Rate Change—There has been little confusion in the transition from the old rates to the new ones in the postal department at Salem, declared authorities here yesterday. The advance information furnished to the large mailers eliminated a great part of the confusion, which might have resulted. It is too early, however, to tell the effect upon the receipts or to give other information. In Salem the change has not been felt by any one group of mailers, but by every one in general, it was stated. There was not much change in the charges on transportation of newspapers and other publication.

This line was damaged by the electrical storm a short time ago.

Church Sale Ready—The Queen Esther circle of the First Methodist church will hold a sale at the church today.

Thompson Given Work—Clarence Thompson, former teller in the state treasurer's office who is serving nine years in the penitentiary for larceny of nearly $5000 of state moneys, has been placed in the office of the chief engineer as bookkeeper.

Club Given Concert—The final concert of the Willamette University Men's Glee club was given in the Waller hall chapel last night. The stage was well decorated with Willamette banners and the club program was well received. The club members report a very successful season.

The record of the 68th congress can be written thus: 1923, sworn in; 1925, cussed out.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

BRADYS ARE NOW IN POCATELLO, IDAHO

They Have Cast Their Fortunes With the Idaho State Journal

J. L. Brady and wife, who were connected with the publications of The Statesman Publishing company up to the first of April, have cast their fortunes with the Idaho State Journal, at Pocatello.

They made a wide circle of friends while they were in Salem, taking part in many lines of good work, and the good wishes of a host of people here will be with them in their new Idaho home.

Governor Brady of Idaho, who was afterwards United States senator from Idaho, and died in that position, was a brother of J. L. Brady, and his sons are prominent in the affairs of that state.

Bits For Breakfast

Going fine—Linen mill canvass—Fine but not fast; and Salem needs to make it both fine and fast.

Salem ought to have a grape juice factory, and the Slogan man wants you to help him prove that this is a good grape country, in the Slogan columns of next Thursday. What do you know about grapes of the right varieties for grape juice, adapted to our conditions? It is your duty to tell.

The Roquefort cheese factory at Falls City, the first of its kind in the United States, is to have the milk of 500 goats this year. Growing decidedly. Getting to be an institution of size. It should be followed with hundreds of its kind in western Oregon. We can help capture the $70,000,000 annual market for Roquefort cheese in this country if we will go at it in earnest. We should tell the world and keep at it everlastingly.

Cynicism: The hard place left where the bilster was.

Service: The fancy touch, furnished free, that makes the bill 10 per cent larger.

Camping affords little thrill in spring. The forests are too green to burn well.

Americanism: Admiring a success; demanding that he stop work and make a speech.

The new international dance won't help much unless it is designed to eliminate stepping on one another's toes.

The nice thing about accepting advice is that we can always blame the fellow who gave it to us.

Habits are something that hard.
