The Shannon farm, where Mr. and Mrs. Hall live. A yellow and white table was the biggest attraction of the afternoon. A yellow umbrella formed the centerpiece and from this streamers were brought to each place card. Each little guest was instructed to pull the streamer at her or his plate. Amusing little favors were attached to the streamers and hidden in the umbrella.

Guests were Evalyn Hall, Donald Steffen, Reta Steffen, Annabell Jensen, Lester Hagen, Paul Hagen, Weldon Hattberg, Jordan Moe, Juanita Moe, Louise Dybbetter, Paul Dybbetter, Joyce Simons, Gilbert Titus, Betty Torvend, Kenneth Bolle, Faye Bolle. Crown guests were Mrs. Louis Hall, Mrs. D. Steffen, Mrs. Hans Jensen, Mrs. Hagen, Mrs. Martin Hattberg, Mrs. Dan Dybbetter, Mrs. Arthur Simons, Mrs. Henry Torvend, Mrs. O. Bolle, Mrs. Oscar Satern.

Silverton, Or., April 9.—Very pretty was the April shower party at which Mrs. Andrew Hall was hostess Friday afternoon in honor of her little daughter, Lucille's fourth birthday. Sixteen little children and their mothers were invited to spend the afternoon at

The Fun Shop

By
MAXSON FOXHALL JUDELL

When over head the clouds are gray,
Don't let your spirits be that way.
A bit of laughter or a song
Will brighten things the whole day long.

The Future Will Tell
Fresh Young Man (entering barber shop with air of importance): "How long will I have to wait for a shave?"
Barber: "From the looks of your face, about two years."

He Knew
Dennis: "How was the vacuum-cleaner invented?"
Lawrence: "By watching a flapper suck a soda through a straw."
—Gertrude.

All Done Up About It, Too
Grey: "So your goose is cooked, eh?"
Taylor: "YeEs, ain't it tough?"
—G. O. Campbell.

Provoking Polly
I.
Polly to a lecture went
Where a pale, poetic gent
Said, "How nice it is that 'love' Rhymes so faultlessly with 'dove'."

"Yes," she cried, "and, also, 'junk'
Makes a perfect rhyme with
'bunk'."
—Rosetta Duncan.

II.
Polly, at her morning meal,
Felt her youthful blood congeal.
"Ma," she said, "don't call me
'pet'.
And just one thing don't forget:
If you call me 'Pollyanna'
I'll crown you with this ripe banana."
—Frances Moritz.

III.
Polly's Pa, I grieve to state,
Came home very, very late.
Down the narrow hall he crept,
Hoping everybody slept.
Polly hailed him! Ma awake!
"That," said Polly, "was the joke."
—H. O. Davidson.

Bound to Show
Wright: "Ah, dear, your eyes reflect the iridescent rays of the resplendent sun! Your—"
Alice (hastily): "Stop, please.
You're been doing those cross
word puzzles again!"

FUN SHOP MOVIES

Souls Of Steel
Reel 1
A busy street corner in a great city. Tom Fletcher, face a little drawn, is searching his pockets with the hopeless expression of one who already knows the worst.
He apologetically approaches John Morganfeller, fur-coated in his limousine.

Reel 2
Fletcher: "Beg pardon, Sir but could you—" Morganfeller: "All my charity must go through the regular channels. Apply to my chief disbur-ser, Room 116, National Bank Building, and if your case is worthy—not another word, please."

Reel 3
A pawnshop. With trembling hands Fletcher purchases a revolver.

Reel 4
Comes night, with its flickering shadows. J. P. Astorbilt finds himself looking into the wavering muzzle of Fletcher's .44.
Fletcher: "Stick 'em up!" Astorbilt: "They're up. I have very little money on me. I—" Fletcher: "SHUT UP! All day I've tried to ask a little favor of you heartless cliff dwellers, but not one so far has even heard me out. Now you've got to come across. Gimme a match, darn you!"
—A. H. Hughes.

A Classy Answer!
The teacher was having difficulty in getting her class to distinguish between the word "Miss"
and the abbreviation "Mrs."
After explaining the construction of the words carefully, she asked: "Now, Jimmy, what is the difference between Miss and Mrs?"
"Mr" replied Jimmy.
—Mary J. Dorsey.

In Terms Of Dollars Clifford: "I wonder why such trips as these are called outings?" Holt: "Because that's what you are."
—H. Y. R.
