

PORTLAND NINE IS SHUT OUT IN SECOND GAME BY 4 TO 0 SCORE

BEAVERS FAIL TO STOP RALLY

Buried Hitting Responsible for Angel Victory; Errors Costly

LOS ANGELES, April 8.—Geo. Payne, pitching excellent ball, held Portland to seven scattered hits here today and Los Angeles evened the series, which opened yesterday, with a 4 to 0 victory. The Angels, though not hitting heavily, buried them in the fourth inning and scored three tallies. Portland made three errors, one of which cost a run.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS SATURDAY

Salem High School Will Meet Redskins on Indian School Diamond

The Salem high baseball team will open the season against the Chemawa Indians Saturday afternoon on the diamond at Chemawa. From all reports the local team will have to hustle, as the Redskins have a much better team than last year. They have the record of trimming the Salem team last year.

The Salem high school team has a heavy schedule for this year, and unless they show up better than they have been doing, defeat is in store for them. However, the return of the basketball quint gives the local team new support, and it is expected they will whip into shape within a minimum of time.

The Salem team will probably consist of the following men for the Saturday contest: Ferby in the box, the Girod brothers at first, second and third base, Heenan, Rogers, Kelly, Fabry, Ketchen and Gould will complete the lineup.

Champoeg Road Repairs to Be Considered By Board

Governor Pierce, the board of control, and the Marion county court will meet at Champoeg today to discuss the road situation there, with the end in view of making repairs before the annual celebration on May 2.

The roads are not in first class condition, according to Judge Hunt, and both the board of control and the county court have some money on hand for repairs in that district.

A large number of people make the trip every year to that historic Oregon spot on the Willamette, where the vote was taken to decide whether or not Oregon would become a part of the British Empire, or remain within the boundaries of the United States.

May 2 is set aside as the day on which a celebration is held, commemorating the critical event in Oregon's history.

SALEM QUINT RETURNS HOME

High School State Champs Had Fine Time But Are Glad to Find it Warm

Salem's representatives to the 1925 national basketball tournament at Chicago returned to the city yesterday, victorious but happy, nevertheless, and were greeted by the entire high school student body. All but one returned to the city Wednesday morning. John Drager, prominent member of the Oregon championship team, was left in Spokane because he failed to return to the train in time. Tickets and a small sum of money were left for him. He will put in his appearance sometime today.

During the stop in Chicago the team was entertained at the Beta Zeta Tau, national Jewish fraternity, which held the membership of Richard Loeb, who with Nathan Leopold, was sentenced to life imprisonment for the killing of Robert Franks.

Members of the team suffered from the cold weather of the east and were very glad to get back to the Willamette valley, according to Coach Hollis Huntington.

The Salem players were not in good physical condition during the trip and three of them, Ashby, Ellis and Nash were confined to their rooms for a while. Ashby was threatened with a serious cold. Nash was troubled with acute appendicitis. Due to the poor physical condition of the Salem men, it was impossible to make a good showing on the Chicago floor. It is stated that three days' rest is necessary for the big games.

Franklin and Salem have buried the hatchet, according to the reports, and members of the two teams were rooting for each other during the contests. There was enough money for the trip, with a sum of $15 remaining over to meet some minor bills that remain unpaid.

Those returning from the Chicago trip yesterday were Dennis Heenan, Robert Drager, Bob Ashby, Tom Duffey, W. Ellis, Jerome Hansen, Glen Nash and Coach Huntington.

Epidemic Ban Forces Ship To Return Cargo to East

VICTORIA, B. C., April 8.—The Japanese steamer Toyooka Maru was forced to depart for Seattle today with 500 tons of maize which was consigned to this port from the Far East. The department of agriculture refused to allow the maize to be discharged because of a regulation for the prevention of a foot and mouth disease. The cargo will probably have to be returned to the Far East, it was said.

200 STANDS BEES SOLD TO ONE MAN

Mr. Mead, the Polk County Bee King, Finds Himself Busy These Days

Many readers of The Statesman will remember the account in this paper a couple of weeks ago of the operations of H. M. Mead, the Polk county bee king, whose apary is on the second farm to the right after you pass Brunk's corner on your way from Salem to Independence—turning to the left at Brunk's. Mr. Mead is the bee king of Polk county, and he will be Oregon bee king if he keeps on going at the present rate.

Well, Mr. Mead yesterday sold to Dan Carew of Mill City, 200 stands of bees, to be delivered by the first of June.

Will Be Some Job
 That will be some job; to get all these stands of bees ready, besides his other work, and other orders, but Mr. Mead would not undertake it unless he knew he could do it. It will mean 200 new queens. It will mean 200 pounds of bees, mostly new ones yet to be developed. It will mean 400 brood frames. But they will all be ready. And Mr. Carew ought to be the coming bee king of his neck of the woods.

Coming Down Fine
 The original fools, the females of the tribe, the worker bees, are extremely busy these days. The honey flow is big, and they are losing no time. At a Salem home where there are maple trees and many blooms, yesterday, the bees were so thick that they looked almost like a swarm. This is all very fine. It means a lot of honey. More important, it means full pollination of the fruit blossoms.

TULIPS RIVALING CHERRY BLOSSOMS

Several Fields Near Salem Bid Strong to Attract Visitors Sunday

Salem is not only observing Blossom day Sunday, but there are also the tulips that really attract as much attention as the cherry and prune blossoms.

There are several tulip fields near Salem. One is on the Pacific highway about four miles north of Salem. The other is the tract of W. C. Franklin on the Wallace road about half a mile north of the Marion-Polk county bridge.

Mr. Franklin says he will have fully 10,000 in bloom next Sunday and that the tulip beds are radiant in almost all colors of the rainbow.

There are blue tulips and those that are almost black. Also various shades of purple and again the white tulip, Mr. Franklin says.

Last year the tulip beds were greatly admired by the thousands who came to Salem Blossom day. In fact, almost the first questions asked by women visitors was, "Where are the tulips?"

A year ago the tulip beds of Mr. Franklin were just developing and were not brought to the attention of the public. This year, with thousands in bloom, many visitors who cross the bridge will visit the Franklin farm before driving over the Oak Grove road into the cherry district.

Bellingham, Wash., intends to celebrate tulip week early in May. But in Salem visitors Sunday will be given a double treat—that of visiting not only tulips, but thousands of acres of cherries and prunes in blossom.

Paper Mill Wins In Damage Suit

 three manufacturing institutions along the north power, namely the old tannery, on the Asylum avenue where the ice plant of Ben Taylor has been operated for many years, and on Liberty street was the factory of the Willamette Woolen manufacturing company, and at the mouth of Mill creek there was another mill.

At that time there were also three manufacturing institutions constructed along the south power, namely the Pioneer Oil company where Thomas Kay has for many years operated his woolen mill, the Agricultural Works, where farm implements were made in those early days, and where the Salem Water, Light & Power company now develops power in the operation of its water plant, and at the foot of Trade street there was constructed in the year 1857, a large tanning mill.

Fifty Men Taken in Raid; On Seattle Gambling House

SEATTLE, April 8.—Fifty men were arrested and narcotics, gambling paraphernalia and money were confiscated in a raid on a hotel here today by eight deputies in a war on gambling, started by King county prosecutor Col-that the first flour shipped to foreign countries from the state of Oregon was ground in this mill by the water power involved in the above litigation.

The existence of this power had much to do in attracting the paper mill to the city of Salem, as it was the water thus diverted from the Santiam for the combined purposes of washing, bleaching and power. The winning of this case is regarded as of vital importance to the paper company.

vin in Seattle, March 31. The officers smashed their way through a heavily barred door with axes and sledge hammers. They found the place crowded with men, and gambling games, including Chinese lottery, craps, chuck-a-luck, and blackjack, going full blast, police said.
