can gain new health and vitality by the use of ox gall. And to some the results will be priceless. You owe to yourself a test.

But get genuine ox gall. The fame of this treatment has led to much deceit. Ask your druggist for Dioxol tablets. Each one contains ten drops of purified ox gall. Remember that name—Dioxol. Then you will learn what this new method can do. Learn it without delay. All your future may be changed by the results.

Guarantee: Anyone not satisfied with results from the first box of Dioxol may return the empty box to the makers and receive his money back.—Adv.
