Army Reservations May Be Turned Into Parks

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 28—Data on state parks in the south and plans of various states for development and maintenance of systems of state recreation grounds are being gathered for the National conference on state parks by Raymond H. Torrey, field secretary of the organization. This information is to be used in advising other states of the ways and means used in establishing, maintaining and administering state park systems.

Mr. Torrey, speaking of his labors, declared that one of the objects of the survey was to induce states in which are located military reservations which the United States war department wishes to dispose of, to take over these tracts for outdoor recreation purposes. There are many such tracts, he said.

The National Conference of state parks is composed of executives, technical experts and supporters of state park systems from states which already have public outdoor recreation spots.

A Florida cop chasing the automobile of Gov. Bryan of Nebraska said the governor was running 72 miles an hour. Who said those Bryans couldn't run?
