

BLINDFOLD DRIVE IS GREAT SUCCESS

Eyes Not Needed by Mystery Pilot; Murdock Arrested For Speeding

Murdock mystified many yesterday in his blindfold drive through the streets of Salem. He handled the car well and had perfect control of the machine at all times. Only one mistake was made by the driver and that was he stepped on the gas a little too much and was arrested by Officer Hickman. Perhaps if the Statesman had been thoughtful enough to have the mayor and chief of police ride with Murdock, as was reported the case here two years ago, this misdemeanor would have been overlooked. However, Murdock's fine was paid.

The drive, which started in front of the Bligh theater, attracted large crowds all along the route. Many times the car came close to other cars and the curb, but did not hit or scratch anything. Stops were made in front of several business houses and at the Grease Spot the driver headed in and drove up the greasing plank incline.

At the close of the drive Mr. Murdock returned to the Bligh theater and before he got out of the automobile the blindfold was removed by a representative of The Statesman and Fred Delano, of the Salem Automobile company. The black cloth bandage was removed first. Under this was a strip of adhesive tape over each eye, extending from the forehead down over the face and under the tape next to the eyes was a wad of cotton.

Mr. Murdock was very much satisfied with the performance of the Moon car, and dictated the following letter to F. G. Delano, of the Salem Automobile company:

"Please permit me to congratulate you upon the merits of your wonderful new Moon Six, which you placed at my disposal for the blindfold drive.

"In the course of my blindfold drive demonstrations, covering a period of several years, I have necessarily been called upon to use various makes of cars, and it affords me sincere pleasure to say that I found the Moon Six one of the easiest cars to control I have ever driven, while the brakes proved absolutely the ultimate syllable in efficacy.

"With best wishes for a Moon Six record season."

Fractured Vertebra Proves Fatal For Salem Engineer

Injuries received in a fall at his home Sunday proved fatal early Tuesday morning to Elmer T. Busselle, consulting engineer. Mr. Busselle was 47 years old and had lived in Salem for the last 10 years. He was a member of the Elks and Knights of Pythias.

Mr. Busselle lived in Indianapolis, Ind., for a number of years, where he was connected with the Bell Telephone company as chief inspector.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Goldie Busselle; his mother, Mrs. Kate Busselle; two sons, Earl, 22, and Albert, 19, and a sister, Miss Ruby Busselle. The mother and sister live in Portland.

FRANK JUE—Tenor

Frank Jue is the Tenor Soloist in the concert of the combined University of Oregon Glee Clubs and Orchestra here Thursday, April 23, at the Grand theater. He has appeared here before in Glee Club concerts and this winter before the Evans' Men's Bible club.

This is the first season the three clubs have been combined in one concert. The effect gained is surprising. The program is varied. Seats will be on sale at the Grand theater Wednesday and Thursday.

Man Dies As Pauper; Is Owner of Ranches

Frank Logan, 85, who sometimes went by the name of Miller, died in Salem of paralysis. He was found unconscious in his shack at Eola. As he was considered a pauper, the county court took charge and ordered him taken to a hospital at Salem. The body was turned over to A. L. Keeney, coroner, to be buried at county expense. In searching the effects the coroner found letters from a brother at Barton Mills, Washington county, Ohio, stating that Mr. Logan was sole heir to a farm in Ohio worth from $75,000 to $80,000.

Mr. Logan came to Polk county about a year ago and last fall worked in the hopyards. The coroner is holding the body pending word from relatives in the east.

RELIEF CAMPAIGN BEGAN ON CAMPUS

University Student YMCA-YWCA Seeking to Aid Foreign Students

A campaign to raise $300 for the relief of foreign students was started by the Willamette university student YM-YWCA yesterday. One hundred dollars of the fund is to go to the Ging Ling Chinese college and the remainder is to be used in other fields.

The campaign is under the direction of Miss Jennelle Vandevort, former YW president, and the chapel exercises yesterday were featured by a short talk given by a Russian student, Crothers, who has been a political prisoner in Russia and who understands the conditions in Europe from first hand experience.

It was pointed out that a great number of foreign students have to struggle for a long time to get enough money to attend a college, and that some who are not strong enough cannot stand the struggle, and as a result lose all faith in themselves and in humanity. The feeling that other students are helping them in their work, however, does a great deal to holding their faith and gives them moral support to continue their work.

DEATH CALLS TO SILVERTON WOMAN

Mrs. J. P. Larsen Passes Away Sunday Morning; Ill But Few Days

SILVERTON, Or., April 21.—(Special to The Statesman.)—Mrs. J. P. Larsen died at 10:30 at the Larsen home on Second street Sunday evening following an illness of a few days. Arrangements for the funeral services have not been made as word is awaited from children in eastern states.

Mrs. Larsen was 78 years old last August and for the past few years has been ill a great deal. Mr. and Mrs. Larsen came to Oregon in 1900 and have since made Silvertown their home. For several years Mr. Larsen owned and managed a farm on Paradise and Waldo Hills road. For the past few years they have made their home at Silvertown. Last December Mr. and Mrs. Larsen celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Larsen leaves seven children, Axel Larsen, a Silvertown jeweler, Joseph Larsen of Montana, Christian Larsen of South Dakota, Mrs. Valdemar Sorenson of Minnesota, Mrs. Soren Riss, Mrs. Carrie Larsen and Mrs. Anne Ladegaard of Iowa. She also leaves two sis-

ANCIENT CITY AND BONES OF MAN AND DOG, BURIED 10,000 YEARS, UNEARTHED IN SOUTHERN NEVADA DESERT

Headed by M. R. Harrington, an expedition of the Museum of the American Indian, Heye Foundation, has unearthed an ancient city buried by the shifting sands of the Mohave Desert. It is believed to be the oldest in the world and is said to be the site of a civilization that existed on the American continent some 10,000 years ago. The city stretches for six miles along the Muddy River between St. Thomas and Overton. The lower photograph shows the bones of a man and a dog unearthed during the excavation of the ruins. Twenty rooms of the old pueblo dwelling have been unearthed. Ancient pottery was found with the bones.

STREET BONDS IN NEW HIGH RECORD

Salem Bank Pays Premium of $7.41 for Each $100 of $40,383 Issued

Setting a high record mark in the history of the sale of street improvement bonds, the City of Salem secured $107.41 per $100 on the total issue of $40,383 last night. Never before has such a price been paid for street improvement bonds in this city. The United States National bank of Salem was the successful.

Six bidders were in the field, with the bids ranging from $105.69 per $100 to the highest one quoted. Portland and Salem firms were represented in the bidding.

character and motives and ambitions and they come to know whether he is out for the accomplishment of public good, irrespective of its personal effect upon him, or whether he is first for keeping in office or getting into another."

Between the luncheon courses and during Mr. Noyes' presidential address, Mr. Dawes puffed briskly at his famous inverted pipe. It came out of his pocket during the first course and he put it away only as he was being introduced. Between puffs he chatted with Mr. Noyes, General Pershing, Owen D. Young, his colleague in the reparations report, Melville E. Stone, counselor and former general manager of The Associated Press, and other guests at the speakers table, once leaving his chair to converse with a friend several seats away.

Mr. Dawes prefaced his prepared speech, which he assured the audience was only 12 minutes long with an extemporaneous tribute to "the pioneers of the AP." Referring particularly to Mr. Stone and Victor F. Lawson, who established the association in its present form 25 years ago. Then picking up his address, Mr. Dawes said:

"Now I'll get down to business. I hate to do this," and proceeded to read his speech.

His appeal to the people to support the move for a closure reform was not "in a spirit of hostility," Mr. Dawes insisted. "It is," he added, "to form and present an issue upon which a fair test of public opinion can be made. It is to the end that those who are the source of governmental power may express themselves upon a remedy in a lawful way."

Mr. Dawes opened his remarks with the announcement that the audience was "the best and the most important," that he would be called upon to address during the rest of his administration.

of perfection in earthly existence, but we can provide an era of peace and prosperity, attended with freedom and justice and made more and more satisfying by the ministrations of the charities and humanities of life."

Reiterating his plea for economy in government, the president asserted that the nation must make progress in an orderly, sound, common sense way. The right of private property and self government within limits "imposed not by the fiat of man, but by the law of the Creator," he described as the foundation of American government.

"Our domestic problems are for the most part economic," he said. "We have our enormous debt to pay and we are paying it. We have the high cost of government to diminish and we are diminishing it. We have a heavy burden of taxation to reduce and we are reducing it. While remarkable progress has been made, the work is yet far from accomplished."

Asserting it is axiomatic that America must go forward, the president at the same time warned against pretenses and vagaries and against abandonment of the principles of the Declaration of Independence. Living under these principles, the American people have come into great material and spiritual possessions, he said.

VIOLA DANA

HERE is a picture with just one laugh; but it starts with the first scene and ends with the last. You've never seen anything quite so clever and funny. A merry melo-drama about a blundering Englishman who plays detective and uncovers a case of comedy, thrills and clever nonsense. With cast of funmakers and a wonderful new dog star.
