STAY WITH THE LORD:—The Lord is with you, while ye be with Him; and if ye seek Him, He will be found of you; but if you forsake Him, He will forsake you. II. Chronicles 15:2.
PRAYER:—O Lord, we would seek Thee now when Thou mayest be found, and call upon Thee whilst Thou art near, for this is the day of Thy salvation.

IN ITS NATURE COOPERATIVE

The beet sugar industry is in its nature cooperative; or an undertaking aimed to be mutually advantageous to the grower of the beets and the man or men or company furnishing the capital for erecting and managing and maintaining the manufacturing plant.

And practically the whole of that industry in the United States is now carried on either purely cooperatively or in a way which amounts to about the same thing.

That is, on a fifty-fifty basis between the grower of the beets and the company undertaking to market the beets and their by-products in the form of manufactured articles.

In some districts the farmers actually get half of the returns; but they receive their money as the manufactured products are sold; and in some cases they stand to receive a still larger share in case the prices of sugars run high.

In other districts farmers get 45 per cent and a chance to get more in case high prices rule.

And practically all the great concerns having strings of beet sugar factories started cooperatively, with just one factory. By good management or through other favorable circumstances they have been able to grow, both from within from their profits and from without by enlisting new capital.

Now, why may not Salem start cooperatively a beet sugar factory, that may become a string of factories at advantageous points throughout the Willamette valley?

Why not? Both the direct and the indirect benefits would be great. Dairying and poultry keeping and live stock breeding would be wonderfully helped and expanded.

"IN A SOUND, NORMAL CONDITION"

The following are excerpts from the current weekly bulletin of Henry Clews & Co., high Wall street authorities on financial and commercial affairs; their headlines being: "Business Maintains Stability; Readjustment Is Putting Market in Better Shape."

"Fundamental business conditions have continued quite as favorable during the past week or more as they had been at any similar period earlier in the season or at the corresponding time last year. In fact, analysis of the situation from a business and commercial standpoint shows that 1935 is moving forward in all essential business respects considerably more satisfactorily on the average than was true a year ago. The unsettled state of the market, therefore, has been the outgrowth of technical conditions, the result of overpurchasing of stocks by the public at large during the winter, which has now been largely corrected by the readjustment that has taken place in values.

"An exceptionally careful study of business has been made within the last few days and the opinion of unusually well equipped forecasters has been obtained. The information is practically uniform to the effect that business is in a sound, normal condition. This soundness is reflected in the fact that unemployment is below normal, a substantial number of leading industrial plants showing increase in demand for men. In fact, in some lines there is now a prospective shortage of labor. Viewed in detail, the steel industry is well booked up toward capacity to July 1, or thereabouts, the automobile trade, after a rather cautious winter's work, is finding orders fully as good as those of 1934 and is increasing its production, while export trade in cheaper cars is very much above that of 1933. The electrical industry is in excellent condition, with orders representing the requirements of the public utilities companies considerably ahead. Textile plants are not booked up far ahead, but they are working on a substantially busy schedule at the present time, with spindles 80 to 85 per cent occupied. Construction industries are somewhat spotty, but the total of contracts left compares very favorably with the corresponding figure for 1934. All told the activity of business is good and there is little to find fault with when viewed in the light of general tendencies or averages.

"At this season of the year the agricultural outlook is always of primary interest. The combined value of crop and livestock production in the United States for 1934 is now reported as totaling $12,464,000,000, or about $56,000,000 more than in 1933. There are as yet no authentic figures for the prospective crop season, but preliminary estimates of 'intention to plant' show an increase of 7,000,000 acres in the chief feed crops, with an increase over the preceding year of about 13 per cent in spring wheat. Apparently there is no reason to doubt that last year's farm yields were sufficiently satisfactory to induce the producer to go ahead and put in an even larger acreage than he did during that season. The early planting weather in those parts of the country where the season is sufficiently far advanced to permit an accurate estimate has been quite favorable, although, of course, with the usual ups and downs that are encountered at this season in any crop year. On the whole, however, there is no reason to doubt a fairly satisfactory outlook in staple products."

GO TO WORK

Salem is an unusually beautiful city and this spring there is a lot of cleaning up to be done to keep it so. Garden patches are profitable and they also serve to take away the unsightly places. It is possible to put in every yard fruit and nut trees that make for beauty and profit at the same time. Housewives clean house every spring but the cleaning should be extended to the yards as well. It is just as important

KEEPING THE PACE

It is true that food production has increased thirteen per cent in the last twelve years and food consumption has decreased five per cent in the same time. Since 1915 there has been economical consumption. Up to that time everything was wide, open, land was cheap, people feverishly tilled every acre they could. Then came the war. Economic changes have followed the war. We have arranged to irrigate the dry lands and to farm the logged off lands. It will be many years, many centuries before our production reaches the highest degree.

However we are increasing our population a million and a half every year and we are also studying foreign markets. Instead of overproduction we have undermarketing. We need to market more intelligently, to distribute more economically and in this way avoid all waste.

With our increasing population and increasing foreign markets, there is demand for good farming always. We have had too much poor farming, too many acres robbed rather than fewer acres farmed. If the farmers will produce the best quality they can, in the most economical way they can, they need not fear overproduction as long as the market conditions are met. The reason of the glut in many places is unintelligent marketing. Food riots in one commercial center when the people are crying for it in another. The lame part of all our agricultural economic situation is distribution.

STAND BY IT

The Statesman has frequently taken occasion to commend the chamber of commerce. We have just noticed the chamber of commerce of Walla Walla has secured a reduction of twenty per cent in insurance rates. This is a big saving and vindicates the chamber. However without knowing anything about the Walla Walla conditions we make the statement that this is only one of the activities.

A chamber of commerce has come to be a necessity, it is a clearing house for city building. It does not influence trade except in the general direction of its city. It leaves the merchants' association and the individual merchants to take care of the people after they get them here.

In Salem we are particularly fortunate in having the service clubs cooperating with the chamber of commerce. There is not one of them but what is cooperating splendidly. The service clubs have come to stay because they have a program worth while. They are carrying on outside of the chamber of commerce but really auxiliary to it.

A fear has been expressed by thoughtful observers that the increase of service clubs and various other side organizations is bringing a detrimental scattering of community activities. Each of the various organizations is pardonably eager to make a record for itself, but that spirit does not make for concerted community effort. The chamber of commerce is the clearing house of our city.

FOOLISH TALK

There is a whole lot of talk about stool pigeons and searching houses without warrants, etc. The wonder is that officers of the law have the heart to do anything. People demand rigid enforcement of the law and the moment it is started they begin to criticize the officers for being over-zealous. A man in uniform can not buy liquor in Salem. He must depend upon some one to do it for him. We do not have enough officers to have them slip up behind the offenders and catch them in the act except on the rarest occasions. Somebody must peach, somebody must at least give the officers a tip. We have little patience with those who are so free in demanding law enforcement and then as soon as they get it criticize the methods by which it is obtained. That is no way to make a town clean, no way to stand by the officers.

PERU BALKS

The president appointed a commission to investigate troubles between Peru and Chile and now Peru balks. That is the trouble with those fellows. They have their standard is to be. However, they never ever hear of an American arbitration commission. The fact of the case is that Peru will not be determined. It is very much for the things that come our way and very much against the things that go the other way.

Editorials of the People

Editor Statesman: Your recent editorial on the anti-evolution legislation in Tennessee was pertinent to the subject, but, if I may, I would like to add a few words.

Our friends, in lifting their eyes and hands to Heaven, and protesting their belief in the Bible from cover to cover, simply mean that they accept without question the conventional interpretation of it as given by their fathers. If Volvo, with his flat and stationary earth, is mentioned, they smile at his folly, and certainly they would not concede to him any added sanctity because of the position he has taken. But when that position was made untenable to intelligent men, their rue of interpretation that the writers of the ancient Scriptures, in being given the task of spiritual truth, were also relieved of the limitations and misconceptions of their age and situation, also was made untenable.

And now the only question as relates to the theory of evolution in the Bible is one of the creditability of the theory. Those holding one or the other view as to that are equal in their rights and privileges in the Bible. And the ultimate general adoption or rejection of that theory will be as harmless to Bible truth as the Copernican theory of the universe has been. Respectfully,

—F. N. CONE.

More flax interest—

A scramble for seed, between the proposed Vancouver, Wash., mill and the one to be headed by the Canadian experts.

And the big seed houses are trying to buy flax seed. They are getting inquiries for seed from all over western Oregon and Washington.

The Vancouver mill people have secured an option on the whole plant of the White linen mill at Beloit, Wis., and on the seven retting and scutching plants owned by the same concern, and they say they will have a line of machinery going at Vancouver by June 1st, spinning yarn and weaving cloth.

If Salem cannot get one of the big concerns interested in a beet sugar factory here, let a good organizer be secured, to go at the matter cooperatively. Why may not the first one of a string of beet sugar factories be organized at Salem?

Shall autos in Salem back in or head in? There are advantages and disadvantages both ways. But about twice as many can be accommodated with the head in idea prevailing.

Calvin Coolidge may have been born in Vermont, but his political life belongs to Massachusetts and he is duly credited to the Bay state. One hundred years ago the last Massachusetts president was inaugurated. It was on March 4, 1825, that John Quincy Adams took the oath of office and entered the White House. Massachusetts has had many great men in their country's service, but none has gained the presidency since the days of the Adamses.

LENTEN TALKS THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST JOHN

by
Rev. ERNEST H. SHANKS, Pastor of the First Baptist Church

APRIL 1, 1935
John 15:1-11. "The Vine and the Branches."
The Care of the Branches. 1-3.
Freedom of Choice. 4-6.
The Father Glorified. 7-11.
Key: "Abide."
Memory verses: 1, 2, 3, 5, 7, 8.

UNDER the figure of the vine and the branches, Jesus gives us one of His most profound lessons. The life of the vine is given to the branches of the vine. Only as the branches abide in the vine may they bear fruit. We have seen the branch cut from the tree in the spring of the year after the sap has risen, and it puts forth a show of leaves, even blossoms. But who ever saw one bearing fruit? Jesus claims to be the true Vine. Only by abiding in Him, drawing life and strength from Him, can the fruit of righteousness, true holiness, the fruit of the Spirit, become possible. The Lord's own life becomes the life of the saints. His life is a fruitful one. Good fruit must follow union with Him. All those systems that deny Him, that refuse his life, are barren, however they may make a show of leaves and appear to have life. The "Husbandman" relies on the vital life in Jesus to bring about real Christian living. There is something really joyous in the "abiding life." Jesus desires that his joy may be in His disciples—a full joy and a full life; full of fruit to the glory of His Father. But to abide in Him may mean that we must break with some of the dearest things of life.

1. I am the true vine, and my Father is the Husbandman.

2. Every branch in Me that beareth fruit He taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, He purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3. Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

4. I am the vine, ye are the branches: he that abideth in Me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without Me ye can do nothing.

5. If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.

6. Herein is My Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be My disciples.

Tribes of Borneo Bury Hatchet in Odd Ceremony

THE HAGUE, March 28.—Dispatches from Borneo, Dutch East Indies, give interesting details of a peace ceremony between the different Dyak tribes of that island. These clans have been constantly fighting each other for years, and have the reputation of being ferocious and bloodthirsty head-hunters.

Some 4,600 Dyaks came to the gathering. There were present also a few Dutch and British officers, who witnessed curious war dances, songs and prayers by medicine men. Finally the head priest killed a pig by a slow method and sprinkled its blood over the multitude, pronouncing a terrible curse upon anyone who should presume to revive the inter-tribal quarrels.

As in England, which has seen a large reduction in the number of drink shops, the problem of compensating the dispossessed has to be faced. The report of the commission is intended to form the basis of future legislation.
