Idaho Resident Wrathful

His automobile literally covered from bumper to bumper with oil, an Idaho tourist stopped in Salem long enough Friday to wipe some of the oil from his machine. The highway between The Dalles and Pendleton, he said, is literally deluged with oil and gravel not yet placed on the surface. The trip, which was made at night, was hazardous because of the slippery surface of the highway. According to Roy Klein, state highway engineer, if tourists and others would observe the signs that the highway department has placed, designating the speed limit, automobilists would not bespatter their own and other machines.
